KIDNAPERS KILL AND CONFESS

COL. M'CORMICK DEFENDS PRESS FREEDOM RIGHT

Calls Regimentation Unconstitutional.

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, tonight expressed the opinion that the regimentation of American newspapers under a national recovery code was not permitted by the United States constitution.

Col. McCormick, who reviewed the history of the long fight to establish the freedom of the press, spoke at the 165th anniversary banquet of the New York State Chamber of Commerce.

He said whatever may be the advantage of code control of industry, "it is obvious that if the newspapers of the country are regimented together and placed as a class under a government authority they will not enjoy the unlimited freedom that had been their lot since the expiration of the sedition laws."

"If once the press is segregated for regulation," he asserted, "it may be destroyed as was the press of England under the special tax laws. Therefore, it is highly questionable whether such regimentation is permissible under the first amendment [to the United States constitution]. In my opinion, it is not."

TEXT OF THE SPEECH

The text of the address by Col. McCormick follows:

The right to exercise religion, to speak freely, and to petition the government is obvious to all. To some the right to a free press is not equally clear, yet, upon a moment's reflection, everybody will realize that religion could not be exercised freely if religious doctrines might not be printed, nor would the right to speak freely avail much if speeches could not be published.

What would have been the value of Patrick Henry's great oration if it had only been written in words upon the wind? How much permanent effect would have come from our Declaration of Independence had it never been published?

Nor is the right to petition of the government of value unless that petition may be printed. Therefore it becomes plain that the right to a free press is indispensable to freedom of speech, freedom of petition, and freedom of religion.

License

Hardly had Caxton brought the printing press to England, when it was put under license, the conduct of which was placed in the hands of the Court of the Star Chamber, an arbitrary tribunal entirely under the control of the king and not subject to any of the rules of law.

License

The press continued under license during the reigns of Henry VIII, Mary, Edward VI and Elizabeth. In the reign of James newspapers were established in England under great tyranny and abuse. The harsh punishments inflicted upon publishers included the pillory, the stocks, tongue slittings, cutting off of ears, and hangings.

The tyranny grew worse under Charles I, until the revolution, when the king was beheaded and the Star Chamber was abolished.

Licensing

The Long Parliament, although it had overthrown the tyrannous king, immediately enacted a licensing law to control the press in its own interest.

Then it was that John Milton wrote his famous essay, "Areopagitica," expounding the freedom of the press, in which he uttered:

> "Give me the liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties."

But his views did not prevail.

After the restoration of Charles II. Parliament renewed licensing again until the year 1679, when it refused to reënact the law. Thereupon Chief Justice Scroggs, one of the evil names in judicial history, invented the theory that the king had the common law right of licensing and declared it a criminal act to punish without the royal consent.

Licensing

James II, during his brief period of influence, persuaded his parliament to renew the licensing act, and it was renewed from time to time until 1694. In the reign of William and Mary, when it expired, and when because of

Austrians Raid Nazi Ship and Fight Germans

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 16.—A ship was boarded and a deck battle fought, as lusty as any of Jack London's, today, and on the Danube of all places.

It happened at Linz, upstream from Vienna, and was perhaps the most picturesque episode to date in the unofficial war that is raging between Hitlerland and little Austria.

When the fine new motorship Fugger of the Bavarian Lloyd, coming down from Ratisbon en route to Vienna and Budapest, tied up at the quay at Linz, Austrian police clambered aboard with a search warrant. They had reason to believe that the Danube, which daily floats swastika emblems and sometimes corpses down from Germany, was floating more than that.

Find Brown Uniforms.

They were right, for they found bales of Hitlerite propaganda, brown uniforms, and letters of instruction destined for Nazi chiefs at Linz, where a Nazi plot to stage a coup d'état was uncovered a few weeks ago, and in other parts of Austria. They arrested Capt. Josef Brunner and Pilot Josef Zehent Bauer, both Germans, or thought they had. At a signal from Brunner the crew of the Fugger leaped on the raiders, liberated the prisoners, and drove the battered police ashore.

A call was sent for the riot squad, which, with all of Linz watching from the river bank, constituted itself into a boarding party and rushed the Fugger's gangplank. The crew met them with drawn revolvers, but, although fighting like wildcats, they fired no shots. The boarders forced their way to the pilot house and collared the skipper and pilot again, but only after a five minute knock down and drag out affair in which Brunner used his fists with great effect. The two of them eventually had to be tied with ropes and carried off the ship.

With the crew in hand, the raiders saw to the unloading of the contraband and immediately began to round up Nazis.

Nazi Activities Silenced.

VIENNA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Austrian news service Korrespondenz Herzog reported today the government has decided to eliminate from the newspapers reports of Nazi activities, such as noise bombings and displaying the swastika.

In other words, silence will be employed as a weapon against Nazi disturbances and explosions from now on are to be heard only as far as the noise actually carries.

4 HURLED FROM PLANE; ALL FLOAT SAFELY TO EARTH IN NEW DEVICE

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—By pulling a lever twice the pilot of a transport type airplane flying over Roosevelt field today ejected three men and a woman through doors in the sides of the fuselage and, sitting calmly in the chairs in which they had been riding, they floated down to the ground in safety.

The demonstration was the first public showing here, with living subjects, of a device designed to enhance the safety of air travel which was invented by Harry P. Trusty of Los Angeles, who with his wife witnessed the test. Its purpose is to allow the pilot of a plane in time of emergency to evacuate passenger cabins at will. The passengers, seated in their metal framed chairs and with safety belts fastened, have nothing to say about it. They simply pass suddenly out through folding doors which open in the walls and begin their descent.

Broker Shot; Robbers Try to Kidnap Him

Russell L. Blount, 57 years old, mortgage broker and manager of a currency exchange, was shot and seriously wounded early last evening by one of three men who appeared at his home, 1740 West 104th place, apparently with the intention of kidnaping him.

Investigation convinced the Morgan Park police that the trio intended to take Blount to the currency exchange at 6958 Wentworth avenue and compel him to open his safe.

"Don't Shoot," Bandit Cries.

In the house at the time of the shooting besides Blount were his wife and their 20 year old daughter, Betsy. The mortgage broker had gone to the front door to answer a ring. There was a short conversation and then Miss Blount heard a strange voice say, "Don't shoot!"

It was later established that Blount had pointed a tear gas gun of fountain pen shape at a man on the porch and had fired it. He then slammed the door and ran to the kitchen to bar a rear door. But one of two confederates of the man at the front fired at him. The bullet struck in the right side of his chest.

Son Sees Three Flee.

The trio then fled. They were seen from a distance by Lauren Blount, 19 years old, son of the victim and a student at Northwestern university. The youth was on his way home. He told the police the men fled in an automobile.

Walter O. Salmon, vice president of the Russell L. Blount company, the mortgage concern, said he knew of no trouble Blount had had with any customers. He recalled that his chief had been held up in his office several years ago. It would have done robbers no good, Salmon added, to raid the currency exchange, for its funds had been sent downtown by armored truck during the afternoon.

The wounded man was taken to the Roseland Community hospital.

Rep. J. M. Beck Attacks Johnson and Blue Eagle

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania said tonight that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, has assumed the "tone of a brutal taskmaster, cracking a whip at the industrial forces of America." Congressman Beck, in an address before the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, said the NRA is fundamentally unconstitutional, and called the Blue Eagle "a symbol of economic bondage."

JOBS CREATED FOR 187,000 ON RELIEF ROLLS

Start Federal Work Projects Monday.

Jobs for 187,000 idle men now on the Illinois relief rolls will be created at once as part of the $400,000,000 reëmployment program put into operation yesterday by the civil works administration in Washington. Eighty thousand men will go to work next week in Illinois. The rest of the quota of 187,000 heads of families will be at work before the end of the month, it was announced.

The order to proceed with all haste with civil works projects in Illinois was given by Gov. Horner yesterday in Washington. The governor received authority from Harry L. Hopkins, civil works administrator, to transfer 187,000 men from the relief rolls to federal pay rolls. Gov. Horner telephoned this order to officials in Springfield.

In full operation it is estimated the civil works program will take approximately 90 per cent of the families off the Illinois relief rolls. This would reduce the rolls from 207,025 families, the present figure, to a total of 20,000 families for the entire state. By the same ratio it would reduce the families receiving aid in Cook county from 116,446 to approximately 12,000.

Chicago Asks $59,410,000.

The Chicago local governments have outlined work projects and have requested funds totaling $59,410,000 for the employment of 102,253 workers in the city. These include projects planned by the city, sanitary district, school board, and the Lincoln, west, and south park systems. Officials last night did not expect that these requests would be granted in full.

All Illinois civil works projects will be considered at a meeting at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the Congress hotel, at which Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, will preside. The relief commission is administrator of the federal works funds in the state. Howard O. Hunter, a member of the federal administrator's staff, will be at the meeting to explain methods of operation.

Will Decide on Projects.

The heads of all county relief organizations have been invited to attend the meeting to present their plans for civil works projects in their respective counties. Each county representative will be informed of his county's quota of employment and the proposed projects will be accepted or turned down at that meeting, relief commission officials said.

The Chicago local governments have made the following job and fund requests:

Government—	Jobs	Funds requested
City	85,000	$50,800,000
Sanitary district....	4,000	700,000
School board........	1,500	1,500,000
West parks..........	3,864	2,002,000
Lincoln park........	5,889	2,408,000
South parks........	2,000	2,000,000
Totals...........	102,253	$59,410,000

Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, plans to ask for sufficient funds to create 15,000 jobs, he announced before leaving for Washington earlier in the week to attend the civil works conference. He said 10,000 workers could be used in the forest preserves and five thousand in rehabilitation of county properties.

Set Minimum Wages.

At the Washington conference yesterday it was announced that minimum wages to be paid workers in the northern zone, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa, are 50 cents an hour for common labor and range upward for various degrees of skilled labor to a top of $1.20 an hour.

The 187,000 men to be taken off the relief rolls will be heads of families, it was said. They will work a thirty hour week and will be required to support themselves and their families on their earnings. They will receive no other form of public relief.

Women who are the heads of families on the relief rolls, as well as men, will be given jobs, it was announced. Relief officials last night were unable to say what type of jobs would be open to women.

Financing of Projects.

Administrator Hopkins announced that the states must provide materials used on the projects, however, and must continue to supply funds for direct relief to those who are not taken from the relief rolls under the reëmployment program.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt, whose program of civil works projects for the city is the

Asked Ransom After Hurling Heir Into Bay

(Pictures on Back Page.)

San José, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The kidnaping of Brooke Hart, 22, son of a wealthy San José merchant, came to a tragic climax today with the announcement by the police and intermediaries that two men, both members of respected San José families, had confessed they seized and killed the young man and then demanded $40,000 from the father for the return of his son "alive." After the killing they divided $7.50 they had stolen from their victim.

The confessed kidnapers and killers are Thomas H. Thurmon, 29, and Jack Holmes, 27.

Louis O'Neal, attorney and political leader, announced the confession on the authority of Chief of Police J. H. Black of San José and some federal agents.

Seized in Phone Booth.

It came a few hours after Thurmond had been yanked out of a telephone booth by Sheriff William J. Emig just after he had finished telephoning the Hart home from a San José garage early this morning. Holmes was found in a hotel near by a few hours later.

With the same speed that officers showed in seizing the suspects, Emig and his deputies, reinforced by federal agents, took Thurmond and Holmes to San Francisco for safe keeping. After the confession was made known, crowds began to form about the courthouse here and officers said public feeling against the two was intense.

Tied, Thrown from Bridge.

Returning to San José, Emig announced Holmes had made a confession coinciding with that of Thurmond. Both prisoners, officers said, confessed they took Hart to the San Mateo bridge across San Francisco bay, beat him, until he was unconscious, with a brick, tied his arms with baling wire, weighted him down and threw him into the water as he struggled weakly.

Grappling for the body was begun at the point mentioned even before the confession was announced.

Men familiar with the waters said their efforts probably would be futile unless the body had been sufficiently weighted to prevent its being carried to the wider reaches of the bay or out to sea.

Family Crushed by News.

The youth's father collapsed when told that his son had been killed. Max Blum, a personal friend, broke the news to him.

"Alex," said Blum, "your boy is dead."

The elder Hart attempted to speak, but fainted.

Mrs. Hart, who was operated on not many weeks ago, was reported in a precarious condition at her home and under the care of physicians. The younger brother and sister of the slain youth were prostrated by the news.

Story Attributed to Thurmond.

The confession of Thurmond as made public by Mr. O'Neal said:

"I have known Jack Holmes approximately one year. Approximately five or six weeks ago he approached me with a plan to kidnap Brooke and hold him for ransom.

"We discussed this matter on one or two occasions and Thursday, Nov. 9, shortly before 6 o'clock, Holmes and I saw Brooke Hart come to a parking lot where he parked his roadster. Holmes and I had previously planned just how we would kidnap him.

"Jack Holmes was to get in Hart's car as it approached Market street and I was to follow in another car which belonged to Jack Holmes.

"On the 9th of November Brooke Hart obtained his roadster from the lot

GOLD STANDARD RETURN FADING IN MORGENTHAU

New Treasury Staff Dims Hope.

Fight U. S. Plans

LONDON, Nov. 17.—[Friday.]—(AP)—The financial editor of the Herald said in an article today that Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, were coöperating in a determined fight to defeat President Roosevelt's monetary plans.

The financial editor said the bank heads interpreted President Roosevelt's policy as a deliberate attempt to force France off the gold standard and create a dollar dictatorship as a prelude to establishing a new world-wide currency system and obtaining control of the international gold market.

He said he believed recent gold withdrawals from France were much greater than announced and that but for the support of the Bank of England through its exchange equalization account would have caused a drastic slump in the French exchange and possibly France's abandonment of gold.

The editor claimed to have information that the Bank of England in the last few days had bought hundreds of millions of francs in view of preventing the fall.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Hopes for America's return to the gold standard and a firm dollar have gone far into the limberlost with the rise of the new Morgenthau régime in the United States treasury.

No official announcement of Mr. Morgenthau's policies—which it may be emphasized will be strictly Roosevelt policies—has been issued, but it was learned today that stabilization of the currency is regarded by the administration as a faint prayer and a far hope.

It is not that the administration is opposed to sound money, but that its leaders have convinced themselves that stabilization is an impossible aim at this time, and in this view, it was learned, they have forced some of the leading devotees of the gold standard to give their reluctant assent.

Fixed Standard Impracticable.

Even if the President is able to force prices to the point he would attain and even if the gold value of the American dollar is cut a full 50 per cent, it will still be impracticable, in the view of the new monetary bosses of the government, to fix a permanent value for the nation's currency.

Business and bankers have declared that full expansion of the credit structure of the country is impossible until lenders have some assurance that the money they loan will be repaid in currency of like value.

The Roosevelt money advisers, however, while granting the force of the bankers' plea, assert that international complications make the return to gold at this time, and for some time in the future, out of the question.

Fear European Reprisals.

They point out that if the President should adopt a fixed gold value for the dollar at this time and restore a free gold market in the United States the nations of Europe which are suffering and smarting under the fall of the dollar would immediately commence reprisals under which the United States would be helpless.

England, whose pound yesterday was selling in London at a new high of $5.47, easing off to close at $5.38, has been sustaining important trade losses from the cheapness of the dollar. If the United States should stabilize, England could at once manipulate the pound, it was pointed out, to bring the dollar up to any mark with which England desired to fortify her trade position.

France, sustaining greater disparity with the dollar than England has, might take effective action to raise the dollar value, once the United States established a permanent gold basis, it was said. There is now a financial crisis in France, with gold moving out and the cabinet likely to fall.

Need World Agreement.

Consequently, it was shown, the United States cannot afford to stabilize alone, and the only alternative indicated would be to seek an international agreement under which England, France, Germany, and Italy, at least, should agree with the United States on the respective values of their currencies, and all stabilize simultaneously.

In the present state of financial disorder existing throughout the world, with every nation suspicious and intolerant of every other, it is generally recognized that such an agreement could not be reached. England and France, for example, would not submit to a valuation of the dollar low enough to meet the purposes of President Roosevelt's domestic price lifting program.

So it appears that in the view of the administration nothing can be done toward stabilization and a return to gold standards until all nations have adjusted their internal affairs, effected the necessary monetary adjustments, and be brought to an international agreement on currency values.

Attitude of Critics.

This, it is conceded, is a very far cry, indeed, and the President is faced with the necessity for pushing ahead with his gold purchasing scheme for stripping value from the dollar. His critics who are aware of the situation now attack him, not on his refusal to stabilize, but for putting the country on an inflationary road which some of the critics believe will lead to the chaotic ruin of American currency.

The extent to which the President is keeping his monetary policies to himself was reflected yesterday when Senator Robert Bulkley of Ohio, a Democratic member of the banking and currency committee, declared after a short visit with Mr. Roosevelt that in his (Bulkley's) opinion the country would be able, after the "temporary experimental purchases of gold," to return to a fixed gold content in the dollar. He confessed, however, that he did not know whether this might be achieved "in a few weeks or months."

Senator Bulkley declared that the federal insurance deposit plan was doing much more good than the public has realized.

Bulkley Is Optimistic.

"Business is now on the upgrade," he said, "and by Jan. 1 will be better, as business begins to feel the benefits of the public works program and the federal insurance of bank deposits."

The President has not counseled of late with any of the senate or party leaders and is pursuing his monetary policy chiefly on the advice of Prof. George Warren and Prof. James H. Rogers and of Mr. Morgenthau.

A meeting of the senate inflationists will be held here tomorrow, called by Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.]. The conference, which observers declare will have little if any effect on the Roosevelt policies, is to be attended, in addition to the inflationist senators, by members of the committee for the nation, a citizens' group which has been campaigning for devaluation of the gold content of the dollar.

For the third consecutive day, no advance was made in the announced price for gold being purchased by the RFC under the President's direction, and the published price remained at $33.56 an ounce.

Dollar Rallies a Bit.

Economists have expressed varying opinion as to whether the downward trend of the dollar in recent days, despite the lack of change in the gold quotation, might not prove that the President's program is in danger of putting the dollar on the skids with such rapidity that it will get out of hand entirely. But today the dollar rallied, showing slight net change from yesterday.

The decline in government bonds, which brought fright to the older heads in the treasury Tuesday and Wednesday, was also halted today.

On the other hand, commodities continued to climb. Grains, cotton, sugar, and silver were all up. The stock market averages made a gain of about 4½ points for the day. The speculative market operators' reaction to the Morgenthau appointment, it was declared, and reflected their assurance that the President will continue his price raising efforts.

Fall of French Cabinet Looms in Financial Crisis

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 16.—With the gold reserves of the Bank of France receding to the lowest level since June, 1932, and withdrawals of foreign capital provoking a veritable hemorrhage of the yellow metal, the franc now is facing a run which has even the stanchest optimists of this country uneasy.

The filing today by the government of its finance bill for filling the 6 billion franc deficit $384,000,000 at today's rate of exchange] only increased the agitation. It speedily became apparent that Premier Albert Sarraut had found no way of escaping from the budgetary dilemma which cost the life of Edouard Daladier's government last month and the initial reaction of the chamber of deputies to the project was almost universally hostile.

It was freely predicted today that the bill will be rejected by a majority of the finance committee which began to consider it today and that in all probability Sarraut 20-day old government will be overthrown next Tuesday.

Flight of Gold Franc.

An indication of how really bad the position of the franc has become was given this morning by Finance Minister George Bonnet at the Radical Socialist party caucus. Several reliable newspapers quote the finance minister as declaring that about 2 billion gold francs [about $128,000,000] had left the country "in the last few days." By the last few days Bonnet apparently means the period since the governmental crisis got under way.

The statement of the Bank of France for the week ended Nov. 9, showed a loss of 730,000,000 gold francs [about $46,720,000]. Added to the losses of the preceding two weeks a total of 1,750,000,000 frances [$112,000,000] of the precious metal has flowed out of the coffers of the Bank of France in the period between Oct. 20 and Nov. 9. As there is good reason to believe that this week's loss of gold exceeded last week's, considerably more than 2 billion francs have gone out of the country since Oct. 20.

At the party caucus Bonnet warned the radical Socialist deputies that withdrawal of foreign short term capital is becoming more precipitate and that the treasury is having difficulty in getting banks to renew its 90 day bonds—a particularly bad symptom for the government's credit.

With today's statement, the Bank of France likewise revealed that the legendary gold hoard which on Sept. 2, 1932, had reached the record figure of 83,359,000,000 francs has now dropped to 80,018,000,000—the level at the beginning of the summer of 1932, just before the heavy shipments of the American metal started. This is still an enormous reserve compared to the bank's normal needs and the percentage of coverage has not dropped from last week's level of 79.6 per cent.

The greatest danger to the franc comes from the inability of the present chamber to put an end to the massacre of governments over budget bills.

The bill presented by Sarraut is only designed to fill half the budget hole as a starter, and there are limited provision for diminishing tax dodging and for administrative economies. The economies are to be realized mainly by increasing the levy on civil servants' salaries for the pension fund from 6 to 10 per cent.

Socialists Up In Arms.

The civil servants refuse to accept this any more than they refused to accept the Daladier crisis surtax. Their union met today to organize the fight against the bill. Without even waiting to hear the government, Socialists of all compleixons announced they are going to vote against it. This means sure and quick defeat of the cabinet unless the right wing comes to Sarraut's rescue and his measures against tax dodgers are fairly sure to prevent that from happening.

If the governmental massacre is continued much longer the franc surely will be doomed, but hope is entertained that before it is too late some new Poincare will arise to forge a patriotic union of parties and stave off disaster.

It was this hope which kept business circles from beleng unduly pessimistic when Daladier fell. The situation is drastically changed since then, however. The new factor is the destruction of the link between the pound and dollar and the return of sterling to its former rôle of refuge currency to which capitals can flee.

While the dollar and pound both were falling, the pressure on the franc could not get serious because there was no place outside France for capital to fly to. Now that London has hoisted the flag of monetary stability, a rush has started to transfer capital from Paris to London and the franc is no longer without competition.

24 MILLION LOST IN WAGES BY 1,100 STRIKES IN U. S.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A wage loss of about $24,000,000 has resulted from 1,100 strikes throughout the country in the last four months, it was estimated today by the National Association of Manufacturers, which computed the lost time at 7,000,000 working days.

"The direct cost to the employers [of four months of strikes] is $6,500,000," said the association's announcement, "and there is a further inestimable loss in the products that would have been manufactured in the work hours wasted in strike.

Secretary Perkins Will Talk in Chicago Tonight

Her talk will be an event of the first ladies night of the club season. More than 500 members of Chicago society are to be present. Miss Perkins will attend a dinner in the club at 7 o'clock and will speak at 8 o'clock.

MYERS TO FILL PLACE VACATED BY MORGENTHAU

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today designated William I. Myers, the deputy governor of the farm credit administration, to succeed Henry Morgenthau Jr., as the governor.

Myers will take office as soon as Morgenthau is sworn in tomorrow as the undersecretary of the treasury.

Myers, a former professor of agriculture economics at Cornell university, was brought to Washington by Morgenthau as his first assistant.

JOBS CREATED FOR 187,000 ON RELIEF ROLLS

Federal Work Projects to Start Monday.

largest in the state, has every bureau head in his department working day and night at top speed creating an organization that will put 85,000 idle men in Chicago to work. This is the number of jobs for which Mayor Kelly requested funds. The mayor accompanied Gov. Horner to Washington.

Need Money for Tools.

Work will start on the city projects Monday, Hewitt said. He was unable to estimate how many men will go to work on that day because he does not know where funds to purchase tools and supplies will come from.

Commissioner Hewitt announced the following partial list of projects for city bureaus:

POLICE DEPARTMENT—Amount asked, $544,000. The department has requested 2,000 men to perform police duty paired with experienced patrolmen.

BUREAU OF RIVERS AND HARBORS—Amount asked, $663,000. Projects will include painting the interior of Navy pier and all city bridges. This work can start Monday.

BUREAU OF BUILDING MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR—Amount asked, $1,237,000. Projects include painting and calcimining every police and fire station, public bathhouse, and ward yardhouse in the city; renovating the interior of the city hall; moving 165 portable school houses to the Municipal Tubeculosis sanitarium, where they will provide room for 1,000 additional beds at a cost of $30,000.

BUREAU OF COMPENSATION—Amount asked, $22,000. Survey will be made of all canopies over sidewalks, switchtracks, and other privileges for which the city charges a fee. This work is expected to become self-supporting.

BUREAU OF SEWERS—Amount asked, $2,502,000. Projects include scraping and cleaning 38 miles of sewers and clean catch basins.

BUREAU OF MAPS—Amount asked, $129,000 to canvass the city for buildings without street numbers and stencil the numbers upon each building with the owner's permission.

BUREAU OF WATER—Amount asked, $78,000 to conduct miscellaneous investigations.

BUREAU OF STREETS—Amount asked, $34,118,000. For resurfacing pavements and cleaning streets and alleys.

BUREAU OF ENGINEERING—Amount asked, $4,564,000. To repair all leaking water mains and other public plumbing, starting on the south side of the city and working north.

BUREAU OF PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS—Amount asked, $4,949,000. Plant 50,000 trees now at the municipal nursery on 5,000 miles of parkway in the city; drain, grade and level the Chicago airport. When weather conditions permit new runways will be built and the present ones widened. Clean city parks and beaches.

BOARD OF LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS—Amount asked, $1,200,000. Repair sidewalks in all parts of the city.

DEPARTMENT OF GAS AND ELECTRICITY—Amount asked, $298,000. Miscellaneous construction.

FIRE DEPARTMENT—Amount asked, $529,000. Will use 855 men at miscellaneous work.

Other civil works projects in the city include:

SANITARY DISTRICT—Paint bridges, clean sewers, dig ditches, renovate plants.

SCHOOL BOARD—Paint and decorate schools, landscape grounds, clean buildings, and recondition playgrounds.

LINCOLN PARK—Landscape and plant 60 acres created in the Montrose extension and install a water system; move the bridle path on the west side of Lake Shore drive, from North avenue to Diversey parkway, to the east side of the drive; make the old bridle path a wide sidewalk; move electric light poles back from the roadways, and screen the sand on all beaches.

SOUTH PARKS—Clean ponds, beaches, and repair water works and the sewer system.

WEST PARKS—Clean the lagoons, repair fieldhouses, and landscape the grounds.

Persons on the relief rolls are urged by relief officials not to attempt to obtain federal jobs, but to wait until they are called by the relief agencies. The jobs will be created as rapidly as possible. Classifications of the employment of all persons on the rolls have been prepared by the relief agencies. All kinds of skilled and unskilled labor will be needed.

The workers on the civil works projects will be paid by the veterans' bureau regional office. They will be paid by check.

ITALY TO FIGHT FALLING DOLLAR WITH TARIFF

ROME, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A royal decree was made public tonight authorizing the government to increase tariffs when necessary as a protection for Italian trade against depreciation in the value of foreign currencies.

The decree specified that tariffs may be raised sufficiently high to counteract the effect of depreciated currency in those cases where any section of domestic production would be seriously injured by cheapened imports.

Italy gave official notice on Monday that it could no longer be bound by terms of the tariff truce negotiated at the world economic conference in London.

HORNER, KELLY ASK U. S. HELP FOR STATE, CITY

The Latter Proposes New Alarm System.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner and Mayor Edward J. Kelly left for home on the same train tonight. They had concluded a series of conferences with federal government officials on widely divergent subjects, concerning Illinois and Chicago.

Gov. Horner had seen Chairman Robert F. Wagner of the national labor board in connection with the Illinois mine disorders. He had talked with officials of the farm adjustment administration on processing taxes on relief foodstuffs purchased by the state. He had seen Postmaster General James A. Farley, patronage boss of the Roosevelt administration.

Mayor Kelly's day included calls on George N. Peek, farm administrator, with a new plea for a federal investigation into Chicago's tangled milk situation; talked with Harold L. Ickes, public works administrator, on plans for several new projects; had conferred with Walter J. Cummings, head of the federal deposit insurance corporation; and chatted with Mr. Farley.

Both Pleased by Visit.

Both officials left the capital expressing satisfaction with the new civil works program to be launched at once by the government. Gov. Horner said the quota of 186,750 jobs allotted to Illinois today by Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, was fair and equitable. Mayor Kelly likewise declared he believed the quota large enough to create a large number of jobs in Chicago.

The mayor presented two new construction projects in Chicago for the consideration of Secretary Ickes. One, a new fire alarm system, would involve a total expenditure of ten million dollars, Mr. Kelly said. The other, a filtration system, would call for a total outlay of sixteen millions. Neither project has yet been formally presented to the Illinois state public works board, according to the mayor.

At his conference with Mr. Ickes, Mayor Kelly likewise discussed the outer drive bridge project and the elevated highway. He said Mr. Ickes promised to give his immediate personal attention to the former and to press the latter as rapidly as possible.

Farm Administrator Peek, according to the mayor, reiterated his previous promise to call a special hearing in Chicago to go into the entire milk situation. Mr. Peek stated he would fix a date for the investigation as soon as possible, Mayor Kelly said, probably at the conclusion of the current "trial" of alleged milk code violators in the federal building.

The mayor's call upon Mr. Cummings, head of the Deposit Guarantee corporation, had to do with the possible sale of Chicago school bonds to obtain funds for teachers' back pay.

Gov. Horner spent most of his day with Jerome Frank, general counsel for the agricultural adjustment administration, seeking an adjustment of the method by which the state pays the processing taxes on foodstuffs purchased for relief purposes.

Strives for Mine Peace.

The problem of settling the downstate Illinois mine disorders through the national labor board was discussed by the governor with Senator Wagner and Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady.

Although the governor declined to comment on the matter, it was understood he sought a rearrangement of the labor board to give representation to the Progressive Miners' union, which is at odds with the United Mine Workers, from which its members broke away.

With Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly when they left the capital were Robert J. Dunham, Illinois relief commissioner; Emmett Whealan, president of the Cook county board; Patrick Nash, Illinois Democratic national committeeman, and several other officials.

Thomas J. Bowler, president of the Chicago sanitary district, remained in Washington until tomorrow. Together with Ross Woodhull, chairman of the sanitary district finance committee, Mr. Bowler is negotiating with public works officials for a new allotment of thirty-three million dollars for the prosecution of work on the Chicago drainage system, which can be completed within two years.

Under the plan now being considered, Mr. Bowler stated, the district would receive the thirty-three millions on the same basis as the eight millions it has already obtained for work previously under construction.

HORNER TO CALL LIQUOR SESSION TO OPEN TUESDAY

Aldermen Meet Today to Frame Control Plan.

The Illinois general assembly probably will meet next Tuesday to tackle the problem of liquor control legislation. That date will allow it exactly two weeks in which to work before repeal becomes a reality on Dec. 5.

As he was leaving Washington yesterday, Gov. Horner said that as soon as he reaches Springfield today he will turn his attention exclusively to the call for the second special session of the legislature with the intention of issuing it at once so that work may be begun on Tuesday.

In doing so he indicated his realization that he faces a serious problem because of the multiplicity of topics he has been asked to include in the call. The total is nearly 100, and, because of the shortness of time for sifting them out if he is to act at once, the governor may determine to call one immediate session confined to the subject of liquor and to sort out the other scores of subjects and include them in the province of an additional or third special session.

Meet Today on City Ordinance.

But while waiting for a definite announcement from the governor, a subcommittee of the Chicago city council will meet today to consider what municipal laws should be adopted if the state fails to act by Dec. 5 or if on or about that date it gives the cities, villages and counties the home rule they seek.

As the matter of state legislation now stands there is merely the skeleton of a bill outlining main principles which is still in the hands of De Witt Billman, executive secretary of legislative reference bureau, and State Senator Harold G. Ward, chairman of the commission of fifteen which has been studying the subject.

In its present form the draft merely provides for licensing and control under the home rule principle, for the elimination from dispensaries of curtains, screens, and other obstructions to view, for limitation of individual service to tables, and for local option on the basis of some unit of area to be determined upon later. Even the provisions of this draft are subject to Gov. Horner's approval.

Crusaders to Offer Model Law.

Fred G. Clark, national commander in chief of the Crusaders, announced that a national committee had been formed to draft a model state liquor control law for the states which have repealed prohibition. The committee, appointed by the National Municipal league, jointly with the Crusaders, has former Gov. Lowden of Illinois as its chairman. The committee, it was said, plans to base its work on the Rockefeller report.

The sentiment prevailing among members of the state legislative committee on liquor control regarding the licensing of places to sell beer and whisky was summed up by State Senator A. H. Roberts.

"I felt at first that it would be well to have two licenses," he said, "one for the vendor of beer and wines and another for the seller of spirits as well.

"But I am now convinced that police could not prevent cheating—that is, the selling of whisky—by the man who obtained only a license to sell beer and wines. If we had a police force that could enforce the license law, I would be for separate licenses, but that seems to be impossible."

The legislative committee on beer headed by State Representative William J. Connors, which has been investigating the price of beer in the hope of enforcing a "stein of beer for a nickel" scale will also meet in the city hall this afternoon with representatives of breweries who will testify concerning the cost of manufacturing brew.

The taste preferences of women for a beer without a strong hop taste have confronted brewers with a problem, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Siebel Institute of Technology, which furnishes courses in brewing.

Women Prefer Malt Flavor.

"Women are drinking more beer today than they ever did before," the statement declared, "but the brewers have found that the beers with a strong hop taste such as men like are not as popular with women as those with a more predominant malt flavor. This has created the problem of producing two types of beer, one for men and one for women. A beer having the light color and body of Pilsner, but with the malty flavor of the dark Munich or Bavarian, would come close to the type most women prefer."

A massmeeting of tavern owners and bartenders will be held in the Garrick theater Dec. 1, it was announced by the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers union yesterday. The meeting was called to protest against legislation aimed at closing of taverns and dispensing with stand-up bars.

Abandons Tour to Enter Hospital

Stricken Saturday

Pittsburgh, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Her short-lived American stage career ended, at least temporarily, by illness, Pola Negri has gone back to New York to enter a hospital. Stricken by illness Saturday night at the end of the opening week of her first English speaking dramatic effort, the former screen "vamp" says she will require two months of treatment for what her physicians described as an acute gall bladder attack.

7 Suspected as Members of Auto Theft Ring Seized

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 81; recovered, 81; stripped, 11 (from police records for the 24 hours ending at midnight Wednesday).

Two men and five youths, three of them brothers, were arrested last night on the suspicion that they are members of a band of auto thieves and holdup men. Sergt. Matt Quilter and his squad of the New City station made the arrests. The captives are Steve Mayton, 20 years old, and his brothers, Michael, 19, and Frank, 18, of 5000 Prairie avenue; George Panich, 18, 5045 South Hoyne avenue; George Bacek, 19, 5548 South Kildare avenue; Thomas Kabe, 24, 2320 West 51st street, and Steve Ondak, 22, 1152 West 48th street.

FORECAST SNOW AND WARMER FOR CHICAGO TODAY

A break in the cold wave which sent the temperature to record breaking lows for two days is forecast for the Chicago area today. W. P. Day, government meteorologist, last night said the temperature would probably drop to 14 or 18 degrees early today. It will be much warmer in the afternoon, he said.

Cloudy weather with a possibility of snow is expected to accompany the rising temperature. The mercury sank to nine degrees at 6 o'clock yesterday morning to break a November record for the second successive day. The previous low temperature for Nov. 16 was made in 1883 when the mercury registered 10 degrees.

"The weather is moderating in Canada where our cold wave originated," Forecaster Day said. "By midday Friday the temperature in Chicago and suburbs should be somewhere about freezing. There is a strong possibility of snow."

NEW YORK NOW IS WIDEST OPEN SPOT IN WORLD

Drink Can Be Bought Anywhere at Any Price.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Manhattan, in these last few weeks of illegal wetness, is as wide open, as far as liquor is concerned, as the Klondike. For the last six months and more this treasure laden island stretching its length from the Battery sea wall to Spuyten Duyvil creek, has been wetter than at any period since its jungle days under the rule of the Dutch West India company.

For months, for years, it has been easier to get a drink in New York than in London, Paris, Cairo, Constantinople, Tiajuana, Tahiti, or the Malay archipelago. Places on this island at which liquor is now obtainable—including de luxe speakeasies, hole in the wall speakeasies, delicatessens, restaurants, cordial shops, drug stores—run high into the thousands.

Everywhere But Libraries.

One can get a drink of anything his fancy happens to dictate and at any old price, current prices ranging from 15 cents to $1.

The town is so wide, wide open that a drink can be bought on nearly every street. "They're selling it everywhere," said a philosophic policeman on his beat in the West Fifties, "except at the back door of the library."

Now, within three weeks, it will all be legal. The hotel men are supposedly jubilant. How do the speakeasy people feel about it? Will it hurt them or help them?

Speculate as to Future.

Only speculation is now possible. It can be recorded, however, that the speakeasy proprietors in general—those who've run high-class establishments as well as those who've held forth in cracks and crannies—think good times, big times, better times, are ahead.

Numerous places, particularly some of the palatial retreats in the midtown sections, will tear out partitions, break down floors, add a terrace here, a new wing there. The "overhead" at many establishments will go sky high. Money will be spent—money is being spent—to get off to a good start in the fight for trade countenanced by law. With the hotels and the delicatessens and the drug stores joining in what a spectacle this strange new "trade war" is going to be!

Broadway, now hopelessly midway, may regain a measure of its glamour of yesteryear. So far as can be learned, however, there is no oncerted movement to restore the Broadway of the Gibson Girl era.

437,500 GALLONS WHISKY SHIPPED THROUGH CITY

E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of permits in the Chicago district, announced yesterday that 437,500 gallons of "good" whisky had been shipped through Chicago to all points of the country in preparation for repeal. The whisky originated in distilleries in Peoria and Kentucky and in storehouses in Lawrenceburg, Ind., Supervisor Yellowley said, and was sent to wholecalers and distributors.

J. P. MORGAN GUEST OF PRESIDENT; HAS TEA AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, whose money policies are causing some concern on Wall street, entertained J. P. Morgan, the financier, at tea today.

But there was no discussion either of money or of other business between them. Mrs. Roosevelt was present during the entire visit, and White House officials described the incident as a "friendly visit—a social call."

With Mr. Morgan was Myron Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, who is now serving as a member of the NRA industrial advisory board. It was reported that Mr. Taylor arranged the White House visit for Mr. Morgan, who was anxious to meet the President.

2 CHILDREN DIE OF BURNS; FATHER AND FRIEND HURT

George J. Wotnow Jr., 3 years old, and his sister, Jean, 2 years old, were fatally burned yesterday when a can of oil, being warmed on the kitchen stove in their home at 1243 Wrightwood avenue, was ignited and swept the home with flames. The father of the children and a friend, Alfred J. Sammler, were severely burned in attempts to save the children.

Wotnow and Sammler, both unemployed die makers, had drained the oil from the former's automobile after futile efforts to start the car. They placed the oil in a can on the oven door of the stove. A short time later the United Charities left a load of coal in front of the home.

Mrs. Wotnow left the house to call the organization to state she had asked for coke. Wotnow and Sammler went out to bring the coal in, leaving the children alone in the house. In some unknown way the oil ignited, sending a sheet of flame through the house. Wotnow made three attempts to find the children and Sammler went into the flames five times, bringing the children out on the last attempt.

The children died in the Alexian Brothers hospital.

300 TEACHERS WILL GET JOBS BACK IN WEEK

Approximately 300 teachers who were temporarily taken out of employment by the school board's economy program last summer will be back in the classrooms within a week, Supt. William J. Bogan announced yesterday. Nearly all the group will be placed in the elementary schools.

The teachers being reabsorbed in the public school system are those who have achieved the best scholastic standing in intensive Normal courses.

The assignment of the 300 teachers to jobs will not mean an increase in the pay roll as compared to the last school year. They will fill positions left vacant by deaths, retirements and other causes.

SEIZE 16 POLLS JUDGES, CLERKS IN FRAUD INQUIRY

Jarecki Issues Warrants Charging Contempt.

Sixteen judges and clerks of election were arrested yesterday on warrants charging them with contempt of court in making a false canvass of votes in the election of Nov. 8, 1932. The warrants were issued by County Judge Jarecki and hearings on the charges will be held Nov. 21 and 22.

The charges arise out of the election contest between Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten and former Municipal Judge Samuel Heller. A recount of the votes is being made in the County court on a petition brought by Heller.

Several Women Arrested.

Those arrested yesterday were Miss Ida Auerbach, 5132 Cornell avenue; Grant Goodrich, 5124 Cornell avenue, and Miss Dorothy Simpson, 5227 Cornell avenue, who were officials in the First precinct of the Fifth ward; Miss Frances Andres, 2712 Potwyne place; Miss Minnie Curterton, 4406 North Mozart avenue; Miss Emily Buehrle, 4439 North California avenue; Miss Gladys O'Neill, 4404 North Mozart avenue, and Miss Louise E. Krueger, 4448 North California avenue, who officiated in the Thirty-seventh precinct of the Fortieth ward, and eight Negroes who worked as judges and clerks in the Second and Third wards.

"People must be made to realize that fraud will not be tolerated in elections," Judge Jarecki said, "and they will learn there are severe punishments to be meted out for tampering with ballot counts."

Woman Faces Jail Today.

Among those already sentenced in the election fraud cases is Mrs. Lina Singer, 3339 Douglas boulevard. Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, sitting in the County court, on Tuesday sentenced her to 60 days in the county jail for making a false canvass of votes in the Forty-first precinct of the Twenty-fourth ward. Mrs. Singer, who pleaded that her child is ill, will appear before Judge Allen today and will begin serving her jail term unless technicalities are invoked in her behalf. She is the sister of Harry Weisbrod, former state representative.

Judge Jarecki yesterday requested the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to provide him with clients from their rolls who can aid in the work of the Heller-Hasten recount. The commission said that it would shortly furnish to Judge Jarecki a long list of men who are qualified to do the work.

New York Evening Post Observes 132d Birthday

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The New York Evening Post celebrated its 132d birthday today.

CHAS. F. BROWN, EX-PROSECUTOR, ENDS HIS LIFE

Charles Francis Brown, 46 years old former assistant state's attorney and Democratic candidate for congressman at large in 1928, was found dead last night in the bathroom of his home at 7616 Constance avenue. He had shot himself in the head.

Mr. Brown's brother, Battalion Chief William Brown of the Chicago fire department, said that the former prosecutor had suffered a nervous breakdown six weeks ago and had been ill since.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Brown was graduated at the Kent College of Law and entered legal practice in 1913. He was an assistant state's attorney under Maclay Hoyne. After serving in the army during the world war, he made an unsuccessful campaign for alderman of the 3d ward. During the Dever administration he was an assistant corporation counsel. In recent years he had been in private practice, with offices at 82 West Washington street.

Surviving Mr. Brown are his brother and two sisters. He was a bachelor.

2 ADMIT SLAYING SAN JOSE HEIR, ASKING RANSOM

Threw Brooke Hart Into Bay, They Say.

and drove out the driveway toward Market street. Jack Holmes met the car on the curb and opened the car door with one hand and kept the other hand in his pocket as though he had a gun. He forced Hart to go away with him.

"According to directions, I followed the car in Holmes' coach, which had been parked on Market street.

"As soon as I saw him pass me in Brooke Hart's car I proceeded to Milpitas and waited for them at the Spangler garage.

"Shortly thereafter Jack Holmes and Hart drove by in the latter's roadster and I followed the car to a point on the Evans road about seven miles from San José.

"When Jack Holmes stopped the car they both got out and Holmes told Hart to get in the back of the coach I was driving. We then drove a short distance ahead, when Holmes, who was now driving, turned the car around and headed back to Milpitas with Hart in the back seat.

"I was sitting at the right of Holmes, who was driving the car. We then turned north and drove through Irvington to Alvarado, then directly to the San Mateo bridge.

Details of Beating.

"We stopped about half a mile out on the bridge, at which time Hart was ordered out of the car and Holmes walked back of the car behind Hart and hit him over the head with a brick which I had obtained at a cement company in San José before we started on this trip.

"When Holmes first struck Hart over the head with the brick he hollered 'Help! Help!' but Holmes hit him on the head again with the brick and knocked Hart unconscious.

"Then I took some baling wire from the car which I had purchased during the afternoon at a hardware store in Santa Clara for 55 cents and bound the arms of Brooke Hart around his body up close to his shoulders.

"Holmes then told me to take hold of him. He took a hold of the upper part of Hart's body and I took a hold of him from the knees down, and together we lifted him on the railing of the San Mateo bridge and tossed him into the bay. I recall as we lifted him onto the bridge he struggled slightly.

Youth Robbed During Ride.

"We then turned around and drove back to San José. While we were riding in the car with Hart before we reached the bridge we had asked him to turn over his pocketbook and money, which he did. To the best of my recollection the wallet contained a $5 bill and $2.50 in silver. We divided the money and I kept the wallet. After I returned to San José, by agreement I went back to San Francisco in my father's automobile, and it was our understanding that I was to go from San Francisco to Oakland and en route throw the wallet into the bay. I was to phone Hart from Frisco asking for $40,000.

"Busy Signal" Balks Call.

"I tried to put through this call from a place on Market street, but the line was busy. I first tried to place the call about 9:30, and then went to the Witcomb hotel and placed another long distance call to the Hart residence in San José about 10:30 p. m. I was successful in completing that call. Some woman answered the telephone, and I told her that her brother was being held for $40,000 ransom and if the family notified the police they would never see Brooke Hart again.

"Instead of taking the ferry from San Francisco to Oakland to throw away the wallet of Brooke Hart I walked down the waterfront for two or three blocks and tossed the wallet into the bay.

"I then returned in my father's machine to San José, arriving shortly after midnight. On Nov. 10 at about 7 o'clock I left in my father's car for Sacramento. Jack Holmes went over with a message for Mr. Hart.

Reports "Son Is O. K."

"This message was to the effect that their son was 'O. K.' but if the police were notified any more it would be too bad. And on this card we also specified the number of bills to make up the $40,000 ransom, and put in future instructions.

"I had obtained an envelope at home and when I got to Tracy en route to Sacramento I addressed the envelope to Mr. Hart and later placed the card, printed by Holmes, and mailed from Sacramento that night.

"I remained in Sacramento a few minutes, got a bite to eat and turned around in the car and returned to San José.

"I didn't see Jack Holmes when I returned that night, but I did see him the following morning and told him I had mailed the card to Mr. Hart. The card was printed by Holmes.

Sends Code to Father.

"I was watching Holmes when he wrote the letter and read it. The letter specified that Mr. Hart place numeral one in the window of his store if he was willing to negotiate.

"I left San José about 11 in the morning with this letter and drove to San Francisco and mailed the letter approximately half an hour after I arrived. I then came back home.

"I did not see Holmes until the following day. He and I both went by Hart's store Tuesday and both saw the numeral one in the window, and that night in accordance with our agreement called Charles O'Brien Jr., personal friend of Brooke Hart's, and demanded further action.

Orders for Ransom Paying.

"This call was placed by Holmes from a pay station in a building in which Mr. Hart was to take a satchel with the $40,000 and place it on the seat beside him and drive his son's roadster toward Los Angeles. After this call had been completed Holmes and I drove to Morgan hill and back, but we could not see Mr. Hart drive out in the car, and so about 8:45 I telephoned Mr. Hart from a pay station at a parking lot in San Jose. I asked Mr. Hart why he had not kept his previous appointment, and he told me he wanted further proof that we were holding his son. I then told Mr. Hart he had better hurry and leave and then hung up."

Moves Just Before Arrest.

Thurmond told how it was planned to receive the ransom and detailed negotiations until the time of his arrest, saying:

"We then went to Sabacce Brothers' garage on South Market and I 'phoned from a pay phone in the rear of the garage. I told Hart I had seen the number in the window and that Mr. Hart or some member of his family should drive the car [with the ransom] and go at once. I told Hart I wanted his answer definitely 'yes or no'.

"I told Mr. Hart that the driver of the car would be told where he could pick up Brooke Hart as soon as he delivered the money. I told Mr. Hart I was one of the boys who wrote him a letter on Nov. 15. I also told Mr. Hart that I had received my orders from headquarters and that was all I could do. About the time I finished this call I was taken into custody by Sheriff Emig."

CUMMINGS REVIVES KIDNAP EVIDENCE IN THE LINDBERGH CASE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The 20 month old mystery of the Lindbergh kidnaping was today made a part of the federal government's anti-kidnaping crusade by Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings.

Receiving the records in the case for the first time, the attorney general at noon today took up the task of discovering the kidnapers and murderers of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was spirited away from the New Jersey estate of his parents on March 1, 1932.

Up until today, Atty. Gen. Cummings explained, the case had been in the hands of the investigating unit at the bureau of internal revenue. He asked that it be transferred and made a part of his drive against crime.

"We want to find out who kidnaped the Lindbergh child and, if possible, punish the perpetrators of that heinous crime," Mr. Cummings affirmed. "Cases like that are never closed."

Convicted I. J. Kresel Ill from Strain of His Trial

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Isidor J. Kresel, attorney, convicted yesterday of aiding in misapplication of funds in the Bank of United States case, was reported seriously ill today from the shock and the strain of his long trial.

COUNTRY COP TELLS HOW HE NABBED TOUHY

Surprise Witness in St. Paul Gangster Trial.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Harry Ward, the rookie motorcycle patrolman of Elkhorn, Wis., who, unarmed, captured Roger Touhy, Chicago gang leader, and three gangster companions, told about it today in the trial of the Touhy gang for the kidnaping of William Hamm, St. Paul millionaire brewer.

A minor sensation was caused in the federal courtroom when Ward appeared on the stand. Willie Sharkey, one of the defendants, suddenly stood up and took several steps forward toward the witness chair. Three guards jumped on him and pushed him back in his chair. No explanation was obtained of Sharkey's actions.

Ward, the first of three witnesses from Elkhorn to take the stand, described how he had halted Touhy's car after receiving a report that an automobile had crashed into a telephone pole on the outskirts of Elkhorn. He said a "Mr. Wislow" was with him and that they rode out in Wislow's car.

The patrolman testified Touhy was driving the car when he stopped it. Sharkey was the other occupant of the front seat and Gus Schaeffer and Eddie [Father] McFadden were in the back seat. He said when he stopped the car Touhy "wanted to know what I wanted."

Meets the Kidnapers.

"I told him we were looking for a damaged car," the witness continued. "I asked him where he got the dent in the left fender. He said it had been there several weeks. He said they had been fishing. I noticed the bumper was off and that a piece of cedar pole was between the left front tire and the rim. I open the door and told Touhy to get into Mr. Wislow's car, which he did, and I stood on the running board of the car I had stopped, which was a Chrysler sedan, and we drove into town."

After they had driven several blocks, the witness related, they stopped to see William Ward, the police chief.

"I left the car for a minute and as I was coming back to the car I saw it was empty. On looking around I could see they had all moved away and I called to them and they came back one by one," Ward said.

"I thought I had all five of them, but when I got to the jail yard one man was missing. He was Mr. Schaeffer."

Ward testified when he got to the jail yard he talked to Sheriff O'Brien and turned the occupants of the seized car over to him. He said Wislow then drove up with Touhy and they all entered the jail and stayed there about three-quarters of an hour.

Finds Arms in Car.

"Then three of the men who had been in the car left. They said: 'You don't want us all. You've got the driver. We want to go downtown and get a glass of beer.' Mr. McFadden and Sharkey left with the unknown man."

Touhy remained at the police station.

"Later, when it looked like the four weren't coming back," he said, "we decided we'd better take a look at the automobile. We found a rifle and five pistols in it. Then we started to hunt for the men."

Ward found Sharkey at Lake Geneva. He found Schaeffer and McFadden seated beside the highway leading out of Elkhorn. The fourth man had disappeared.

"I told Mr. Wislow to slow down his car and I jumped out. I had a gun which I had taken from the police station at Elkhorn, and I went over and told the men to get up and put them up. They did, and I told Wislow to back his car around so the headlights would shine on them. Then I had Wislow search them, and there was nothing on them and we put them in the car and took them back to jail."

Points Out Two Defendants.

Q.—Were these any of the defendants here? A.—Yes, Mr. Schaeffer and Mr. McFadden.

On cross examination by William Scott Stewart, chief of defense counsel, Ward testified when he made the first arrest he was unarmed, that he had conversations with Touhy, and neither Touhy nor the other defendants offered any resistance.

Ward said his reason for taking them to jail was to have them make payment for the broken telephone pole. The defense brought out the fact that Touhy has since paid for the damage to the telephone pole.

The prosecution rested its case after today's testimony. Thomas McMeekin, St. Paul attorney, revealed that Touhy is to take the stand in his own defense when the defense begins. Judge M. M. Joyce denied a motion by Chief Defense Counsel Stewart to dismiss the charges on the ground that the government had failed to prove essential charges. Some twenty-five alibi witnesses are promised by the defense attorneys.

FACTOR IN CHICAGO.

John Factor, stock market speculator who was kidnaped and held for $70,000 ransom five months ago, flew to Chicago from St. Paul yesterday without having testified at the trial of Roger Touhy and three of his mobsters for the kidnaping of William F. Hamm, brewer. Factor last night expressed confidence that the Touhy gang would be convicted and sentenced in the Hamm trial, but expressed it as his understanding that the gangsters would be brought to Chicago to stand trial, no matter what the outcome of the St. Paul case. He reiterated his intention to identify the gangsters and to appear against them despite numerous threatening letters.

STEAL THOUSANDS OF ROSES.

Thieves broke into one of the greenhouses of the Premier Rose company in Des Plaines sometime Wednesday night and stole several thousand roses, Paul E. Weiss, general manager of the concern, reported to police yesterday.

YOUTH, FREED IN ROBBERY, TALKS SELF INTO JAIL

Eleven More Sentenced in Drive on Crime.

Walter Musso, 20 years old, learned yesterday that it doesn't pay to talk too much.

One of three youths accused of robbing Chris Pappas, grocer at 822 Rush street, Musso was dismissed in the court of Judge Benjamin P. Epstein when Pappas failed to identify him. The trial of the other defendants, J. William Burke, 33 years old, and Tony Pamilio, 27 years old, then proceeded.

Instead of going home, Musso remained to be an alibi witness for Burke. After Musso had been called to the stand, Judge Epstein sent out the jury and questioned him.

"I am convinced this man is a perjurer," said the judge at the end of the questioning. "Put him in jail and draw up a perjury warrant."

The jury was called back and after hearing additional testimony found Burke and Pamilio guilty under the habitual criminal act, which carries a penalty of life imprisonment.

State Closes in Murder Case.

The state closed its case yesterday in the trial of Edward Weiss, 29 years old, who is charged with the murder of Theodore Zutaut, 55 years old, during an attempted robbery in the home of the victim at 12017 Lowe avenue on March 16. Arthur Barty, a codefendant, who was given a separate trial in hopes of convicting Weiss, continued yesterday in his refusal to testify for the state. He had been promised a lesser sentence than the electric chair if he would testify.

Weiss, who admits driving the bandit car, maintains that he was hired by Barty and a second defendant who has not been apprehended and did not know of the robbery plot.

Eleven men were sentenced to prison in the Criminal court yesterday, bringing the total sentenced since the start of the crime war to 585.

Tony Orlando, 21 years old, a leader of the 42 gang, was found guilty in the court of Judge Joseph B. David of assault to murder and was ordered to prison for a term of 1 to 14 years. A motion for a new trial was overruled. The state proved that Orlando was one of five robbers who raided a handbook at 30 North Halsted street on June 17 and that he fired a shotgun at Policemen John Hannon and John Hock. His aim was bad and neither policemen was hurt.

James W. Kolasinski, 31 years old, was found guilty of the murder of Walter Galcynski, 22 years old, 2129 Powell avenue, by a jury in the court of Judge Francis B. Allegretti. He was sentenced to 18 years in prison. Testimony showed that Kolasinski, a clerk in his father's drug store at 2000 Webster avenue, became angry at the youth for chaffing him and pursued him to the street to shoot him.

The others sentenced were:

FRANK STANO, 22 years old, sentenced to one to five years by Judge Michael Feinberg, for bigamy.

ALBERT FORTO, 19 years old, and SAM FRANCISCO, 17 years old, sentenced by Judge Philip L. Sullivan for the burglary of a restaurant at 184 North Halsted street.

JULIAN JONES, 35 years old, colored, sentenced to one to 14 years by Judge Joseph B. David for attempted rape.

ANDREW PITEK, 19 years old, sentenced to one to ten years by Judge David for the robbery of Charles Frank, 911 Margate terrace.

JOHN QUINN, 46 years old, sentenced to a year and a day by Judge Walter P. Steffen for conspiracy to swindle by a confidence game, Mrs. Gustey Fara, 6773 Talcott avenue.

PETER STEFENDER, 18 years old, WILLIAM GRAAYDEEK, 25 years old, and WILLIAM VARHALES, 23 years old, sentenced by Judge Sullivan to serve one year to life on four charges of robbery, the sentences to run concurrently.

Thirty-nine men recently sentenced in the crime war were taken to Joliet yesterday. Among them was Carl Grundhoefer, 20 years old, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Cashier Harry Mueller during a robbery of the First National bank of Niles Center.

Elevator Operator Killed in Ashland Block Shaft

Roger McNamara, 75 years old, 1128 North Waller avenue, night watchman and elevator operator, was found dead yesterday morning at the bottom of an elevator shaft in the Ashland [illegible] North Clark street. His head was crushed. The second floor gates to the shaft were open and police believe the accident occurred there.

U. S. JUDGE ADDS NEW CHAPTER TO $1,000,000 SUIT

Investigates Indictment in Hall-Willett Case.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday opened an investigation into the indictment of Edmund Harris Jr., former Chicago architect, on a charge of sending an extortion letter through the mail. Harris is alleged to have demanded $5,000 from Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, defendant in a $1,000,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett, on the promise that he would have the suit withdrawn.

Mrs. Willett in her suit charges Mrs. Hall with stealing the love of her husband, Howard L. Willett, executive of the cartage company bearing his name. Harris, according to the government charge, intimated that if Mrs. Hall did not give him $5,000 "certain information will be forwarded to Mrs. Willett which will be both scandalous and costly."

Yesterday Harris and his attorney, John Elliott Byrne, appeared before Judge Wilkerson seeking a reduction of the $5,000 bond set for Harris, who was arrested in Los Angeles and returned to Chicago for prosecution.

Arrest Precedes Indictment.

"This man was arrested by officious Pinkerton detectives," Attorney Byrne told the judge, "at the request of a grand jury witness before the indictment had been returned. I think his bond should be cut."

Judge Wilkerson, after reading a copy of the letter allegedly written by Harris and scanning the indictment, said: "Is this case an outgrowth of an alienation suit between two women?"

Both the defense attorney and Assistant United States Attorney Edward Fisher assured the judge that the background of the suit was the alienation suit.

"I have not been impressed by the conduct of the counsel for both sides," Judge Wilkerson said, apparently referring to the Willett case. "I am not interested in the alienation suit, but I can deal with the attorneys in this case."

Turning to Prosecutor Fisher. he continued: "I want to know all the facts and circumstances leading to the return of this indictment. I want to know who had the indictment returned. Who are the prosecuting witnesses? I want to know who brought the case to the postal inspectors and the district attorney's office. I shall continue this matter until next Tuesday morning until I have studied the circumstances in the case."

Calls Reporters to Chambers.

After the hearing Judge Wilkerson called reporters to his chambers and announced that the investigation implied no criticism of the federal grand jury or the district attorney.

"It appears that the indictment was aimed against a witness in a civil case," said the judge. "We will seek to learn if there has been any intimidation."

Outside the courtroom Attorney Byrne refused to name the grand jury witness to whom he had referred.

WILL BE BRIDE

FIFI D'ORSAY.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Fifi d'Orsay, French-Canadian film actress, appeared at marriage license bureau today with Maurice E. Hill, son of G. Earl Hill, Chicago building supply man, and the pair filed a three day notice of intent to wed. "I don't know exactly when we'll be married," the actress said, "because my film schedule doesn't give me a day off for some time, but we decided we'd take out our notice so that we could have the ceremony at the first break in my working schedule."

ANOTHER BRITISH SHIP IS VICTIM OF ATLANTIC STORM

Lose Hope for Crew of 27 from Saxilby.

CORK, Irish Free State, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The British steamer Cydonia, of 3,517 tons, said in a message tonight that she is in difficulty several hundred miles west of Ireland. The captain advised that the vessel, en route to Montreal with a cargo of coal, encountered heavy seas and would turn back to Cork.

Ships Give Up Search.

VALENCIA, Irish Free State, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Hope was virtually abandoned today of rescuing the twenty-seven men in the crew of the British freighter Saxilby, of whom nothing was seen or heard since their last despairing S O S as they took to the boats of the storm battered vessel yesterday morning.

One by one searching vessels gave up the quest after reaching the spot, about 300 miles off the Irish coast, whence the last signal came.

Locate Great Lakes Ship.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Tree line steamer Poplar Bay, overdue here since Sunday, during which interval there has been severe weather on Lake Superior, is reported in shelter at Munising, Mich.

Canadian Freighter Sinks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 16.—High winds continued today to play havoc with navigation on the St. Lawrence river, now nearing the end of the season. About 25 miles from Montreal the freighter Scotsman listed badly and sank in about 15 feet of water. The crew of 14 escaped in a lifeboat.

Indians Ask U. S. to Sell Part of Alaska to Canada

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Alaska Native brotherhood, composed of Indians, asked in a resolution in annual convention that the southeastern panhandle section of Alaska be sold to Canada. Speakers said that the dominion "takes care" of its Indians better "than Uncle Sam does."

COL. M'CORMICK CONTENDS CODE PRESS CONTROL IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

DEFENDS RIGHT OF FREEDOM IN SPEECH IN EAST

the great scandals inseparable from its enforcement it was not reënacted. Of this occasion Macaulay said: "The greatest blow for freedom was then struck."

Now let these words sink very deep into your consciousness:

The End of Licensing in England

"From that time to this, no English government has claimed or practiced the right to license."

In America

Licensing was also practiced in the American Colonies, but with less effectiveness than in the kingdom, and was abolished even before the Revolution.

Libel Upon Government

Licensing having been overcome, tyranny was not slow to devise a new and ingenious means of controlling hostile criticism. The doctrine of Libel Upon Government was invented and the doctrine of Scandalum Magnatum, under which it became criminal to criticize the king or his ministers or their acts, or Parliament or its acts.

"The Greater the Truth, the Greater the Libel"

To put teeth in the law the government devised the effective doctrine, "The greater the truth, the greater the libel," and, "The court is the judge of the law and the judge of the libel." The jury was only allowed to decide whether or not the article offending those in power was published by the defendant.

Informations

During the reign of Anne and of the first Georges there were persecutions, though not many; but during the period from 1760 to 1789, while England was unsuccessfully striving for some of the freedom we won in the Revolution, there were many and terrible persecutions. Over 200 informations were filed in a short space of time. Then it was that Lord Mansfield laid down the theory that the jury was concerned only with the fact of publication. The penalties inflicted again included the stocks, the slitting of tongues, the cutting off of ears, torture, and executions.

Peter Zenger

The great trial for a free press in America prior to the adoption of the Constitution was that of Peter Zenger in New York in the year 1724.

Rip Van Dam

This celebrated case originated in the wrongs of one Rip Van Dam, a prominent Dutch resident. When the English under the Duke of York conquered New Amsterdam, the Dutch, in possession, obviously owned most of the property. The conquerors began to dispossess them. The Dutch had no appeal to the English king over his governors, and had no influence in the English courts. There remained to them only the right of protest, which this trial sought to take from them.

Information

Zenger was an editor of protest. In spite of the charges of royal judges the Grand Jury refused to indict him and the pernicious system of information was used to bring him to trial.

Jury Trial

When two New York lawyers were bold enough to come to his defense they were immediately disbarred; so that Zenger came to trial with no lawyer in court to defend him—as it was thought; but when the case was called, an old man arose, Andrew Hamilton of Philadelphia, not to be confused with Alexander Hamilton of New York in a later generation; Andrew Hamilton, an octogenarian, whose speech I commend as the greatest sample of court argument ever made. In the face of the corrupt, prejudiced, and hostile judges, he was able to bring before the jury every contention, including that the law of England was not the law of New York, and that the jury had the right to decide upon every question before it. The consequence was the acquittal of Peter Zenger, the first step in the emancipation of the American people.

So much for the history of the tyranny of princes in medieval times, in the English kingdom, and in the British colonies. Now let us glance at the history of the United States after the Constitution.

Freedom of the Press

The original draft of the Constitution did not provide for the freedom of the press. Alexander Hamilton argued against such a provision, very maladroitly, for his case was bad, but he prevailed in the Convention. However, the states refused to ratify the Constitution without the first ten amendments, in the very first of which was the provision for the freedom of the press.

The Sedition Act

You will remember that during the times of George Washington's presidency, the country divided into two parties, the Federalist and the Republican or Democratic parties. The Federalists were in power, but after Washington's retirement from office they began to lose strength rapidly. It was then that the Federalists enacted the Sedition Act, which punished "false, scandalous, and malicious writings against the government, either House of Congress or the President, if published with intent to defame any of them or to excite against them the contempt or hatred of the people, or to stir up sedition or to excite resistance against law, or to aid in hostile designs of any foreign nation against the United States."

The Federalist Party

Power and Tyranny

The Sedition Act aroused so much hatred as to reflect upon its authors and to give the impression that they were altogether evil men. Such a construction will not bear dispassionate scrutiny. The Federalist Party contained fully half of the Revolutionary heroes. John Adams, the president, who signed the act and who enforced it, was one of the pre-Revolutionary leaders for human freedom. That he and his associates could have passed such an act illustrates not their general moral turpitude BUT THE TEMPTATION TO USE TYRANNY WHICH MEN IN POLITICAL POWER CANNOT RESIST IN THEIR ENDEAVOR TO PERPETUATE THEIR POWER.

Madison

Immediately upon the passage of this Bill, Madison pronounced it unconstitutional. He said: "It is a monster that must forever disgrace its parents." He pointed out the fundamental distinction between republics and monarchies; that Parliament is unlimited in its power; that the power of the king has alone been curtailed by Magna Charta and the other great constitutional documents; that only the prerogatives of the king may be curtailed:

"Under a government such as this, an exemption of the press from previous restraint by Licensers appointed by the king is all the freedom that can be secured to it."

No Power in Congress to Limit Freedom of Press

In the United States, however, he pointed out, THE LEGISLATURE, AS WELL AS THE EXECUTIVE AND THE JUDICIARY (AS WELL AS THE LEGISLATURE), ARE CURTAILED BY THE FIRST AMENDMENT. HENCE, LIBERTY OF SPEECH AND PRESS ARE SECURED NOT ONLY FROM PREVIOUS CENSORSHIP OF THE EXECUTIVE BUT FROM SUBSEQUENT RESTRICTIONS IMPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE AND THE JUDICIARY.

During the course of this argument he says—a very tempered, but convincing argument—

"And can the wisdom of this policy be doubted by anyone who reflects that to the press alone, checkered as it is with abuses, the world is indebted for all the triumphs which have been gained by reason and humanity over error and oppression: who reflects that to the same beneficent source the United States owe much of the lights which conducted them to the rank of a free and independent nation and which have improved their political system into a shape so auspicious to their happiness?"

John Marshall

Marshall, although a Federalist, condemned the Alien and Sedition Laws, and when elected to Congress voted against their renewal.

Stifle Protest

Let us review briefly how convictions were secured under this act, not only for the purpose of tracing in general the history of the press but also for the purpose of showing what may be done by government, even in a free country, to stifle complaints against its actions.

Lyon's Case

The first conviction was of Matthew Lyon. He charged Adams with "a continual grasp for power and unbounded thirst for ridiculous pomp, foolish adulation and selfish avarice." He referred to the President's speech to the Senate as "the bullying speech of the President," and he expressed wonder that the answer of Congress "had not been to send Adams to the madhouse." He was indicted for "stirring up sedition to bring the President and Government of the United States into contempt." He was sentenced to four months in jail and payment of a fine of $100.

Haswell's Case

United States Marshal Fitch, in executing the sentence, treated this prisoner most cruelly and the public was deeply stirred by it. Thereupon one Anthony Haswell, the editor of the Vermont Gazette, started a lottery by which friends of Lyon were to raise money to pay his fine. He asserted in this paper that Lyon was held "by the oppressive hand of usurped power in a loathsome prison, deprived almost of the right of reason and suffering all the indignities which can be heaped upon him by a hard-hearted savage who has, to the disgrace of Federalism, been elevated to a station where he can satiate his barbarity on the misery of his victims."

Hard-hearted Savage

"The hard-hearted savage" was Marshal Fitch. Haswell was prosecuted and the Justice by whom the case was tried ruled that certain evidence having to do with the truth of this publication was inadmissible, and Haswell was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and a fine of $200. (2 Beveridge, Life of John Marshall, p. 32.)

Cooper's Case

Next, Doctor Thomas Cooper, the editor of a Pennsylvania gazette, in the course of a political controversy stated that President Adams

"was hardly in the infancy of political mistake; even those who doubted his capacity thought well of his intentions. Nor were we yet (at the beginning of Adams' administration) saddled with the expense of a permanent navy or threatened with the existence of a standing army. Mr. Adams had not yet interfered to influence the decision of a court of justice."

He was tried before Justice Samuel Chase, who stated:

"If a man attempts to destroy the confidence of the people in their officers, he effectually saps the foundation of government."

See the Chicago Case.

In other words, Chase employed the English rule of libels on the government. Chase was especially irritated at the statement made by the defendant to the effect "our credit is so low that we are obliged to borrow money at eight per cent in time of peace." Cooper was imprisoned for six months and fined $400, and to find bail for good behavior in the sum of $500.

Callender's Case

Then came the famous trial of James Callender, over which Chase also presided. He printed that Adams' administration had been a "tempest of malignant passions," that Adams' system had been a "French war, an American navy, a large standing army, an additional load of taxes." He said that Adams was "a professed aristocrat" and had proved faithful and serviceable to the British interests by sending the X. Y. Z. Mission to France. In commenting upon the President's speech to Congress, he said: "this hoary-headed incendiary bawls, then, 'To Arms'."

Justice Chase

On the trial of this case Chase was extremely overbearing. He would not permit the jury to pass upon the law of the case nor would he permit the defendant to prove that a part of the statements was true, ruling that he had to prove everything true or nothing. Of course the defendant could not prove everything true by one witness. Callender was sentenced to imprisonment for nine months and a fine of $200.00.

An American Jeffreys

Chase was afterward impeached and lives in our judicial history as an American Jeffreys; yet a few years before his appointment to the bench he was fighting in the Revolutionary Army. So quickly do patriots turn tyrant when given tyrannical power.

There is also no doubt that in securing these convictions and indictments the United States marshals selected persons on the juries who were favorable to the Federalist cause and therefore prejudiced against the defendants. Beveridge says:

"The juries were nothing more than machines that registered the will, opinion or even inclination of the national judges and the United States District Attorneys. In short, in these prosecutions, trial by a jury in any real sense was not to be had." (3 Beveridge, p. 42; citing McMaster's History of the People of the United States, Vol. 2, p. 473.)

Downfall of the Federalists

The passage of the Sedition Laws was the cause of the downfall of the Federalist party, and from that day to this it has been universally considered that the acts were unconstitutional. They certainly were impolitic.

After Jefferson was elected president he remitted with interest the fines that had been levied against persons convicted under these laws, and also pardoned all those who were sentenced to imprisonment. In no uncertain terms he said that his pardon was based on the ground that the laws were unconstitutional, and such has been the general consensus from that time to this. To Mrs. Adams, who upbraided him for liberating Callender, Jefferson replied:

Jefferson's Views

". . . I discharged every person under punishment or prosecution under the Sedition Law because I considered and now consider that law to be a nullity as absolute and palpable as if Congress had ordered us to fall down and worship a golden image."

And he said:

"Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost."

Croswell

After the Sedition Law had expired by limitation, there was a law in the state of New York covering the same subject. Strangely enough, when Jefferson came into power, an editor named Croswell was tried under this law because he charged that Jefferson had paid Callender to print the libels against Washington and Adams, which have been mentioned above. It was a case of criminal libel against an individual, Jefferson, but was treated as a libel on government. Croswell was defended by Alexander Hamilton, NOW OUT OF POWER AND IN TURN ANXIOUS FOR A FREE PRESS.

Alexander Hamilton

The trial court refused to admit evidence of the truth of the charge and there was a verdict of guilty. Under the then existing practice, an appeal was taken before sentence. Alexander Hamilton argued the case in the reviewing court. The trial judge sat as a member of this court. The Attorney General, who prosecuted in the trial court, was a member of the reviewing court, but did not sit. The trial judge, now sitting in review, held that the truth was not a defense and that the jury should only pass on the fact of publication and the meaning of the innuendoes. One judge agreed with him. The other two judges held that the truth should be a defense. The trial court was, therefore, affirmed, the silence of the former attorney general acting as if he had voted to sustain his position as prosecutor.

New York Defines the Law

However, public opinion was so much aroused that the New York legislature passed a declaratory statute the next year declaring that the "truth published with good motives and justifiable ends" is a defense in criminal libels and that the jury was the judge both of law and facts. Afterwards a new trial was granted to Croswell, but the trial was never held.

That ends the action of tyranny under the Sedition Law.

The constitutionality of the Sedition Act was never raised in the Supreme Court of the United States. Whether the Supreme Court at that time would have claimed the right to pass upon the constitutionality of laws and, if so, what it would have held, we do not know. John Marshall, who wrote the opinion maintaining the power of the court to pass upon the constitutionality of the acts of Congress, was not yet on the bench. The law expired by limitation and has not been renewed.

Cooley

Cooley commented upon the Sedition Law:

"The Sedition Law was passed during the administration of the elder Adams when the fabric of government was still new and untried and when many men seemed to think that the breath of heated party discussions might tumble it about their heads. Its constitutionality was always disputed by a large party, and its impolicy was beyond question. It had a direct tendency to produce the very state of things which it sought to repress. The prosecutions under it were instrumental, among other things, in the final overthrow and destruction of the party by which it was adopted, and it is impossible to conceive at the present time of any such state of things as would be likely to bring about its reënactment, or the passage of any similar repressive statutes.

Repressive Statutes

The Great Danger to Freedom

"If any such principles of repression should ever be recognized in the common law of America it might reasonably be anticipated that in times of high party excitement it would lead to prosecutions by the party in power to bolster up wrongs and sustain abuses and oppressions by crushing adverse criticism and discussions . . . Repression of full and free discussion is dangerous in any government resting upon the will of the people."

Woodrow Wilson

Woodrow Wilson said (3 Wilson's A History of the American People, p. 153):

"The Sedition Act cut perilously near the root of freedom of speech and of the press. There was no telling where such exercises of power would stop. Their only limitations and safeguards lay in the temper and good sense of the President and the Attorney General. Protests came from every part of the country, and grew ominously in volume from month to month—and petitions for repeal couched in every form and bearing thousands of signatures."

Prof. Chafee said (Chafee—Freedom of Speech, p. 30):

Schofield's Views

"Like the British trials, the American sedition cases showed, as Professor Schofield demonstrates, 'the great danger . . . that men will be fined and imprisoned under the guise of being punished for their bad motives, or bad intent and ends, SIMPLY BECAUSE THE POWERS THAT BE DO NOT AGREE WITH THEIR OPINIONS, AND SPOKESMEN OF MINORITIES MAY BE TERRORIZED AND SILENCED WHEN THEY ARE MOST NEEDED BY THE COMMUNITY AND MOST USEFUL TO IT, AND WHEN THEY STAND MOST IN NEED OF THE PROTECTION OF THE LAW AGAINST A HOSTILE, ARROGANT MAJORITY.'"

There are many cases of prosecution of newspapers under war powers and war conditions, of which I will only mention two, as war conditions are abnormal and call for separate consideration.

The Chicago Times and New York World Cases

The first was when the Chicago Times and the New York World were closed by General Burnside during the Civil War. Meetings were held by the most prominent citizens, who petitioned that the order of General Burnside be set aside. The majority of the competing newspapers, including, I am proud to say, the Chicago Tribune, took the same attitude and President Lincoln revoked the order.

Fiske vs. Kansas

The other is the decision of the Supreme court in the case of Fiske vs. Kansas during the late war, where the court enunciated the doctrine that the right of free speech and press is protected against the states by the Fourteenth Amendment.

The Tweed Ring and the New York Times

The next important infringement, or attempted infringement, upon the freedom of the press was committed by "The Tweed Ring." The New York Times conducted a savage and finally successful campaign against that corruption, during which an effort was made by the Tweed Ring to suppress it. They tried to buy up a majority of the stock in the Times; they endeavored to indict the publishers for libeling the Mayor, and when the Grand Jury would not act, one Hall finally announced: "That a flaw had been discovered in the title of the real estate occupied by the Times which would enable the city authorities to place a receiver in possession of the Times Building."

Scandalum Magnatum Again

Even that flank attack failed and an act was passed quickly through the New York Legislature which was never seen outside, reviving the ancient law of contempt on government, whereby the government would be able to prosecute under the old law of Scandalum Magnatum. Governor Hoffman of New York vetoed the act and immediately afterwards the great disclosures began which drove Tweed to flee to Spain, and brought the collapse of his political machine.

Now we come to a man of unquestioned patriotism, a man whom my predecessors and I supported during his entire political life—President Theodore Roosevelt, who in anger made a savage attack upon the freedom of the press.

President Roosevelt and the Panama Canal Cases

The Indianapolis News and the New York World had published stories severely criticizing President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Taft, a lawyer named William Nelson Cromwell, and others, in connection with the transfer of title of the Panama Canal from the French company to the United States Government. In retaliation President Roosevelt tried to have the editor of the Indianapolis News removed from Indianapolis to Washington for trial, but the District Judge of the United States in Indianapolis refused to allow the transfer. Effort was then made to try the editor of the New York World in the Federal Court of New York on the basis that some copies of the New York World had been sold on the West Point Military reservation, making it a Federal offense; but the court of New York held against President Roosevelt. No effort was made to bring the matter before the courts AS PROVIDED BY LAW.

A Different Character

Our next case is of a very different character, both as to the would-be oppressor and the virulence and persistency with which it was prosecuted. The notorious mayor of Chicago, William Hale Thompson, had brought personal libel suits aggregating several hundred thousands of dollars against the Chicago newspapers but never suffered them to come to trial, as in each case the defense was the truth of the charges.

Then the corporation counsel of the City of Chicago filed a declaration of suit for libel against the Chicago Tribune in the name of the municipality and for the confiscatory sum of ten million dollars.

Libel Upon a City

The political power of the city, the county, and the state was in the hands of the same organization; the judges were dependent on this organization for nomination, as were the jury commissioners for their appointment. The judges of the Supreme Court were openly threatened with punishment if they failed to obey the state organization. That made the case serious on the political side.

The Law in England

Until the case was studied it did not seem possible that it had any legal excuse. Upon investigation, however, we found that the law of libel had greatly extended in England since the conflict for the freedom of the press in the time of Wilkes and Barre and since the adoption of our Constitution, and that today in England a municipality might maintain a suit for libel against a newspaper, and that in Canada a municipal organization analogous to our tuberculosis hospital, and ANALOGOUS TO ANY OF THE NEW CORPORATIONS SET UP IN CONNECTION WITH THE NRA, COULD DO THE SAME.

Precedents in English Courts

In this country there had been no adjudication of this new theory, but as we knew the rule of our courts is to lend great weight to precedents of English and of Canadian courts, the outlook for our case was ominous.

Widespread Study

Consequently we embarked upon the most extensive study of municipal law and the law of the freedom of the press that has ever been undertaken. The results of our studies were embodied in the argument in the State of Illinois and led to the opinion, first of the Circuit Court of Cook County and then of the State Supreme Court, that a city cannot sue a newspaper for libel.

Information

While the information was fresh in our minds our attention was drawn to a case in Minnesota, where, acting under a statute of that state, the district attorney had filed an information, pernicious instrument for political persecution, against a newspaper, alleging that it was a scandalous newspaper. A chancellor in that state, after a very short hearing, had enjoined the further publication of that newspaper, and the Supreme Court of that state had affirmed the decision.

Suppression by Injunction

It was obvious that if a judge could close up newspaper "A" for being scandalous, another judge could close up newspaper "B" for being scandalous, and that even if newspaper "A" actually were scandalous, the precedent would be sufficient to close up newspaper "B" for purely political reasons. Therefore we immediately took the steps to carry the case to the Supreme Court of the United States, with the financial assistance and the moral support of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. Our motion for a new hearing in Minnesota was overruled, somewhat summarily, and we proceeded to the Supreme Court of the United States, where the case was reversed by the narrow majority of five votes to four.

Five to Four

We come now to Wisconsin, where a statute has been passed forbidding corporations from taking part in politics, the effect of which, if enforced, would prevent all newspapers conducted by incorporated companies from publishing either political news or political editorials.

Next in Ohio a trial judge sentenced to jail for contempt of court an editor who criticized him for issuing an injunction to prevent the enforcement of a law against horse racing, which sentence was reversed in the Appellate Court.

And in South Dakota a trial judge has held in contempt of court and sentenced to jail a newspaper editor who criticized the lightness of a sentence imposed upon a County official who had pleaded guilty to forgery. This case is now on appeal in the Supreme Court of that state.

The Tallassee Case

Here the history rested until a month ago, when one Dunnegan, an agent of the Department of Labor, threatened to prosecute the Tallassee (Alabama) Tribune for publishing editorials he conceived to be in violation of the National Recovery Act. The editor defied him to proceed and stood upon his constitutional rights.

As Chairman of the Committee on the Freedom of the Press of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, I had the matter taken up with the Secretary of Labor, after which she instructed the agents of the department not to try to dictate to the press.

The True Case

More recently Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the NRA, refused access to his press conferences to Mr. James True, whose writings had displeased him. This action considered by itself would not seem to have great significance, for it has long been notorious that Washington officials try to color news from the capitol by extending or withholding official and social favor. But in view of the presence in the NRA code of a provision for licensing and of the opposition General Johnson has shown toward an explicit reservation of the constitutional rights of the press in the newspaper code, his attitude toward True takes on a special significance.

The Murray Case

In Lynn, Massachusetts, the right to use the Blue Eagle was taken from one Murray. This is the story of its loss: Murray, operating the Lynn Clothing Company, had bought some goods in anticipation of an increase in business. Murray then went into bankruptcy. Late in September there was an advertisement in the papers of that city telling of the disposal of the stock, the store having been forced into a receivership.

"The operation was successful, but the patient died," the advertisement stated. It added that the anticipated increase in business had not appeared "since the masses of Lynn people have not yet benefited by the NRA movement to the extent that they can buy more freely."

The advertising, carrying the Blue Eagle, added, "Saturday will be the beginning of what will be the end of a noble experiment."

The Blue Eagle

The chief of the NRA's Blue Eagle division thereupon ordered the store to surrender its insignia, because of "a flagrant attempt to frustrate the spirit and intent of the President's reëmployment program," language almost identical with that of Justice Chase in stating the doctrine of libel upon government.

Economic Attack

Since the adoption of the constitutional amendment, the First Amendment, and since Marshall's decision, that the Supreme Court could pass upon the constitutionality of laws, and since the Sedition Act has universally been considered to be unconstitutional, let us find what new methods have been devised to curtail the freedom of the press.

There was the attempted seizure of the land of the New York Times and the passage of the law of Scandalum Magnatum by the legislature.

Transfer Out of the Place of Alleged Offense

There was the attempted transfer of the editor of the Indianapolis News for trial to the prejudiced atmosphere of Washington.

Previous Restriction

There is the disqualification of newspaper corporations in Wisconsin which has not yet been adjudicated, but which is among the laws of Wisconsin, whereby any newspaper owned and published by a corporation is forbidden from printing political editorials.

Libel on Government

There is the alleged libel upon a city government.

Previous Restriction

There is the statute to suppress newspapers by injunction in Minnesota.

Contempt of Court

There are the various pretenses of contempt of court, maintained by certain trial judges, and the three recent incidents in the enforcement of the National Recovery Act of which mention has been made.

Those are all ingenious devices to curb the press which have arisen since the adoption of our Constitution, which warn us to scrutinize very carefully any new enactments of whatever kind which may tend to that end, including the codes of practice for the newspaper profession.

Codes of Practice

Licensing

The codes submitted to the newspapers specifically provided for licensing—the first and most effective method of controlling newspapers ever known, but abandoned, as we have seen, in England in 1694, abandoned in the American Colonies even before our Revolution, and forbidden by the First Amendment to the Constitution. The newspapers were asked to enter into contracts including this provision. Were the newspapers hasty or touchy in demanding the preservation of the right of freedom of the press?

A Recent Example of Licensing

Let us see how license is practiced by the government in another field.

Licensing

When the radio became common and some administrative methods were found necessary to prevent confusion, our Congress chose as its model of legislation the same legislation imposed when the printing press was regulated by the Star Chamber. The radio was put under license and under a Star Chamber, without legal procedure and without an adequate right of appeal to the courts.

Confiscation

Very recently there was in the neighborhood of Chicago a station described by the letters "WIBO," the owners of which had a title to their wave length, which they had obtained by continuity from the beginning. They had conducted the station without offense of any kind. A group of men of political influence in Indiana applied for title to the wave length of WIBO. Without even a hearing before the Radio Commission the license to the wave length was transferred to a station aptly named "WIND." No payment was made to the previous owner, who was left with idle machinery for which he could find no use. The location of the station was moved less than forty-five miles across a state line as excuse for the ATTAINDER, but remained in the same geographical center, the suburbs of Chicago. And that is the station, now controlled by the Columbia broadcasting chain, which broadcast the total falsehood about the capture of the escaped Indiana convicts.

Rights Under License

As I have said, my reason for introducing the reference to radio licensing is because we have had licensing of the press now presented to us, and this incident indicates how much right we may expect to have under that method.

Economic Attack

Licensing is only one way to dominate utterance. Economic attack is equally effective. I have left reference to it to this time so as not to confuse the narrative of criminal and quasi-criminal prosecutions.

Suppression by Taxation

After licensing was abolished in England and before the ingenious legalistic invention of Libel Upon Government had become effective, a device was conceived, not to pick out individual editors for discipline, but to suppress the whole institution of the press. That was done by excessive taxation which in England from 1690 down to 1832 varied between 1 cent and 8 cents a copy on every newspaper sold. Obviously, the newspaper industry of England wilted. It did not revive until after the year 1838, when excessive taxation was finally abandoned.

It was during these years that Sheridan uttered his eloquent period:

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

And Junius, the famous political stylist after whom our Federalist authors modeled themselves, whose very identity is unknown, for he dared not write publicly, wrote:

"Let it be impressed upon your minds, let it be instilled into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all civil, political and religious rights of freemen."

It must be very plain that a method that will permit costs to be put upon newspapers which they cannot bear will be more universally successful in suppressing them than any method—other than of licensing.

Now whatever opinion may be entertained as to the value of code control imposed upon industries, it is obvious that if the newspapers of the country are regimented together and placed as a class under a government authority, they will not enjoy the unlimited freedom that has been their lot since the expiration of the Sedition Laws. And it was Jefferson who said:

"Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost."

Code Not Analogous to a General Law

The situation presented to the press by a newspaper code is not analogous to general factory and labor laws to which they are amenable. For, while there is hardly a newspaper which when in opposition has not had such laws construed against it with all the bias an angry executive could marshal, such oppression could not become destructive, because ruinous regulations could not be imposed on newspapers alone to rule or ruin dissenters. Their protection has been that general regulations which would ruin newspapers would ruin all industry.

On the other hand, if once the press is segregated for regulation, it may be destroyed as was the press of England under the special tax laws I have referred to.

Therefore, it is highly questionable whether such regimentation is permissible under the First Amendment. In my opinion it is not.

When a meeting of the directors of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association was called to consider the blanket code, sent to all publishers, I was invited in my capacity of chairman of the Association's Committee on the Freedom of the Press and its expert on this phase of the profession.

Publishers' Meeting

I then stated my opinion, which was not controverted; that under the First Amendment the press could not be compelled to accept special government control. There were members present, however, who felt that under the existing circumstances it was unwise to insist upon constitutional rights which might lead to the imputation of special privilege on the part of the ill disposed and the ignorant. All present then agreed to accept a code but to incorporate in it a declaration maintaining the freedom of the press.

As I was not present at any of the negotiations leading up to the adoption of the temporary code, I will not attempt to describe them. It is sufficient to say that when approved it contained Section 11 as follows:

Free Press Provision

"In submitting or subscribing to this code the publishers do not thereby agree to accept or to comply with any other requirements than those herein contained, or waive any right to object to the imposition of any further or different requirements, or waive any constitutional rights or consent to the imposition of any requirements that might restrict or interfere with the constitutional guarantee of the Freedom of the Press."

The Only Question at Issue

The only question now at issue between the press and the administrator is whether this section shall be retained or ejected, the administrator pressing for its ejection. The subject has received much consideration and discussion in press meetings and in editorial columns with almost but not complete unanimity for retention.

The resultant publicity has aroused the antagonism of the code authorities, who have embarked upon a speech making campaign.

Mr. Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, author of the theory that the NRA is a revolution, in a speech before the Women's Democratic Club at Philadelphia, on November fourth, said:

The Hobgoblin

"There has not been a single action taken or contemplated by the NRA which would endanger freedom of the press. Those who argue that newspapers might be licensed under the NRA are simply creating a hobgoblin and then screaming at it, which is not a sensible occupation for mature persons.

"In a word, there is not and there never will be the slightest interference with the constitutionally guaranteed freedom of the press by the NRA."

Professor Lindsay Rogers, Deputy NRA Administrator, in charge of the newspaper [press] code, before the United Typothetae in Chicago on October twenty-sixth, after reading from the arguments of Alexander Hamilton in the "Federalist" against constitutional protection for a free press, arguments which were rejected by the states and afterwards repudiated by him, said:

"The Licensing section has been considered as standing apart and does stand apart from the section dealing with the presentation and approval of codes, but the President has not used the authority conferred upon him and there has been no public demand that he do so.

"Nevertheless, the section has been used by those who seek to conjure imaginary hobgoblins of interference with liberty of the press. Those who use the word 'License' should make it clear to the unsuspecting that no responsible, intelligent person has ever thought of the possibility of newspapers being under the licensing provision of the act.

"If such a proposal were ever made the judges of the land would be unanimous in preventing it. The word 'Licensing' should not be brought into any discussion of the formulation of a code on hours and wages for the newspapers of the United States."

The Straw Man

He also said that the newspapers were erecting men of straw in order to knock them over. He asserted that the constitutional guarantee of liberty of the press did not, however, mean liberty to refuse to submit to a code. Newspapers, he said, are in precisely the same class as is any other industry whose employés' wages and hours are to be governed by the recovery act. The code deals only with hours and wages, he declared.

Lastly, General Hugh Johnson, the soldier-administrator, in Chicago on November sixth, spoke more Felixitously than his civilian aids, for after repeating their disclaimers of press interference and raising hobgoblins and straw men, he added cats. Said he:

The Synthetic Cat

"Now, we don't mind really honest and substantial dead cats. My only complaint is that the most of these dead cats are synthetic."

More forthright than the aids, he admitted in an interview that licensing had been a part of the code handed to the publishers, but said it had not been insisted on.

It is far from me to impugn the motives of these gentlemen, the violence, not to say virulence, of whose utterances is witness of their earnestness. I will not suggest that they do not know what they are saying. I do not for an instant question their bona fides. No more do I doubt their entire familiarity with their offices. How, then, reconcile their disclaimers of intent to interfere with the freedom of the press with the three specific instances of interference and suppression that we know about, to wit:

How to Reconcile the Discrepancy

First, the threat to prosecute the editor of the Tallassee (Alabama) Tribune if he continued to publish editorials objectionable to the bureaucrat Dunnegan. Second, the withdrawal of press privileges from Mr. True by General Johnson for publishing letters objectionable to General Johnson. Third, the withdrawal of the Blue Eagle from the tailor, Murray, of Lynn, Massachusetts, for words published in an advertisement objectionable to the local NRA proconsuls and the administrator, over the protests of Congressman William P. Connery, which was followed by the bankruptcy of Murray. In this instance the tailor was a publisher, and his right which was infringed was the right of free press.

Milton's Areopagitica

Murray was exercising "the liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to conscience," which Milton wanted "above all liberties," and they ruined him for it.

The explanation is the same explanation we find all through history.

Men who are given dictatorial powers invariably become tyrants, with the tyrannical conviction that they are heaven-sent, that what they do is divinely inspired, and that dissent is treason.

The Explanation

That explains why we find in this minor lawyer, this college professor, this former assistant to a Wall Street speculator, the same harsh attitude toward these little publishers that the Duke of York took towards the little publisher, Peter Zenger, whose fight for freedom is the great epic of your city, and that President Adams and Justice Chase held towards Lyon, Haswell, Cooper and Callender, with this distinction: Zenger, Lyon, Haswell, Cooper and Callender were tried with the forms of law; True and Murray were judged and punished by their accusers without any trial. For similar procedure we must look past England to the lettres de cachet of Louis XIV.

James II. and Charles I.

These recent actions shed much light on the psychology of James Stuart and his father, Charles, sincere men, bigots by accident of birth, who lost more for mistaken convictions than any men in history. They also explain the rule of the English Commoners suddenly become major generals under Oliver Cromwell, and the extraordinary metamorphoses of John Adams and Justice Chase after the passage of the Sedition Act.

Tyranny Makes Tyrants

THE LAW OF NATURE IS NOT THAT TYRANTS MAKE TYRANNY, BUT THAT TYRANNY MAKES TYRANTS.

Let me repeat that:

During the three hundred years from the invention of the printing press down to our revolutionary war every method that the ingenious mind of man could devise had been used to suppress its freedom. First, licenses were required to operate printing presses. Then censorship was invoked.

The Old Repressions

After that it was made a crime to criticize any function of government. Then power was put in the hands of the royal judges to declare any utterance by a newspaper a criminal libel and to punish the editor with torture and with death. And, when all these efforts had been overcome or had proven abortive, excessive taxation was imposed upon the newspapers in England, which suppressed them for more than one hundred years.

The First Amendment

It is conceded that in phrasing the First Amendment to the Constitution the framers of the "Bill of Rights" had in mind every invasion that had already been made upon the freedom of the press, and realizing that the ingenuity of men in government is infinite, they did not confine their prohibitions to the evils that had gone before, but put in language broad enough to include any effort that could ever be made to limit the freedom of utterance.

Yet, no sooner had the Constitution and its amendments been adopted than Congress infringed upon that freedom, and prison, yea, torture, had to be endured to re-establish it. And all through our history, in every generation, efforts have been made to limit freedom of the press, and always have they been resisted successfully.

The Recent Infringements

In our own generation liberty of utterance has been attacked, and in its defense editors have been put in jeopardy of ruin and of imprisonment.

The framers of the newspaper code, who insist that the freedom of the press be not reserved in the code, have thrice violated the freedom of the press while claiming to respect it and have denounced the newspapers in language closely resembling the persecutor Chase.

The Duty of the Press

The freedom of the press is the freedom of the American people. Circumstances have imposed upon the publishers of America the important duty and responsibility of preserving that freedom and handing it down to posterity. I believe that they will prove worthy of it.

MUSSOLINI STATE WON'T WORK IN U. S. A.--MERRIAM

U. of C. Savant Says It May Point a Way Out.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The corporative state idea which Premier Mussolini presents not only to Italy but to the other nations of the world as the way out of economic and social difficulties, is not the way for America in the opinion of Charles E. Merriam, head of the social science department at the University of Chicago and vice chairman of the president's research committee on social trends in 1932. It may, however, he thinks, help to point the ultimate way, now dimly discerned, in which the American genius will find the solution of its special needs, opportunities and limitations.

Of the three conditions laid down by Mussolini for nations which wish to achieve a corporative state, only one, Prof. Merriam pointed out yesterday, exists in this country. That is "a period of very high tension."

Ready for High Adventure.

"Our social thinkers agree that mankind has slipped its moorings and is ready for high adventure on new seas," Prof. Merriam said. "But ideas such as the corporative state, the Fascist state, which attains something of mysticism coupled with a realistic action, can only come into being in a soil that has long been ready for them. Their sources must be sought in the stream of a nation's history. And America leads away from that."

The chief obstacle to American adoption of the Italian method, according to Prof. Merriam, appears to lie in the first condition laid down by Mussolini. That is, "a single party with perfect political discipline."

"The two party system has been with us for a hundred years," said Prof. Merriam. "Our people are so attached to it that they would not look with kindness on giving one party all the legality of action. There is not the slightest sign of any such trend here."

Origin of Corporate State.

The corporative state, in the modern Italian sense, is still partly a hope rather than a complete achievement, Prof. Merriam points out. The origin of its base, the guilds or syndicates of labor, may be traced to the 17th and 18th century guilds and corporations. The dictator leader lived first in Julius Caesar. The state emerges. Its genesis may be found in Plato's republic. Individualism and equal rights, the natural rights philosophy and the French revolution, has intervened, and have now been abandoned for something that substitutes discipline and differences.

As explained by one writer, Ziegler, in place of a contrasting state and society in Italy there is a unification of state, government and politics in every domain of life. There is no limit to the capacity and power of the state or its authority. It reaches into every order and essence of social existence and conditions the whole cultural system. There is, finally, a union with the church, for God has moved in Italy to show mankind the road to civilization.

Merge into Federal Union.

The corporations which merged into the federal union of corporations and later into the Fascist state, comprised industrial labor, agricultural labor, commerce, the middle and intellectual classes and seamen. The Bologna Congress resolution states:

"The nation, taken as the highest synthesis of all the material and spiritual values of the race, is above individuals, occupations and classes. Individuals, occupations and classes are the instruments which the nation employs to reach its greatest glory. The interests of individuals, or professions and of classes acquire the stamp of legitimacy when they come to be embodied in the plan of the higher national interests."

Socialism and democracy are forbidden words in Italy. Economic liberalism, which is the present democratic system here, has been given its funeral oration by Mussolini. Communism also goes out the window. Private property is defended. It is always, however, in the control of the state.

There Are No Classes.

Another word for the corporative state is the totalitarian state in which the interests and hopes of the people are centered. There are to be no classes. The word for this great energizing is "potenziare," which means to make more powerful and effective. This fusing and mellowing into one channel of hope and action is a third essential to the achievement of the corporative state by any nation.

Italy has tried many forms of government since it emerged from the dawn of recorded history. About 500 B. C. the Latins drove the Etruscan kings out and began the slow business of building a Roman state. Five hundred years a republic and five hundred years an empire. It has lived through glorious days and the waves of dark ages have covered it. It only became the modern kingdom with Rome its capital in 1870.

The American scene is different. As interpreted by Prof. Merriam in his report of social trends it looks toward new solutions.

"We cannot ignore," he writes, "the interpenetration of the large social and economic units with the more specifically political agencies. The whole delicate structure of modern industry is increasingly intertwined with governmental functions, and will continue to be so in the future, not as the result of any theory whatever, but as the inevitable consequence of the closer integration of social and political life.

Great Mass of Relations.

"Currency and banking, shipping, international loans, taxation, tariffs, unemployment, are only a part of the great mass of relations which tend to come within the circle of governmental influence and control; and the inexorable trend continues. No theory or practice, individualism, collectivism, fascism, has yet shown a clear way to deal effectively with this new situation, and the future will call for wise but bold experimentation, looking forward rather than back. Nor will the problem be solved by one nation alone.

"The prevalence of technical skill, the strength of scientific interest in large scale organization and management, the lack of established social traditions and castes to interfere with the prompt recognition of new trends, all these might make it possible to reorganize and reconstruct a type of government and administration in which the factors of modern science and economics were adequately recognized and reconciled with democratic control."

GRACE EX-NURSE BARES "ATTACK" IN HER DEFENSE

Intended to Kill Self, Not Rich Man, She Says.

Santa Cruz, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A story of a criminal attack was placed before the jury here today as the defense of Frieda Weltz, 43 year old nurse on trial for slaying Francis J. M. Grace, member of the wealthy shipping family.

James Duggan, attorney for Miss Weltz, outlined the defense case and then called the nurse herself to the stand to tell the story of her life, beginning with her high school days in Connellsville, Pa., and continuing through her world war service in an evacuation hospital in France and on to her acceptance of a position as private nurse for Grace.

Duggan declared the defense would show that Grace drugged and raped the nurse here the night of June 9, 1932.

He further asserted Miss Weltz came here last September armed not to kill Grace but to kill herself at his feet should he refuse her financial aid to regain her health.

Tells of Hearing "Crash."

"When I took the gun out of my purse I heard a crash," she testified.

Miss Weltz related that when she entered the grounds of the Grace summer home here, intending to commit suicide, Grace approached her and said he would send Helen Roberts, his latest nurse, into the house so they could talk things over.

"He didn't do it, and started walking toward the house himself," Miss Weltz testified. "As he passed her I took the gun out of my purse—to get the gun to do just as I told you. I heard a crash. I intended to kill myself. The gun was in my right hand. I did not point the gun at Grace."

Charges Grace Drugged Her.

Duggan, who is a friend of the Weltz family from Pittsburgh, Pa., said Grace asked Miss Weltz to come here with him last year, then made intimate advances. On the night of June 9, the attorney said the defense would show, Grace drugged her.

"She found herself the next morning in a pitiable condition and demanded to be taken home," Duggan went on. "He took her to her apartment in San Francisco. She found she was to become a mother. Grace pleaded with her not to have a baby. He said it would ruin him. She took a drug which produced the desired effect."

BRITISH LIBERALS 'DECLARE WAR' ON GOVERNMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A scathing attack on the national government was delivered tonight by Sir Herbert Samuel, former Liberal cabinet minister, in an address in which he announced the decision of his party to come out definitely in opposition to the government next session of the house of commons Tuesday.

Sir Herbert resigned as home secretary last year after a disagreement over the government's tariff policy. Twenty-eight of the 32 members of the party in the house will follow their leader into the opposition. The status of four is uncertain. It is not believed the group will ally itself, however, with David Lloyd George and his "family Liberal party" consisting of Maj. Gwilym and Miss Megan Lloyd George and Maj. Goronwy Owen.

In his address Sir Herbert attacked the government for failure to deal with unemployment, housing and agriculture problems. He expressed dissatisfaction with the government's disarmament policy. He declared the cabinet has shown "a lack of zeal in this matter and among the negotiators a lack of skill."

Barmaid, 18, Is Convicted of Killing Her Employer

JENNY DOLLY'S $1,000,000 GEMS SOLD FOR $250,000

PARIS, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A million dollars worth of jewels belonging to Jenny Dolly brought only 4,448,600 francs [approximately one-fourth their estimated value] in a public auction here today.

Jenny, who with her sister, Roszika, formed one of the most publicized dancing teams in America and Europe, did not attend the sale, which was conducted under the auspices of a municipal pawnshop to which the jewels had been pledged. A friend who told her of the news at the nursing home where she is undergoing plastic surgery operations following an automobile accident said she was "so delighted she jumped with joy."

BRITAIN TO "TALK TURKEY" ON ARMS WITH GERMANY

Makes Effort to Revive Disarmament Parley.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—That Great Britain is ready to bow to Chancellor Hitler's ultimatum and discuss concessions to Germany in the matter of armaments was indicated tonight in authoritative circles.

This report, coming on the heels of instructions that Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon proceed to Geneva as a move to get Germany back into the terms conference, was viewed as an explanation for renewed activity here to save the disarmament talks from a breakdown. The British foreign chief is expected to confer with representatives of France, Italy and the United States at Geneva.

Futility Seen.

It was admitted in informed quarters that the British government realizes the futility of this activity unless the European nations are ready to make a gesture to Germany.

Sir John and Capt. Anthony Eden, undersecretary for foreign affairs, may leave for Geneva tomorrow.

It was believed that the only act to be achieved there is the selection of a four power meeting place acceptable to Germany in view of her aversion to the home of the league of nations as a site for further discussions. Germany quit Geneva last month, charging that arms negotiations were useless and demanding treatment as an equal as a prerequisite to a return.

Sir John will confer in Geneva with Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, who is acting head of the United States arms delegation in the absence of Ambassador at Large Norman H. Davis. The probability is seen of a fresh start on the basis of an actual draft of a disarmament convention.

Henderson Demands Action.

One reason for the return of the Briton was the demand for action which Arthur Henderson, the British president of the disarmament conference, sent to the governments, threatening to resign the chairmanship if their arms "attitude" were not changed.

The government meanwhile kept in close touch with other governments. Two cabinet meetings yesterday considered ways to effect Germany's return and political quarters made much of talk that a four power conference might be in the offing.

Rome and London were mentioned as possible meeting places, with London increasingly in favor. The date, also, was a matter of conjecture.

Politicians believed the government would outline its plans before the house of commons not later than next week.

Meet at Geneva Saturday.

GENEVA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Representatives of France and Great Britain, and perhaps Italy, will meet here Saturday in an attempt to revitalize the disarmament conference. The announcement was made today that Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and former Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour of France are being sent here by their governments.

The first problem, observers said, would involve political conversations regarding the position of Germany, which withdrew last month from the world disarmament conference and the league of nations. The attitude of the German government was still described as "wait and see."

France has lately advanced the arms possibility by distributing a plan for the control of armaments whereby mobile bodies would be authorized to conduct investigations into the armaments of any country, and to inspect the records of arms factories at least once a year, always without advance notice.

BEATING FATAL TO GIRL; POLICE START INQUIRY

Town Hall police yesterday were investigating the death of Ann Farley, 23 years old, 1420 Farwell avenue, a waitress, in the Rogers Park hospital, of injuries incurred in a beating inflicted a month ago. No report of the assault was made until last Tuesday, when hospital authorities called the police because her condition had become grave.

The girl said she had been accosted on Oct. 14, while walking in Clark street near Belmont avenue, by a stranger, who demanded she remove her clothing. When she refused, she said, the man struck her. The police were convinced she had concocted the tale of the stranger to shield some one.

Harper Aitken, 29 years old, 520 Grant place, a hotel clerk, was released after questioning. He said he had lived with the girl for two years, but left her two months ago. He admitted beating the girl on several occasions, but denied striking her on Oct. 14. An inquest was continued until Nov. 24 at the request of the police.

DRIVE TO MAKE AMERICA NAZI MINDED CHARGED

Paris Editor Tells of Propaganda Plan.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Ultra confidential instructions to German propaganda agents in North and South America, the authenticity of which is guaranteed by Albert Jullien, noted political editor of Petit Parisien, were published in that newspaper today.

The document outlines carefully the methods to be used and the aims to be achieved. Above all it indicates that despite Chancellor Hitler's statements to the contrary, Germany demands not only Alsace-Lorraine but her old colonies, definite junking of the Versailles treaty, and absolute equality of armaments.

To gain the public opinion of the Americans in favor of these demands, "the government is willing to make considerable financial sacrifices."

Told to Work Cautiously.

The document opens by reminding the agents that opinion in the Americas at present is very unfavorable and that hence they must work cautiously, preferably through persons who would not be suspected. The aim in gaining the favor of the Americas is that "this public opinion, once mobilized in favor of Germany, could exercise pressure on the governments which to a great part are dependent upon it."

American opinion must be weaned away from hostility to the Nazi party as well as the German people and especially from the idea that Germany would be all right if it was not directed by Hitlerites.

How Scheme Is Carried Out.

The propaganda is to be carried out in the following ways:

FIRST—Development of a radio news service.

SECOND—Through the press by means of publication of articles which do not have the appearance of propaganda, and by establishment of personal relations with journalists and owners in order to exercise a personal influence with them.

THIRD—Development of cultural propaganda to second the political propaganda.

FOURTH — Artistic expositions, pamphlets, and other methods of demonstration.

FIFTH—Translation of German brochures.

The agents are informed that the question of expense must be secondary for the moment "as the present situation must be considered equivalent to a state of immediate danger of war for Germany." Here the agents are again reminded not to make the propaganda look like what it is. They are then informed that the French have an efficient, well oiled propaganda service in America about which they must get information.

Special Fund Set Aside.

So far, the instructions say, little has been accomplished along this line, but if any agent can get information for which he must pay, money will be available at the official German representation in the form of a special extra budgetry fund.

Then follows the political ideas to be put across. In addition to those mentioned above two are outstanding: First, France is the traditional enemy of Germany; second, England "must be considered the strongest and most dangerous partner of France for us. That is why the reich government in foreign affairs tries to disturb relations between these two countries."

It is then pointed out that Germany is not in a position to impose her demands on her former enemies and so despite the nature of these demands as outlined the Americans must be given the idea that "Germany does not desire anything but a peaceful settlement of problems in suspense, and thus attaches the greatest value to foreigners being informed objectively on her problems."

In conclusion the instructions point out that in case of "certain eventualities," at least part of public opinion must be brought to favor Germany. The agents are instructed to get the idea across that "there remains to Germany nothing but seeking justice for herself, which does not signify necessarily that Germany will create a 'casus belli.'"

Germany Issues Sharp Denial.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Publication by the newspaper Petit Parisien in Paris today of alleged propaganda ministry documents instructing agents in North and South America to turn public opinion against France brought an official denied from the government.

"These alleged instructions," said an official statement, "so plainly bear the stamp of free invention that denying them hardly seems necessary. The pity is that the widely read French journal should, especially at the present juncture, lend itself to spreading such poisonous stuff."

HOLY LAND JEWS ANGERED BY BAN ON IMMIGRANTS

JERUSALEM, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Jews are deeply indignant at regulations recently instituted by the Palestine government to prevent the entry of unauthorized Hebrew immigrants, it became known today.

Striking at the new regulations, the Jewish agency executive not only demanded the withdrawal of some, but asked revision of the rest. The regulations were directed against Jews crossing the frontier without certificates from immigration authorities and Jewish visitors, admitted on temporary permits, overstaying and settling.

Charges Jews Are Arrested.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The London Herald cited Jewish information here today of alleged "wholesale arrests and imprisonment" of Jews in Palestine while a steady, unrestricted influx of Bedouin Arabs from Syria and trans-Jordan was permitted.

NAZIS POINT TO POLISH ACCORD; TAUNT FRENCH

"It Should Teach Them a Lesson," Press Says.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The resumption of direct negotiations between Germany and Poland and the agreement between the two countries not to resort to force "should teach the French a lesson and show them the real up to date way of handling political questions," the Nazi press declared today.

The present German-Polish parley follows Germany's withdrawal on Oct. 27 of two suits against Poland from the world court at The Hague. At that time reich officials declared direct negotiations would prove more satisfactory.

The Germans insist that the Poles initiated the present negotiations. They assert that the nonforce declaration does not mean a non-aggression pact.

May Eliminate Dynamite.

Diplomatic circles admit that if the Poles and Germans succeed in ironing out their differences, much dynamite will be eliminated in Europe.

"A real Locarno of the east, if it is enforced, will mean more to the peace of Europe than the first Locarno accord [guaranteeing western European boundaries]," one diplomat said. "It would also most eloquently prove the sincerity of Chancellor Hitler's desire for lasting peace and would add international laurels to the laurels which his countrymen have already bestowed on him for his internal activities."

POLAND SKEPTICAL

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 16.—While welcoming the changed attitude of Germany toward Poland which Chancellor Hitler emphasized in his meeting with Polish Minister Lipski in Berlin yesterday official Polish circles still are skeptical of the proffers of friendship coming from the Nazi dictatorship. The Poles are accepting Hitler's statements at their face value but are waiting confirmatory moves from the reich.

It is believed here the most important test of Hitler's sincerity will be the future German economic policy towards Poland. Poland's previous overtures to end the trade war between the two countries until now have been rejected by Berlin.

Corridor Issue Seen Fading.

If friendly trade relations develop, controversial questions such as the corridor, Danzig and Upper Silesia, will lose importance, according to THE TRIBUNE's informant.

The official government newspaper, Gazeta Polska, edited by a trusted aid of Dictator Joseph Pilsudski, commented today that the wary attitude ot the Polish foreign office toward Moscow resulted in a long period of gradually improving relations between Poland and Russia, and that Poland views the nonaggression declaration formulated at the meeting of Hitler and Lipski as the beginning of such a period in Polish-German relations.

HITLER TO FREE ALL POLITICAL PRISONERS AS REWARD FOR VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Millions of Germans today hailed with relief the announcement of Commissar of Justice Frank that he will ask Chancellor Hitler to extend amnesty to political prisoners before Christmas. It will be "a reward" for "the overwhelming backing given Hitler Sunday," he said.

The semi-official news service and the Voelkische Beobachter in reporting the speech yesterday omitted reference to amnesty. It appeared in the official Angriff today.

Preparations for the release of the prisoners have been started. At Hamburg 150 have been freed from the concentration camp. Similar action has been taken at Bremen and Stuttgart.

ROB REALTY OFFICE OF $100.

Four masked bandits, the leader armed with a machine gun, yesterday took $100 in a robbery of the Kohout Brothers real estate office, 6200 Cermak road, after forcing ten employés to lie face down on the floor.

GERMAN BISHOP AGREES TO KILL HITLERITE 'CREED'

Will Let Christian Jews Remain in Church.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, as the leader of German Protestantism, agreed tonight to promulgate a law rescinding all church laws adopted by the provinces or the nation in recent months, including the so-called Aryan statute.

This will mean that non-Aryan Christians—those with Jewish blood—can continue membership in the church and hold offices in it.

Bishop Mueller agreed also to demand from all church bodies and officers a written acknowledgement that they accept the Bible and the articles of faith of the church as binding on them.

Day of Stormy Bickering.

These developments came as a concession after days of stormy bickering that included orders for the ousting of three ministers from their pastorates for challenging the anti-Semitic stand of the Nazi-German Christians, a counter demand for the dismissal of the Rev. Joachim Hossenfelder, head of the Nazi movement in the church, and the remarks at a Nazi churchmen's mass meeting by Dr. Reinhold Krause, chief of the Berlin section of the German Christians, that parts of the Old Testament should be rejected.

Bishop Mueller's promise today was taken as a notable victory for former Bishop Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, the Rev. Martin Niemaeller, one of the suspended pastors, and their friends over the Nazi-German Christians.

Further negotiations were pending, regarding the demands of the Rev. Mr. Niemaller and others for the removal of the Rev. Mr. Hossenfelder, whose position was considered untenable by the Von Bodelschwingh faction on account of his strictures against foreign churches and because of his attitude of tolerance toward the remarks of Dr. Krause.

To Call Officials on Carpet.

Dr. Mueller agreed also to call on the carpet high church officials who sat, unprotesting, in the sports palace when Dr. Krause was reported to have suggested the elimination of the crucifix as a religious symbol.

The fate of Niemaeller, and the Revs. E. F. Rabernau and F. Scharf, who also were ordered suspended "for offering resistance to the National Socialist and the German Christian spirit with regard to the necessary reconstruction of the German Evangelical church," depended tonight on whether Bishop Mueller removes Dr. Hossenfelder, who as bishop of Brandenburg suspended these pastors.

Bishop Hossenfelder yesterday declared that "we German Christians unanimously believe that it is more important to share the fate of the German people, and, with full hearts to associate ourselves with it than to keep contact with churches of other peoples."

Irish 'Blue Shirts' Stripped of Shirts; Thrust Into Cold

CULLOVILLE, Armagh, North of Ireland, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Seven members of Gen. Owen O'Duffy's blue shirts were seized in a dance hall here today, stripped of their shirts and forced to walk in the bitter cold six miles to Carrickmacross in the Irish Free State. The Irish Free State government outlawed O'Duffy's blue shirt National Guard Aug. 21 and set up a military tribunal with the power of "life or death" over the state's enemies. The blue shirts were banned as an armed menace.

AAA HEARS CASH MILK DEALERS DEFEND PRICE CUT

Tell How They Can Sell Product Cheaper.

The fate of Rome and Carthage was pointed out as a warning to exponents of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's new thought economics for farmers and consumers of farm products yesterday at the hearing of violators of the AAA milk marketing agreement for Chicago. The hearing was held in the United States appraiser's storehouse at 610 South Canal street. All but a dozen of the 77 cases scheduled have been disposed of, and the remainder will be finished this morning.

The historical lecture was delivered by a defendant in one of the actions, who opened his appearance by confessing his violation. He was John P. O'Meara, owner of the Fair Oaks Farm and Dairy Products company, which he said was the second cash and carry milk store established in Chicago.

"I think that this milk price agreement is for the protection of the big companies," said O'Meara at the close of his testimony. "This is a great nation. I offered my life for it, and my father offered his before me, in the civil war.

"But I ask you to remember what happened to Rome and Carthage. They decayed because their middle class was destroyed. This legislation is destroying the middle class of dealers in the milk business."

Acts as Judge in Hearing.

O'Meara spoke at the hearing conducted by Elmer D. Hays, who, while he holds the post of chief attorney of the licensing and enforcement section of the AAA in Washington, is sitting in the present hearing in the capacity of a judge. His attitude yesterday, as it was in the opening hearing on Tuesday, was more that of judge than prosecutor.

Inasmuch as every violator admitted at the outset of his hearing that he was selling milk at less than the 11 cents a quart fixed by the agreement, it would have been within Attorney Hays' power to close the hearings immediately. Instead, he frequently permitted the defendants to make explanations of the economics of the cash and carry business in which they are engaged, and for which the marketing agreement makes no provision. This he frequently did over strenuous objections from the two AAA attorneys acting as prosecutors, Lisle A. Smith and W. J. Blalock.

Of every defendant who appeared before him yesterday Attorney Hays asked a uniform question: "If every one in Chicago abides by License No. 1 [the blanket regulation covering prices and every other phase of the local milk business] are you willing to abide by it?"

Signed by Only 87 Dealers.

To observers acquainted with the whole local milk situation, this served to call attention to the magnitude of the enforcement task facing AAA authorities in the Chicago area covered by the milk marketing agreement. Of some 300 dealers in the area, only 87, handling about two-thirds of the total milk sold, are signatories to the agreement.

When Attorney Hays put his question to O'Meara, the latter replied:

"I would want consideration from the government on several points. First, I would want the government to consider the cash and carry units separately from other forms of service. I have been in the milk delivery business and I know that ordinarily there is a waste of at least four drivers' time on every large apartment building, in the duplication of routes. On the other hand, as many as nine families from one apartment building come to my store."

Delivery Cost Eliminated.

Several witnesses have testified at the hearing that it is the elimination of delivery costs which enables the cash and carry stores to cut under the price of 11 cents a quart established by the marketing agreement, and at the same time to pay higher prices to the farmers producing the milk, in some cases, than those paid by the large dairy companies charging the code price for delivered milk.

At present the agreement contains no provision for a differential between delivered and cash and carry milk prices. The matter is under extensive investigation by AAA authorities in Washington. Yesterday it was learned that they have abandoned the idea of establishing a simple differential between the two classes of sales, for which a spread of 1½ cents a quart had been suggested.

In its place, according to reports from Washington, the officials are considering the abolishment of price fixing in the milk agreement. Instead the agreement would provide a fixed minimum price to be paid to farmers, and as regards the price charged consumers, would either set a simple price maximum or a range between a maximum and a minimum price.

Consumers Are Represented.

Yesterday saw the first consumer representation at the hearings. Several members of the city council subcommittee on milk attended as spectators part of the day, and the proceedings were also heard by Dr. Frederick Howe of the consumers council of the AAA. He will return to Chicago when the department of agriculture holds its promised public hearing for consumers soon. At that time many of the questions discussed fragmentarily by the defendants in the present hearing will be considered in detail.

In yesterday's hearings there were 20 default cases, in which the defendants failed to appear. In each of these cases the evidence of price violation was submitted by an employé of one of the "Big Four" milk companies or of the milk bottle exchange, which these companies control.

Attorney Arthur R. Seelig, who represented Miske, and Attorney Kenneth G. Meyer, counsel for G. E. Arnold, owner of a milk stand in Des Plaines, entered objections to the trial of their clients on the grounds that the agricultural adjustment act is unconstitutional. Attorney Seelig's objection was that Miske is not engaged in interstate commerce and that congress has no right to regulate intrastate business.

Attorney Meyer termed the marketing agreement "unconstitutional, confiscatory and a piece of class legislation," and asserted that no attempt has been made to fix retail prices in any other line of business. Attorney Hays overruled the objections. The District of Columbia Supreme court on Tuesday held the agricultural adjustment act constitutional in an opinion on a suit brought by two Philadelphia milk dealers.

STATE GASOLINE TAX PAYMENTS CONTINUE TO GAIN OVER 1932

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—For the fifth consecutive month, Illinois gasoline tax collections exceeded those for corresponding months of 1932, J. M. Braude, assistant to Director Joseph J. Rice of the department of finance, announced here today.

Collections for 1933, up to and including payments on gasoline sales in September, totaled $22,120,187.56, as compared with $21,718,393.39 for the same months of 1932. This was an increase of $402,094.16. Collections in October this year of gasoline taxes in September were $2,784,152.66, as compared with $2,605,516.21 for the same month in 1932.

Illinois, according to statistics compiled by the American Petroleum institute for the first eight months of this year, was one of 19 states showing an increase in gasoline consumption and an increase in tax collections.

The upswing in revenue from the tax, according to Mr. Braude, began with May sales of gasoline and has continued without interruption. Revenue obtained from sales in May, June, August and September of this year was $14,017,558.48, as compared with $13,217,626.17 for the corresponding months of 1932. The increase of $798,932.31 was more than sufficient to offset the decrease in revenue from sales in January, February, and March of this year.

NORRIS ASKS RICH TO PASS WEALTH BACK TO PEOPLE

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A progressive inheritance tax, which would make it impossible for the property of one generation to be passed intact to those of a succeeding generation, was advocated as one of the permanent remedies needed to bring the United States out of its economic and social dilemma by United States Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.] here tonight.

The senator spoke at a convocation at which he received the fifth Cardinal Newman award, presented annually by the Newman Foundation on the University of Illinois campus, for "his distinguished contributions in human welfare in the field of statesmanship for almost half a century."

"As a permanent remedy," said Senator Norris, "we ought not only to shorten the hours of toil and labor, but we ought to limit the right of wealth to entail itself from one generation to another."

Passed Back to People.

In his mad rush for wealth man has forgotten the duty he owes to humanity, said the senator, and such a tax would be "without injury to any living soul." His plan for such a tax, "should allow a liberal exemption—an exemption even large enough so that the beneficiary might live the balance of his life in luxury—and then it should be increased by progressive steps so that the residue of the fortune could be passed back to the people through this method of taxation and thus be returned to the government whose laws made it possible for the fortune to be acquired. Such a tax, like Portia's mercy, would be twice blessed. It would be a blessing to the taxpayer whose burdens would thus, to some extent, be removed and it would be a blessing to humanity by making it impossible for swollen fortunes and monopolistic combinations, by their powerful influence, to perform acts of injustice either to the government, or to individuals."

"Such a tax could be collected with less hardship than any other tax ever conceived by man," he said. "It injures no one. It is the least burdensome of all forms of taxation and would make it impossible for the dangers confronting us now, to confront our posterity.

"It will add to human happiness, and not add one mite of grief or pain to any one.

"I make no complaint against wealth as such," said Senator Norris. "There are many wealthy men who have accumulated their property with perfect honesty and without injustice or injury to any of their fellow men, and who are handling their fortunes with real philanthropy, but even to these men there is no injustice in such a tax.

"The man who has accumulated great wealth ought not object if, when he is dead and when it is impossible for him to longer use or enjoy his money, a portion of his great fortune should be turned over to the government under whose laws he has been protected in its accumulation.

"There is no inherent right in any man to make any disposition of his property after he is dead," said the Nebraska senator. "It is only because the statutes of the country permit this to be done that he is able to have anything to say regarding his fortune after he has passed on."

The presentation of the award to Senator Norris was made by Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan of Illinois. David E. Shanahan of Chicago, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, read the citation.

The annual bazaar of the Daughters of the British Empire for the benefit of the British Old People's home at Hollywood, Ill., opened yesterday in the Congress hotel. The Sons and Daughters of St. George, the British Empire association, the British-American Women's club, and the Dickens Fellowship club are coöperating in the bazaar. It will close Saturday night.

FARM RADICALS BOO RENO'S NAME AT CONFERENCE

Milo Reno, militant leader of the farm holiday movement in Iowa, was assailed yesterday by speakers at the second day's session of the farmers' national conference, attended by some 700 radical farmers from nearly forty states, at the Peoples' auditorium, 2457 West Chicago avenue.

Reno was characterized as objectionable to the farmers because they "are opposed to high salaried leaders," and when his name was mentioned the conference booed and hissed. The same reception was accorded mention of Arnold Gilberts, Wisconsin Farm Holiday association president, for having called off the holiday when the governors of western states met in Des Moines recently. The name of Walter M. Singler, leader of the Wisconsin milk pool, also drew an unfavorable response.

The farmers, who came in trucks and other humble conveyances from distant points to seek outright cash relief from the government and a moratorium on foreclosures and evictions, welcomed a party of colored people from Alabama with cheers. The Negroes described themselves as "share croppers."

Resolutions of the conference are to be presented to the delegates this afternoon and this evening a mass meeting is scheduled in protest against "capitalism, the NRA and AAA."

GERMANY BANS SALE OF TITLES IN EXCHANGE FOR WEALTHY BRIDES

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The cabinet took steps today to end title hunting on the preserves of the German nobility.

A new law adopted by the cabinet declares null and void any marriage concluded after Nov. 9 that involved the exchange of a title for a certain monetary consideration. By this law the government hoped to eradicate the abuses of sham marriages and adoptions which have become rampant since the world war, especially among the impoverished German nobility.

Title hunting by the newly rich was particularly rife during the inflation period a decade ago, when advertisements appeared commonly in newspapers offering baronial, princely, and even ducal titles, either by marriage or adoption, in exchange for cash payments anywhere from 1,000 to 1,000,000 marks.

SON CONFESSES THEFT IN CASE AGAINST FATHER

William J. Tomkins, 77 years old, 2031 Leland avenue, treasurer of the Chicago Kiwanis Bowling league, appeared yesterday before Judge Jay Schiller to answer a charge of embezzlement of $1,075 of the funds of that organization. With him were his son, Glenn, 30 years old, and his attorney, Sidney Blankstein.

"I have here a confession from the son, Glenn," the attorney told the judge. "He admits that he took the money which his father kept in a hiding place around the house."

The elder Tomkins asked leniency for his son and announced that he was ready to make restitution and offered the court $300 as a down payment.

U. S. ASKS BANKS TO SUBMIT DATA ON STOCK LOANS

Clarke Warned on Perjury at Pecora Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—In an effort to obtain a full picture of stock market financing, the senate banking committee has sent a questionnaire to the nation's largest banks asking what money they have loaned in recent years for stock transactions.

With disclosure of this move today, the committee continued its direct inquiry into market deals, tracing through an intricate maze of evidence and testimony the formation of General Theaters Equipment corporation in 1929.

Harley L. Clarke, of Chicago, organizer of the corporation, was threatened by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, and Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] with citation for contempt or perjury during the examination, when he made statements which the two said apparently conflicted with earlier testimony he had given.

Claims Stocks Written Up.

Information sought from the banks is intended, investigators said, to supplement data being obtained from brokers relative to operations on the New York Stock exchange and security markets in other cities.

During the testimony, Pecora produced data which he said showed that in the formation of General Theaters, the stocks of companies taken in were written up about $37,000,000.

Clarke was warned by Pecora and Couzens while the committee was inquiring into payment by the International Projector corporation in 1925 of $690,000 for stock in the Nicholas Power company.

Clarke was head of the International. Before the committee last week he said he had no interest in the company it was buying. Pecora said, however, the witness had acquired all the stock in Nicholas Power for $150 a share and got $690,000 from the International.

Pecora added that this represented $215 a share, or a profit to Clarke of around $200,000. When Clarke replied the total included title to a building, Pecora reminded him that he previously had included the building in another item.

Couzens Warns Him.

Clarke said he wanted to correct his testimony, but Couzens interjected that he was unable to understand the statements, and that Clarke could be charged with contempt if he uttered a falsehood while testifying under oath.

"Perjury," suggested Pecora.

Clarke had told the committee that in exchanging his 600,000 shares of International for G. T. E., it was at the rate of 1 for 1¼ of General Theaters, and that other stockholders had the same opportunity.

At that time, he said, the offer was withdrawn and holders of 200,000 shares got only one for one. Pecora asked Clarke to produce a record that all stockholders had the 1 for 1¼ chance, but Clarke failed to do it, adding, however, "That's my belief."

General Theaters Deal.

Pecora turned to the formation of General Theaters in July, 1929, and the various companies whose stock was acquired by General Theaters, including the Mitchell Camera company, of which William A. Fox owned 50 per cent.

Clarke said he took 5,000 shares of Theaters Equipment Acceptance corporation, for which he had paid $50,000, and exchanged them for 25,000 shares of General Theaters, then worth $20 a share, as part of the transaction.

He told the committee he paid $1,475,000 for the Mitchell Camera company and sold it to the Grandeur company, later part of General Theaters, for $3,100,000 and that in connection with this Fox was paid $2,000,000.

Pecora said he might call Fox for questioning in the inquiry, which is expected to go into the loss by Fox of control in Fox Film and theater ventures.

U. S. Judge Frees 28 Dry Law Violators in Illinois

Freeport, Ill., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward today discharged 27 men and one woman who a year ago were placed on probation after pleading guilty to prohibition law violations. Chief Probation Officer William McGrath recommended the discharges on the grounds that the prohibition act under which they were prosecuted no longer prevails.

BABY, 3, SAVES MOTHER FROM ELECTROCUTION

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Marilyn Joan Freting, 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Freting is the city's youngest heroine. She saved her mother from possible electrocution in a peculiar accident. Mrs. Freting had just finished her bath and was preparing to step from the tub when she attempted to lift a nearby sunlamp out of her way.

The contact of her wet hands with the metal lamp base created a circuit, giving her an electric shock which knocked her back into the tub. As she fell her toe came in contact with the metal tub faucet. She was unable to loose her hold on the lamp or pull her foot from the faucet.

Her screams for help as the electricity passed through her body awakened the child who had been asleep in an adjoining room.

Mrs. Freting called to her to keep out of the bathroom and to turn off the light switch just outside the door. Mrs. Freting was lapsing into unconsciousness as the child obeyed and snapped the switch, cutting off the current.

BUREAU SAVINGS ARE WIPED OUT BY EASY MONEY

Budget Reductions More than Offset.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Through curtailment of services to business concerns, involving the discharge of 1,800 government employés since July 1, the department of commerce effected a saving in expenditures for the 1934 fiscal year amounting to $10,721,408.

Of this amount, however, $3,500,000 is represented by the temporary 15 per cent pay cut of the employés remaining on the rolls. The net permanent economy, therefore, is $7,221,408.

More than offsetting this economy are the handouts of public works easy money to the commerce department which aggregate up to date $9,956,555. The department is also seeking an additional allocation of four million dollars from the public works administration.

Bureau Gets $309,500.

In the bureau of fisheries, trimming at all corners in the regular budget produced economies aggregating $56,790. But since July, fisheries has been awarded $309,000 by PWA.

In the coast and geodetic survey, the regular 1934 budget showed a decrease of $1,250,000 under 1933, the whole in construction projects, surveys, and mapping expeditions. Wiping out this "regular" curtailment, PWA has allocated the geodetic survey $3,163,121.

The bureau of lighthouses, one of the largest in the department of commerce in point of normal expenditures, showed an economy of $4,015,280 under 1933, entirely accounted for by nonrecurring construction expenditures and general functional curtailments. But since July this bureau has been awarded $5,378,734 from PWA.

Extension Work Postponed.

In the aeronautics branch, $1,171,570 was saved in the regular budget by the mere postponement of all extension work in air navigation facilities. These economies required, among other things, the abandonment of 1,800 miles of night flying routes.

But PWA since has come through with $472,200. Part of this allocation was $19,000 for "the installation of airway lighting between Louisville, Ky., and Indianapolis, Ind."

A total of $108,000 went for the relocation of air lights between Chicago and Omaha, and $50,000 more for the same work between New York and Boston. For the installation of radio standby equipment at 57 additional points the aeronautics branch got $285,000.

Fund for Landing Field.

Another item of $6,700 was for "the establishment of an intermediate landing field at Fort Plain, N. Y." Another $3,000 went for improvements on the radio range station at Oakland, Cal.

Each of these items represents, specifically, a project which in any previous year since the establishment of the budget bureau in 1921 would have been carried as a regular functional expense of the aeronautics branch. They illustrate forcefully the new method of balancing the budget by merely transferring enough items from the regular to the emergency tabulation.

Such was the method applied in the bureau of fisheries. Part of the savings realied in the regular budget was effected through elimination of an item of $50,000 "for the propagation of food fishes." But now $150,000 has been allocated by PWA to provide for buildings, ponds, and equipment at new or existing fish culture stations in Alabama, Texas, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Indiana.

Other allocations have been made for "reconditioning 1 fish patrols at Seattle," for reconditioning the fish hatchery at Booth Harbor, Me.; for reconditioning the fur seal building in the Pribilof islands, Alaska, and for new work at San Marcos, Tex., and Warm Springs, Ga.

Among the make-work projects undertaken by the bureau of lighthouses is the job of converting the Staten Island tender Oak from coal to oil burning, at $25,000. At Grand Marais, Minn., $5,400 will go to "increase power fog signal." Grosse Pointe light station in Evanston gets $7,500 for renovating and reconditioning.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WANTS TO FLY HER OWN PLANE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has ambitions to become a flyer, having grown tired of sitting behind and watching some one else handle the controls.

In deference to the President's wishes, however, the first lady is going to wait until she becomes a private citizen again before undertaking to learn.

Mrs. Roosevelt told an interviewer she had gone so far as to pass the physical examination for a beginner's pilot license.

EVANSTON COMPANY ROBBED.

Officials of the Roy Fencher Beverage company, 1216 Chicago avenue, Evanston, reported to police yesterday that cracksmen had entered the company office Wednesday night, had blown open the safe, and taken $100.

JUDGE FITZHENRY SAYS NEW DEAL IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry, speaking at a luncheon given in his honor by the Iroquois club, yesterday said that in his opinion President Roosevelt had followed the letter of the constitution in setting up the machinery for the new deal. Judge FitzHenry recently was elevated from the District court to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

"A number of critics of President Roosevelt have said that he has violated the constitution. No one in authority has said that he has and I am one of those who thinks that he has kept to the letter of the constitution," the judge told his audience.

Judge FitzHenry praised the work of President Roosevelt and said that "nowhere in the history of this country or another country has any human approached the accomplishments of the President." Speaking further of the constitution and law he said:

"We have passed many laws, perhaps too many, and what we need is strict enforcement of those we have. We should quit writing laws, but when we do write one let it be enforced."

Attorney William H. Holly, whose appointment as a federal district judge was announced recently by the President, was introduced at the meeting.

RAPE TRUE BILL REPORTED VOTED AGAINST DOCTOR

A true bill charging attempted rape was reported voted yesterday by the Cook county grand jury against Dr. Gilbert H. Wynekoop, 57 years old, 1537 East 55th street. Bond of $5,000 was set.

The reported grand jury action was taken shortly after the defendant had been held to the grand jury by Judge Jay A. Schiller in the Felony court. Judge Schiller also ordered that Dr. Wynekoop be examined as to his sanity by Dr. Harry Hoffman of the Criminal court behavior clinic.

Mrs. Myrtle Archer, 37 years old, 1607 Wilson avenue, a nurse, appeared on the stand as the complaining witness and told of going to the doctor's apartment in answer to a telephone call on Nov. 13 in which he said he wanted to employ a nurse.

"When I got there I saw nothing that indicated he was a doctor," the witness said. "There was just a bedroom with twin beds."

At this point Mrs. Archer burst into tears and the hearing was adjourned to the judge's chambers. There Mrs. Archer said Dr. Wynekoop attempted to attack her. Dr. Wynekoop denied the accusation.

JUDGE UPHOLDS INDICTMENT ON GOLD HOARDING

But Says President Has Exceeded Powers.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The anti-gold hoarding policy of President Roosevelt was upheld here today in the federal court in its first legal test. The manner of its administration, however, was declared unsound.

Judge John M. Woolsey of the United States District court ruled that the President had no power to require by proclamation the surrender of gold to the government, since congress had vested that authority exclusively in the treasury department.

The ruling leaves two courses open to the government, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie said. It either may appeal from the decision or it may supplement the President's gold order by a treasury department decree requiring the surrender of the yellow metal.

To Get Treasury Order.

Mr. Medalie said he believed that the government probably would follow the latter course, and that he looked on Judge Woolsey's decision as a victory for Mr. Roosevelt's policy.

The case was that of Frederick Barber Campbell, lawyer, clubman and capitalist of 20 Exchange place. He resides at the Metropolitan club and attracted wide attention lately by getting himself indicted as a gold hoarder to test the law.

There were two counts in the indictment. One of them charged Mr. Campbell with failure to report to possession of bullion worth $200,574.34 now held by the Chase National bank as hired custodian. The other count accused him of failing to surrender the yellow metal to the federal reserve bank as agent of the government.

The first count, the failure to report, was sustained, and Mr. Campbell must face trial on that.

President Exceeds Powers.

Judge Woolsey ruled that in section 5 of his gold order "the President has stepped outside the zone of the mandate given him by congress and into the zone of his fellow mandatory, the secretary of the treasury."

The general anti-hoarding policy of the President was upheld, however, inasmuch as the court ruled that the power of eminent domain, the right—under the constitution—of the government to take property for public use in return for just compensation—"extends to all kinds of property without exception, whether real, personal, tangible or intangible."

Judge Woolsey expressly stayed all orders in connection with the decision for twenty days in order that the status quo ante might not be disturbed pending appeal. But a collateral suit of Mr. Campbell's to retain the Chase National bank from delivering the twenty-seven bars of bullion to any one else but himself was dismissed by Judge Woolsey. He ruled it was a matter for the state courts.

THE COLD WAVE PUTS FURRIER SILVER IN A MIGHTY HOT SPOT

It would have required about 100 fur coats to keep Jack Silver comfortable during the past three days. He didn't have them and both he and his women customers are suffering.

Silver has a fur shop, or had it until yesterday, on the sixth floor of the Capitol building at State and Randolph streets. The hundred coats, more or less, had been stored by their rightful owners last spring with Emil Walkow, whose business Silver took over in the summer.

The customers had been drifting in during the early fall and getting their coats. It has been discovered, according to Lieut. Edward J. Kelly of the detective bureau, that Silver would send out to pawn shops where he had pledged the coats and get them back, one by one. But the 10 degree weather caused a rush and he wasn't able to get them back Wednesday or yesterday. So Lieut. Kelly now has complaints charging Silver with larceny by bailee. Twenty-two of the pawned coats have been recovered.

The furrier is missing. It was also learned in the police investigation that he sold many cases of fresh eggs to restaurant dealers and collected for them, but failed to deliver the eggs.

La Guardia Due in Panama Today; Fetes Are Planned

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Nov. 16.—Fiorello H. La Guardia, mayor-elect of New York City, is due to arrive here tomorrow. Special entertainment will be provided during his stay. On Sunday Panama's Jockey club will hold a special classic. A "La Guardia" cup will be awarded to the winner. Mr. La Guardia will make the presentation. Dr. Harmodio Arias, president of Panama, and Lieut. Col. Julian L. Schley, canal governor, will entertain the visitor. The press club will make the mayor an honorary member at a reception. The only other honorary member is George Bernard Shaw.

Gang with Machine Gun Robs Loop Jewelry Store

Six men, all armed, leaped from an automobile in front of the jewelry store of William Meyer & Co. at 19 West Van Buren street last evening and after smashing a window with a brick scooped up a number of rings and other articles valued at $3,000, with which they fled. Two employés of the concern, Harold Cohn and Benjamin Halpren, told the police that one of the robbers, carrying a small machine gun, stood guard at the door while his companions took the jewelry.

U. S. JURY INDICTS IN FIRST CASE UNDER NRA CODE

Brooklyn Filling Stations Concern Is Hit.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The first federal indictment for violation of a NRA code to be voted in the United States, according to United States Attorney Howard A. Ameli of Brooklyn was returned by the grand jury in that district today. The government has prepared the case with great care. A puzzling feature, however, is that it is against a concern the officers of which say they did not sign the NRA code, because they maintained that their business was outside the jurisdiction of the NRA.

Hits Gas Filling Stations.

The indictment is against the Hercules Gas Filling Stations, Inc., of Brooklyn; David Lind of 779 Riverside drive, Manhattan, president of the corporation, and Moe Levine, address not given, described as the vice president. Lind and Levine, notified of the indictment this afternoon, said they had engaged counsel and would give the government a fight that might bust the whole NRA question wide open.

The indictment contains nine counts, six of which are based on the working hours said to be maintained by the company. The other three allege that the company failed to post the price of gasoline in the manner prescribed by the code.

Based on Working Rules.

The government charges that the Hercules company, Inc., have been working their help eleven hours a day six days a week, with one hour for lunch, whereas the code provides that the maximum working hours of employés shall be forty-eight hours a week.

Louis R. Glavis of the division of investigation of the United States department of the interior, directed the gathering of evidence in the case. The evidence was presented to the grand jury by Emanuel Bublick, assistant United States attorney in Brooklyn. The cases will be rushed to trial. If a conviction is obtained, it will open the way to prosecutions for violation of NRA codes throughout the country. The defendants in the Brooklyn case are liable to be punished by a fine of $500 on each of the nine counts contained in the indictment.

WORKERS IN ST. PAUL ARMOUR & CO. PLANT STRIKE FOR PAY RAISE

South St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Several hundred workers of the Armour & Co. packing plant here went on strike tonight over demands for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour and recognition of their union.

The strike was called by the Packing House Workers' Industrial union, which claims nearly 1,200 of the 1,700 employés of the plant as members. Company executives said the membership of the union does not exceed 300 or 400.

Only 50 men, members of the "cleanup crew," were on duty at the plant when the strike was called. About 75 pickets were placed on duty outside the plant.

Company officials said Armour & Co. is paying a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour for women and 40 cents for men, with the maximum ranging up to 75 cents, with a minimum of 32 weekly working hours guaranteed.

WOMAN DROPS DEAD IN HOME.

Mrs. Helen Woelsser, 77 years old, 515 West Chicago avenue, collapsed in her home last night and died before a physician arrived. Heart disease is said to have been the cause.

FUTILE TO ASK SEWAGE LOANS, ELMORE SAYS

Howard W. Elmore, lone Republican on the board of sanitary trustees, addressed a meeting of several hundred taxpayers at the Ridge fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive, last night on his proposal to finance Chicago sewage treatment works by selling the main and Sag canals of the sanitary district to the federal government by act of congress.

It is futile to seek loans from the public works administration for the sewage works, Mr. Elmore maintained, because the district lacks the power to float bonds to pledge as collateral. Moreover, he declared, there is no likelihood that the loans ever would be repaid, the plight of the district taxpayers being such that they cannot carry the burden already imposed upon them.

There is simple justice in asking the government to buy the canals, Mr. Elmore said, for the reason that the canals already have been diverted from their primary purpose of sewage disposal to the purpose of providing a link in the national inland waterways. Mr. Elmore was introduced by Fred L. Johnson, president of the Ridge Civic council.

P. L. Sullivan Receives His Commission as U. S. Judge

Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday received his commission from Washington as a United States district judge. He immediately telephoned Judge James H. Wilkerson, senior district judge in the Chicago district, and made an appointment for Saturday morning. Although the commission calls for Judge Sullivan to take office immediately in the United States courthouse, he said yesterday that he would seek to delay his induction into office for several weeks in order to dispose of a number of cases awaiting trial on his Criminal court call.

WORKING PROFIT OF $6,000,000 SHOWN BY FAIR

Audit Reveals 10 Million Taken In at Gates.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress Exposition, which cost in excess of $38,000,000 to erect and present, during the five and a half months it was in operation made a profit of more than $6,000,000, according to an estimate of the final audit made yesterday by M. M. Tveter, controller of the Exposition.

The profit was over and above all operating expenses and interest on the fixed investment, 50 per cent of which has been retired. At the conclusion of the Fair in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 remained in the working cash fund. This money, plus sums that will accrue from new contracts and the sale of space, is to be used for the rehabilitation of the Fair before the reopening in 1934.

Total gate receipts, including preseason sales, amounted to $10,345,848, while the concessions grossed $26,084,777. Of the concessions' gross the Fair derived a revenue of $2,967,418, plus $785,502 from the sale of concession space. Exhibitors paid another $2,967,269 for their space.

Balance Is $1,303,503.

Revenue from a gold note issue of $9,735,900, a World's Fair association membership drive and other sources brought the total revenue for the season to $30,032,326. Disbursements, including a 50 per cent payment on the gold note issue and the payment of interest on the entire issue, plus operating expenses, accounted for a total of $28,728,821. The estimated excess of receipts over disbursements was $1,303,503.

During the Fair period itself total profits derived amounted to $6,861,888.22. The total estimated income amounted to $11,623,556.25 with expenses, including interest and insurance, amounting to $4,761,668.03. The profit shown is an operating profit and does not take into account the fixed indebtedness other than the payment of interest.

At present the working cash fund of the Fair contains approximately $1,000,000 while the capital in debtedness is now $4,867,950, which, Fair officials confidently believe, will be retired during the Exposition in 1934. The Exposition plant, which cost the Fair $11,298,090.68 to construct, remains as an asset.

How Expenses Were Divided.

Less than half of the total expense of the Exposition was carried by the Fair organization. Total costs are divided as follows: A Century of Progress, $11,298,090.68; governments and private corporations, $2,667,000; concessionaires, $5,202,000; installation and building by exhibitors, $13,000,000, and the cost of construction of scientific exhibits, $460,000. The combined estimated construction costs amounted to $32,627,090.68. In addition to this an estimated $6,072,386.09 was expended for overhead, insurance and interest. The total investment was $38,699,476.77.

"Probably another million dollars of income is not and can not be shown on our auditor's report," Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, said. "This was money taken in by foreign government exhibitions, who did not make a report to the Fair and from whom the Fair derived no revenue. Also many concessions operated on a straight lease basis and we have no method of calculating what their income was."

British Nobleman Becomes Film Extra for a Day

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The earl of Chichester, an attache of the British legation in Washington, became a film extra for a day in Hollywood and pronounced it interesting. The earl, visiting here, stepped into the extra ranks in a picture to avoid any formalities which might have been extended had he toured a studio in his official rank.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels, and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

RHEUMATISM
Cripples Him No More

Off to work goes Father—mother laughs with joy—the kids are happy and no wonder.

Three weeks ago he was nearly a cripple—the piercing rheumatic pains almost drove him mad—then came a bottle of ALLENRU—a present from a neighbor. In 2 days the agony left—almost like magic—no wonder gloom changed to joy in that modest home.

Within 24 hours after you begin to take ALLENRU for rheumatic pains, backache, neuritis or lumbago the excess uric acid starts to leave your body—in 48 hours the terrible agony is gone—that's why leading druggists everywhere sell it for rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and neuritis. Your first bottle—cost 85c—must give results or money back.

DOCUMENTS STORED IN CLOSED EMBASSY OF RUSSIA REMOVED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Three United States trucks and a handful of soldiers tonight removed records stored in the old Russian embassy to a downtown government building for examination by American and soviet officials concerned in the current negotiations on Russian recognition.

State department officials said Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar of foreign affairs, who is discussing the recognition question with President Roosevelt, had approved removal of the records.

Police guarded the entrance to an alley leading to the side door of the old embassy located on 16th street, northwest, and refusd to allow spectators to watch the proceedings. Many large packing cases were carried out of the old stone building.

The embassy has been closed since the fall of the Kerensky government in world war days.

USE BUCKETS TO PUT OUT FIRE IN NEW POSTOFFICE

Several thousand mops and 200 bails of muslin, which were to have been used for dusting cloths, were destroyed yesterday in a fire in a room on the third floor of the new Chicago postoffice building at Canal and Van Buren streets. Failure of the standpipe system in the building to function forced firemen to extinguish the smouldering mops by dousing them in buckets commandeered for the occasion.

Chief John L. Finn of the 25th battalion said that the standpipe system was not in service. He pointed out that no building other than a government building could be occupied without the approval of the fire department.

"In any building except one built by the government I would demand an immediate test of the standpipe system," Chief Finn said, "but in a government building I can't do anything except put out the fire." The fire, said to have been started by spontaneous combustion, caused damage of several hundred dollars.

ACCORD BETWEEN U. S. AND RUSSIA CLOSE AT HAND

President May Announce Recognition Today.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—From both administration and soviet sources today came indications that an announcement on Russian recognition by President Roosevelt was close at hand.

The chief executive was expected to clear the way for the resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia before he leaves for Warm Springs, Ga., late tomorrow.

The White House today reiterated hope for a successful conclusion of the parleys with Maxim Litvinov, the soviet commissar for foreign affairs, before Mr. Roosevelt departs. The visitor arranged to confer with the President again late today or tonight.

Meanwhile, state department officials who have been assisting in the negotiations gave the impression that an understanding had been reached on virtually every question that has prolonged the discussions with Litvinov.

Commissar in Genial Mood.

Members of the soviet delegation refused comment but it was known that Litvinov was in an even more genial humor than customary. It was said, however, it was unlikely he would leave the capital in time to sail on the Paris tomorrow.

Future trade relations were known to have figured in the Russo-American conversations, but the attitude of Secretary Henry A. Wallace today caused doubt as to whether any conclusion had been reached on immediate deals.

The secretary of agriculture said he personally disapproved of a long term loan to Russia for the purchase of American agricultural commodities so long as this country retained its high tariff walls.

Other officials, however, who have been intimately in touch with the trade negotiations, have favored the extension of long term credits to the soviet government. Russia's record for paying foreign obligations contracted after the communists took power 16 years ago has been unusually good. Harry E. Payer, assistant secretary of state, today was transferred to the Reconstruction corporation as a special counsel on foreign trade. He has made an especial study of Russian affairs.

A General Understanding.

A general understanding between the President and Litvinov on the issues involved in recognition would mean, in the opinion of some officials, that satisfactory formulas had been arrived at for handling debts, propaganda and religious matters.

From the first, informed observers have anticipated little trouble in disposing of the latter two subjects. In the past, soviet officials have given assurances their government would not carry on propaganda against other governments if the latter in turn would agree not to try to undermine communism in Russia.

President Roosevelt has insisted that it be clearly understood that American citizens in Russia have complete freedom of worship. Moscow has asserted that this freedom is granted now.

Should Litvinov follow a well defined precedent, any agreement on debts would extend only to further negotiations after recognition was accomplished.

President Roosevelt was urged today in a letter by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom to coöperate with Moscow after recognition for complete universal disarmament, both on land and sea.

Litvinov offered a similar plan at the Geneva disarmament conference.

French Air Fleet Lands at Town in Upper Senegal

MOPTI, Upper Senegal, Africa, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The French "black squadron" of 28 airplanes flying in mass formation over French West Africa arrived here today from Gao. The squadron left France Nov. 8 on a 15,000 mile flight. It lost two ships the next day, one through a forced landing at La Rivera, Spain, the other in a wreck landing at Cartagena, Spain.

MYSTERY BOMB BLAST AT HOME IN RIVER FOREST

A dynamite bomb was exploded last evening on the porch of the home of Frederick Ollison at 1046 Keystone avenue, River Forest. The blast tore away a door of the home, shattered its windows and those in nearby houses.

Members of the family were absent at the time. They were found in Detroit, where Ollison said he knew of no motive for the attack. He is a manufacturer of filtration machinery used in the laundry and dry cleaning trades.

The bomb was exploded at 6:25 p. m. For four hours the police denied there had been a bombing in the suburb. Chief of Police Carl Soderlin was found in a motion picture theater. He said he knew nothing of the case because in his absence Lieut. Ray Rheingruber was in command of the department. Rheingruber could not be found. A police guard was stationed at the home.

Damage estimated at $300 was caused by a black powder bomb set off last night at the door of the home of Frederick H. Froemke, 10001 South Damen avenue, a real estate dealer. In the house were Froemke, his wife, and their 14 year old daughter. No one was injured. Froemke said he had received no threats and knew of no motive for the bombing.

② —about Cigarettes

There are 6 types of home-grown tobaccos that are best for cigarettes

BRIGHT TOBACCO
U. S. Types 11, 12, 13, 14.
BURLEY TOBACCO
U. S. Type 31.
SOUTHERN MARYLAND TOBACCO
U. S. Type 32.

U. S. Type 11 is produced in the Piedmont Belt of Virginia and part of North Carolina.

U. S. Type 12 is produced in eastern North Carolina.

U. S. Type 13 grows in South Carolina.

U. S. Type 14 is produced mostly in southern Georgia—a few million pounds in northern Florida and Alabama.

U. S. Type 31 includes what is called White Burley tobacco. It was first produced by George Webb in 1864. It is light in color and body, and is milder than the Burley used for pipes.

U. S. Type 32, Maryland tobacco, is noted for its "burn". In this respect Maryland excels most other tobaccos.

These are the kinds of home-grown tobaccos used for making Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Then Chesterfield adds aromatic Turkish tobacco to give just the right seasoning or spice.

Chesterfield ages these tobaccos for 30 months—2½ years—to make sure that they are milder and taste better.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MOSCOW OR ROME.

The owners of the George Hormel & Co. meat packing plant at Austin, Minn., are in possession of their property again. They were dispossessed last Friday night by 600 striking employés, who stormed the place with clubs and held it. They shut off the refrigeration and exposed several million dollars' worth of meat products to the possibility of ruin, and some of the plant equipment as well. Indulgent state officials, including the governor, Floyd B. Olson, persuaded them that, even though they were to be regarded patiently as lawbreakers, they would be quite apparently damned fools if they wrecked the plant and did themselves out of jobs.

The right of the rioters to take possession of the property was not, it is true, wholly admitted by the governor. He said that as much as he sympathized with them he was forced to say that they were in the wrong, but, more than wrong, they were foolish.

The Hormel episode must have turned the recollection of some people to the seizure of the Fiat automobile works in Turin by the communist workers. A feeble government was unable to resist and out of the anarchy which threatened northern Italy Mussolini arose and the Italians have had the Fascist dictator ever since. The governors of the western agrarian states which are in disorder have been encouraging assaults upon property either by sympathizing with the disorderly or by lending encouragement. Gov. Langer of North Dakota endeavored to put an embargo upon grain and stop the movement of interstate commerce. Some Iowa farmers succeeded in raiding stock trains running to Sioux City. Railway bridges have been burned, trucks have been destroyed, and in many parts of the country milk has been dumped and roads closed by armed men.

The rioters at Austin, Minn., no doubt thought they had the sanction of new social ideas to seize the packing plant and hold it as a hostage. There has been very little in governmental idea which would restrain them and nothing which would punish them. States whose authorities pursue the course leading to such episodes will, of course, pay the bill in the end. These states must dispose of their products outside of their boundaries and they are doing everything they can to destroy their own industries. The Hormel plant is not chained to Minnesota, but can remove from the disorders there to a state where protection can be expected.

When governments begin to regard private property as lightly held by the possessors against the economic urge of people who have no title to it society has taken to the open road. It may be to Rome or it may be to Moscow.

THE MILK CODE SWINGS INTO ACTION.

Although the Chicago milk area received the most intensive attention of the AAA the first punishments have fallen in the Philadelphia district, where two dealers have lost the right to continue their business practices. The case against them was found in the price they charged. It was too low. It was satisfactory to them and to the purchasers but not to the code. The seller should have charged more. The consumer should have paid more.

The delinquents now have a choice among several things, influenced as they may be by circumstances or moods. They might join the unemployed and go on the relief. They can conform and ask for reinstated privileges of selling milk. They can keep on as they were and take the consequences, which would be a fine or imprisonment or both for each separate offense of selling milk and violating no other law than a price schedule. The courts might give a citizen six months on such a charge. The AAA legal procedure has not been made clear. It may be by injunction or by indictment. If by the latter the defendant would get a jury trial, which would be an encouraging rediscovery of constitutional rights in times which make light of them.

A CHISELER UNPUNISHED.

The United States treasury is devoting itself, day and night, to the task of knocking the dollar into a fifty-cent piece. It need scarcely be added that any one who does not join in the game of beating down the dollar is no patriot and should be made to feel the full wrath of an outraged government. When the treasury says a British pound sterling is worth $5.20 only a chiseler would sell exchange for, say, $5.

Just such a conspiracy to defeat the government's program came to light the other day. A dealer in foreign exchange, with branch offices throughout the United States, was brazenly offering pounds well below the market. Thus far the treasury has taken no action in the matter, but it is difficult to believe that just because the malefactor is a rich and powerful international banker, with many friends in the government, he will be allowed to escape. Plainly the offending business should be closed down and the responsible heads of it should be given exemplary punishment.

Perhaps at this point it might be well to name the offender. It is the United States postoffice. When the treasury had beaten the dollar down to $5.16 to the pound Mr. Farley was still selling money orders at $5 to the pound. Possibly he will offer the excuse that he has been occupied of late with outside concerns and has had little time to devote to his departmental business. Possibly, but not probably. Somebody might ask him what he has been doing with his time.

THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL.

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross is now under way and friends of that great organization hope that the response will be generous. Depression conditions have laid special burdens upon this as upon other charitable agencies, and the Red Cross has met the new calls with its usual efficiency. What ought especially to be impressed upon the public is that, although the Red Cross is quasi-governmental, its revenues are entirely from private individuals. No tax money is available; its service is accomplished very largely through volunteers, nearly seven hundred thousand of whom gave more than fifty hours of service last year in the cotton conversion and distribution transferred from the farm board to the Red Cross in aid of some five million families. In Cook county more than families were aided. Without government aid the administrative and conversion cost of this service, about $730,000, came from Red Cross funds.

This was additional to the regular work of the Red Cross in public health rehabilitation and to the special service for families of veterans with service connected disabilities. The Chicago chapter cared for eleven hundred families.

The extent of volunteer service of which the Red Cross is able to avail itself and the utilization of the efficient and experienced existing organization have insured a great saving of tax funds, which contrasts favorably with the expenditure and administration of new agencies. The Red Cross has long demonstrated its ability to function effectively in emergency and deserves liberal support.

MOMENTOUS DISCOVERIES OF NAZI RESEARCH.

Dr. Reinhold Krause, chief of the Berlin section of the Nazi German Christians, explained to a meeting of the supreme church council that all alien influences must be removed from the people's religion, which is, nevertheless, to remain Christian. The word must be a German word. "The holy places of Palestine must not be visited, but instead those of Germany." The council suspended Dr. Krause from all church offices at once, but ministers are being suspended for obstruction of the state's religious requirements and the issue is in doubt.

Many members of the German Evangelical church, although conceding that politically they are bound to Cæsar, stand for a spiritual loyalty to their creed, but Dr. Krause may not have spoken without deliberation or even without consultation. The origins of a purely Nordic Christian religion may have been discovered by the more scholarly pure Aryan Hitlerites. Much respect is given German scholarship and research. When an Englishman studies the origins of English law he reads a German.

No one would speak lightly of the Nazi explorations into Nordic origins. A new location may have been found for Golgotha, possibly in the forest where Varus lost his legions, and Sinai may have been in the Black mountains.

THE OLD TIME BULLDOG.

At sixty-six Heffelfinger has played in another football game. He was in as guard with a team of Minnesota graduates playing a benefit game in the snow at Minneapolis against a team of St. Thomas graduates. Some of the old boys think sixty-six is an achievement all by itself. They're rather good if they can lace their shoes and will let you know it if they get around a golf course.

Heffelfinger admitted that his wind might not be as good as it used to be and that possibly he had slowed up a little on his feet. Old timers will say that Pudge proves to the young men of today what old time football was and so, of course, was your old man. The legend has its exhibit. Heffelfinger today is still the best guard Yale has. And that is with grandpa's compliments.

Editorial of the Day

THE PAY OF DECATUR TEACHERS.

[Decatur Herald.]

Decatur school teachers, their salaries in arrears by an average of $200 each and in some cases by as much as $600, probably are in worse plight than the much publicized "starving" teachers in Chicago.

One of the Chicago teachers, in an article in the current Atlantic Monthly, reveals that, after having been paid half her year's salary, some $2,700 is still owing her. By reason of her failure to receive full payment she is driven to these privations: She must give up a year's travel in England she had hoped for. A temptation to buy a new evening dress for a big night must be resisted. She is compelled to buy a cheap hat instead of a more desirable one. She considers giving up the serving woman who keeps her apartment in order, but finally decides against it.

With due notice for all of these hardships, one is compelled to conclude that Chicago has done tolerably well by its teacher in a year of unprecedented pinch for nearly all families. But what of the teacher in Decatur schools? She had a theoretical income of $1,500, assuming five and one-half years' experience. The $1,500 was reduced to $1,176 by curtailment of the term, and various deductions. Of this $1,176 the teacher actually received only $952 in the last year, the remainder waiting upon new borrowing by the school board to balance its books.

The metropolitan city apparently is not the great sinner in such matters. For much less reason than teachers have had in Decatur, the Chicago teachers paraded the streets, stormed the banks, and broke up a ceremony at the opening of A Century of Progress. Their Decatur sisters possibly have erred by taking their hardships in silence.

A COOKING SAFEGUARD.

Carole—Douglas, dear, I wish you would see a doctor before our wedding.

Douglas—Why should I? I am perfectly well except for a little dyspepsia.

HEAD OF THE CLASS.

Sunday School Teacher—And now, children, can you tell me when Balaam and his ass conversed, what language they spoke in?

Bobby—Please, teacher, Assyrian.—Boston Transcript.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE SORT OF PEOPLE who love to put their money into beautiful dreams must have been saddened yesterday by the news that a man who has busied himself for years in collecting money from heirs of the estate of Sir Francis Drake has been sentenced to ten years in a federal penitentiary and fined $2,000. Cheer up, folks, as the radio announcer says, as a lineal descendant of Sir Francis and entitled to a slice of the gold and other treasure he looted from the Spanish you are out of luck. But wait; soon you will no doubt get a letter from the prisoner in a Spanish dungeon who will tell you where several bushels of jewels and a half ton in gold are buried in exchange for a little spot cash that he needs to bribe his jailer. And if you just can't wait, go down on the lake front and walk around until a man volunteers to let you in on a scheme he has for fleecing suckers in a little penny pitching game. Weep not because one way of getting rid of your money is closed for the time being, anyhow. There'll be another along in a minute.

THE OLD MAN SPEAKS

I would pick no quarrel with you now,
My friend. It is by strange ways
That Love has made me thus—
That all my nights and days

Are hollow actors, sick and worn,
Whose spirit soon defeats their rôle.
I have forgotten Aprils now, and Mays—
Ecstasy—and dole.

It is not to you, then, that I speak,
Your time is here—your road ahead.
Only the sleeping shall hear me,
Only the dead.

Richard Duffey.

WHAT! THE GOOD OLD American dollar down to fifty-nine cents and a fraction. It's no use mentioning the fraction because it won't last long. As I read that I pulled a dollar greenback out of my pocket (stand back, kidnapers; I've probably spent it by this time) and gazed on the noble picture of George Washington. "George," I said, "a dollar in these United States has always been supposed to be worth just one hundred cents. Now, George, I don't believe you would be willing to lie about a dollar any more than you would about chopping down that cherry tree." George didn't answer, but gazing on that noble countenance I felt positive he was still the same old George and that as long as he stays on that dollar bill it's going to be worth a hundred cents.

IT'S ALL IN THE WAY you look at it. Now me, when I read that Franklin Delano said to Mr. Woodin, "I do not need to tell you that I am deeply grieved at the thought of your not continuing, but, at the same time, as I have told you, I would not for anything in the world injure your health by any insistence on my part . . ." and so on and so on, it makes me recall with a sigh how the news has been broken to me so many times. They usually said, "Here's your hat, there's the door!" And many's the time they weren't even that nice. They just said, "Gitout!"

ADVICE.

I shouldn't love you—but I do;
It's not doing me very much good;
There are things I should do while I'm watching for you.
I think of you more than I should.

Of course there were candles and songs,
Roses and laughter before,
They have grown twice as sweet since no day is complete
Until you have knocked at my door.

It's not wise to love as I love,
I know very well this is true;
The moon would fall down if you ever left town—
I shouldn't love you—but I do!

Helen Welshimer.

"IT WOULD BE A GRAVE MISTAKE," says our Professor Dingworthy Dingleblatt, "to permit the buyers of hard likker to be served only at tables instead of standing up at the bar. Seated at the table the customers can easily fall asleep, and, if overlooked by the waiters, are liable to remain there all night instead of going home to their loved ones. People seldom fall asleep while standing at the bar, and, if they do, the barkeep observes them and taps them on top of the head with the beer maul, which either awakens them or causes them to become so unconscious they are immediately hauled away in a patrol wagon or an ambulance."

IT'S VERY EMBARRASSING to me to take my little Sealyham, Mister Thomas Atkins, out walking these cold days. He fairly screams in anguish when he sees a pampered hound walking around with a cunning knitted green coat on and sometimes azure panties. And yesterday we met a chauffeur who was shamefacedly leading his employer's police dog around that not only wore a fur trimmed coat but had little shoosies on. "An' they cost two bucks an' a half per shoosie," said the chauffeur; "that's ten bucks in all. Wottayaknow about that!" And all this time Mister Atkins was leaping wildly about yipping madly in a desperate effort to call the police dog Clarence.

PRAYER.

Oh, never may my tree of dreams
Bear fruit upon so low a bough
That I may pluck and eat my fill
Who know such bright, fierce hunger now!

Adelaide Love.

"I CAN'T BE INTERVIEWED," said Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, who has just arrived in our fair city. "I've been here only a few hours and I don't even know the names of the streets." Don't let that bother you, general. Lots of us have been here for years and we don't know the names of the streets, either. They keep changing 'em all the time.

FRESH VEGETABLES FOR WINTER EATING.

This is the season for planting vegetables to be eaten this winter if we would escape scurvy, beriberi, and some eye diseases. In certain parts of the country collards will live out of doors all winter long. Leaves can be pulled from day to day, even in the coldest weather. Properly cooked fresh collards in midwinter is the best protective we have against the vitamin deficiency disorders of that season. Among these are soreness of the gums, bleeding from the gums, nose bleed, neuralgic and joint pains, constipation, and certain mild skin eruptions; and the recent additions to the list, night blindness and some forms of sore eyes.

Turnips can be left out until the late fall or early winter. So long as they are out, turnip greens and turnips can be gathered fresh, properly cooked and served, making a fine source of vitamins needed in that season.

It is claimed for rutabagas and yellow turnips and their green tops that they rank with carrots as a source of vitamin A. Other vegetables not so well able to withstand cold, but which grow in the autumn months, can be stored for winter use. If properly kept they retain most of their supply of vitamins except C. Fortunately, canned tomatoes seem to equal, if not surpass, the fresh article as a source of C, and this food can be used in winter to supply what is lacking in the stored vegetables. It is well that pumpkins come in season when they do. They can be left out until well into the fall and, in addition, they store well for a while. They should approximate carrots as a vitamin source.

Sweet potatoes must be brought under cover before the ground freezes. But they keep very well in storage and are a rich source of vitamins for winter needs.

Since vegetables are eaten in winter, in considerable part, in order to get their vitamins, they should be properly cooked. Members of the cabbage family, including collards, are cooked too long. To make matters worse, soda is often added to them as they cook. Both prolonged cooking and the addition of soda are destructive to vitamins. The evil reputation cabbage has with many, the reputation of being hard to digest, is the result of overcooking. The boiled cabbage taste and odor are products of overcooking.

KEEPING FEET WARM.

L. writes: To prevent cramps in feet and legs at night the feet should be kept warm all night, as you say, and here is the way to do it:

Make two outing flannel bags, one about 1½ inches smaller than the other. Make them about twenty inches wide at top and long enough to come up well over the knees, the size depending on the person, of course. Round off the corners at the bottom. Fill in between these bags with a thick layer of wool batt and quilt into place close enough so it may be washed. Finish top edge. At night warm this bag on the oven door or over the register, and slip feet in between sheets. Another way, but not so good, is to put the spare pillow over the feet outside the bedding.

BABY AND RUPTURE.

Mrs. W. D. S. writes: My 4 months old baby has been wearing a truss for navel rupture for the last two months.

1. How can you tell when a rupture is healed?

2. Does a truss have to be removed gradually, or worn part of the time until the person is used to being without it?

3. About how long does it take for a navel rupture to heal?

REPLY.

1. By the appearance, particularly on coughing and straining.

2. If all seems well, or the physician says it is, remove the truss and use a binder for, say, a month. In most such cases wearing a binder is even more efficient than a truss. The button of a truss presses inward unduly in this type of hernia.

3. Usually four or five months suffice.

CASTOR OIL MIGHT HELP.

Mrs. X. Y. Z. writes: My feet are very sensitive to any pressure, friction, or the like. I have found the condition much worse when I have worn rather expensive silk stockings that have the soles of same woven with lisle threads than when I have worn cheaper silk stockings that have soles woven with a cotton thread. The lisle is a small, hard twisted thread and is much harsher and more irritating on the feet than is the cotton thread, which is very soft to the tread, thus giving much ease and comfort to the feet.

REPLY.

Another suggestion that has come in is to grease the feet nightly with castor oil. A certain child tells me he is glad to have the castor oil used that way.

OWNER'S EXPENSE.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—[Friend of the People.]—We have a large topheavy poplar tree on the side of our property which is causing considerable worry. We cut down a dangerous branch extending across the street about which the neighbors were complaining. What can be done to remove this tree? E. P. B.

This is a live and sound 50 inch poplar tree on private property. If the owner desires to have it removed he must have it done at his own expense.

INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My aunt [my deceased mother's sister] died recently. She was the second sister to marry this man, the former one dying in childbirth, and the child survives. 1. Would this child inherit as a daughter? This legacy was left thirty-seven years ago to my aunt by her parents. 2. In reality this girl is the same relation to my aunt that I am. 3. Could she have left a will? This inheritance was in Wisconsin, while my aunt died in Toledo, O., where she had lived more than twenty-five years. 4. Would I inherit? There are two sisters and a brother and I have a brother. 5. How long would it take for settlement? E. M. W.

1. The fact that the child is a stepdaughter would not increase its rights.

2. Therefore, the child would share equally with you if there is no will.

3. Obviously, we are not in a position to say that she could not have left a will.

4. Yes, if the deceased left no closer relatives.

5. Ordinarily about a year.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia.—The Ottawa tariff agreement, which was aimed to give Great Britain greater preference of trade in Australia to the detriment of American and other foreign commerce, is the subject of serious condemnation in Australian political circles. In fact, the Ottawa agreement is on trial.

With the present United Australian party ministry under Prime Minister Joseph Aloysius Lyons in danger of a splitup due to growing dissension in the Country party faction, revolutionary tariff proposals are being made by both the Country party interests and the strong Labor groups. These proposals threaten to make the Ottawa agreement of 1932 null and void.

Whether the United Australian party [composed of the former Nationalists and Australian league groups] and the strong Country party with which it is affiliated will continue to stick together in holding their present government in power against the Labor forces depends upon the healing of the breach between the prime minister and Country party leaders.

The dispute arose over Lyons' refusal to adhere to an alleged preelection agreement said to have been made between the new United Australian party and the Country party leaders in 1931 for the appointment of two Country party members to certain portfolios in the federal cabinet, one of which was the minister for customs.

The Country party interests charge Prime Minister Lyons with not living up to the Ottawa agreement in not reducing the tariff on imported British goods so as to give the farmer a greater benefit.

Meanwhile overtures are being actively made for a cementing of the breach between the Federal Labor party and the breakaway faction of the New South Wales Labor party under John T. Lang, one time premier of that state. Both Labor groups have announced radical platforms of revolutionary tariff proposals and revised banking laws bordering on socialization of credit. If both Labor factions can get together before the forthcoming elections in May, Australia will witness a repetition of fiery political fights.

The proposals made by the Lang Labor party in New South Wales appeal to the average man in the street. They call for revolutionary tariff regulations that would make the Ottawa agreement a thing of the past. Australian manufacturers would be protected by a rigid code designed to regulate their business operations and compel them to pay a wage rate acceptable to their unions. New methods of taxation designed to "soak the rich" also are proposed.

The manufacturers' code proposed by the New South Wales Labor party plagiarizes many features of President Roosevelt's NRA codes. In fact, Lang has been studying the NRA and has announced it feasible to Australia.

If the Federal Labor party under the leadership of Australia's former prime minister, J. H. Scullin, and Labor's strong left wing faction in New South Wales under Lang can get together, the continuance of the United Australian party in power would be in grave doubt. Socialization of credit and nationalization of the banking system, bordering on inflation, are common features of the platforms of both Labor factions.

TOWARD A WORSE MESS.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 11.—There are many things about the New Deal which seem unsound and likely to lead us into a worse mess than we are in now. Many of these have been aired in the papers, but certain phases have been, I believe, slighted. Below are two which seem to me to be worthy of thought.

The administration apparently believes that the 1926 price level would restore prosperity since the country was prosperous in that year. This assumption neglects the fact that tariffs that are no longer in effect were a factor in establishing these price levels and that demand for products shifts with time and that our requirements in 1933 are different than in 1926. Another factor which is overlooked is that if the production of certain commodities has become cheaper, due to technical advances or more available land, or any other reason, then there is no reason why the price of the commodity should not drop. If wheat prices drop, as an example, due to decreased demand or too much production, are we to tax the whole people to maintain a former price level? Why should a wheat producer expect a government subsidy to refrain from overproducing any more than a corset manufacturer when confronted with a lower demand due to style changes? Changing demand is a natural hazard of business, manufacturing or agriculture.

I have seen nothing in regard to the plans of the administration on how they expect to finance the expenditures involved in the New Deal, which have been estimated at from $11,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000. Some of this may be repaid, but how much and when? How will it be financed? By taxes? If so, I don't know of any politicians who have the courage to suggest such a course. By running the printing presses? This seems to be the logical conclusion. Or will this problem be passed on to the next administration? In any form it will be passed on as a burden to future years. I should like to hear the President explain this phase of the New Deal in a frank talk to the people.

I do not believe the accusation that the people have turned against the President lately is well founded, since the New Deal has developed gradually and in ways which could not be anticipated from the political campaign. I think it would be better to say that the New Deal has turned against the people. I resent the attempt to muzzle the expression of opinion on the grounds of patriotism. On the contrary, if any one believes that the New Deal is heading us toward the rocks, isn't it patriotic to say so and give the grounds for such a belief?

THE WOODS ARE FULL OF 'EM.

ABOUT NUTS.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—In answer to B. P., in the Voice of the People of Nov. 13: The shellbark hickory and the pignut hickory are two different trees. Another name for the shellbark is the shagbark.

The shagbark hickory [carya ovata] is a large and beautiful tree 60 to 90 feet high. The bark is a pale brown-gray and hangs in strips, commonly a foot long and several inches wide. The fruit is nearly round, the nut thin shelled and buff white, the kernel very sweet. In fact, it is this hickory nut that is commonly sold in the ordinary market.

The pignut hickory [carya glabra] is a medium sized tree, 50 to 60 feet high. The bark is shaggy but not so deeply scored as the shagbark. The confluent ridges are flattened, with smooth, slender branches, the lower ones drooping. The fruit is one inch long and pear shaped. The nut is dull light brown with a thick hard shell, the kernel at first sweet, and finally bitter.

This information is taken from the "Field Book of American Trees and Shrubs," by F. Schuyler Mathews, published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. I am glad to be of service to B. P. It only goes to show it does not pay to be too cocksure, unless you are certain of your facts.

TICKETS TO THE FAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—In 1928 and 1929 a great many Chicagoans contributed $5, receiving for their money this year a book of ten general admissions and ten admissions to Fort Dearborn.

Presupposing that the general admission to the Fair in 1934 will again be 50 cents, why not make up a book of 12 general admissions for sale at $5, these books not to have tickets to any concession? I am sure such a plan would bring in a lot of ready cash for the Fair management and would also be a boon to a lot of people in and near Chicago. It would help those people who are likely to again have a number of their out of town friends visiting with them, and who this year had great difficulty in stretching their finances to entertain as they would have liked.

WE THOUGHT THEY DID.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Long live North Carolina! Long live South Carolina! These twin sisters of the Old South! When in the coming future other states of the Union, the great political parties, and even the nation itself are endeavoring to erase from their tarnished escutcheons the stain of this base betrayal of the people to the brewer, the distiller, and the tavernkeeper, North Carolina and South Carolina will stand in the white light of the approval of men and God. Orators will tell their praises to assembled multitudes and women and children yet unborn will lisp their names with reverence and blessing. All hail, North Carolina! South Carolina, all hail! You said, "They shall not pass," and they did not pass. All hail!

JOBS DOLED OUT TO ROOSOCRATS STIR ATTORNEYS

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chicago lawyers with long records of active service in Democratic ranks have their own grievance concerning the building up of a Roosocratic organization. While they have sought in vain for federal appointments they have seen three lawyers of the Ickes-Richberg school taken care of.

Both Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and public works administrator, and Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for the NRA, are Republicans, the complainants point out, but they apparently have more patronage influence in Washington than any individual or combination of individuals in the Democratic organization.

Ickes-Richberg Men Get Jobs.

Under the organization policy of retaining United States Attorney Dwight H. Green in office at least until the end of the year, the Democratic organization here has been able to do little in the way of getting jobs in the federal prosecutor's office. But one of Ickes' old Chicago associates and one of Richberg's have been landed there successfully. In addition Ickes called a young Chicagoan to Washington as an attorney for the PWA, an office that the lawyers belonging to the organization haven't been able to break into

In speaking of the appointments in the district attorney's office, the aggrieved lawyers remark that here, as in the appointment of William H. Holly as federal district judge despite the opposition of Senators Lewis and Dieterich, the jobs were handed out by Attorney General Cummings. This leads them to another point.

"This is further proof of Richberg's standing with the attorney general," they say. "So, if Richberg is a candidate for appointment to the United States Supreme court as we hear, he would probably receive a strong indorsement from the department of justice upon which presidents ordinarily rely in making their selections for the high court."

Made Assistant Prosecutor.

It was a Richberg man who landed the best of the three places under discussion, that of first assistant United States attorney under Green. Last August this post went to Leo J. Hassenauer, who also is believed to have had the Ickes O. K., as his practice of law began in the days when Richberg and Ickes were law partners in the firm of Richberg, Ickes, Davies and Lord, an association that terminated in 1923, Richberg and Ickes separating.

Hassenauer followed Richberg and with the two also was associated David E. Lilienthal, now general counsel for the Tennessee valley authority, the governmental unit in charge of Muscle Shoals. From 1923 until Richberg went to Washington last spring Hassenauer was associated in many of the Richberg cases, including the city gas rate fight, the battle for railroad valuations, and the drafting of full crew train laws.

But he was not entirely outside of Ickes' ken. Secretary Ickes' wife, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, is a state representative from the Seventh district. Their Illinois home is in Hubbard Woods. Hassenauer lives in nearby Wilmette and in 1931 and 1932 he was chairman of the legislative committee of the American Legion organization in the Seventh district.

Reported Backing Green.

Thus Richberg and Ickes are both given credit for the appointment of the new first assistant district attorney and, it is rumored, they are supporting him for the district attorney's job if their reported efforts to keep Green in the post—in which it is said they are supported by Senators La Follette and Norris—are not successful.

But Ickes is said to have obtained without assistance the second of the two places in the district attorney's office now being discussed. That went to Austin Hall, who was in Mr. Ickes' law office at 120 South La Salle street last March when the office was virtually put out of business by the chief's removal to Washington as a member of the Roosevelt cabinet. Hall will have charge of criminal bankruptcy cases.

The organization Democrats say they do not criticize the abilities of either Hassenauer or Hall, but insist that their appointments are simply further evidence that the Roosocratic policy recognizes no party ties.

The third man whose name has been brought into this kind of talk is Peter Chamales, who was graduated only last June at the University of Chicago law school. He is described as "sitting pretty" in Washington in a spot for which many others with years of organization service behind them were fully qualified.

ATTACK FARMER BOOTLEGGING TO EVADE NEW TAXES

Products for Home Use Being Sold, U.S. Finds.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Exemption of farmers from the federal imposts on foodstuffs they produce that are consumed upon their own property by their families or the families of employés has led in recent weeks to reports of "bootlegging" flour, pork sausage, and other home grown products.

Reports have been received in Chicago from the Washington bureau of internal revenue that farmers have violated the agricultural adjustment act in some instances by taking the grain to a mill, having it converted to flour, and after taking the flour home have sold it to neighbors without paying the processing tax of $1.38 per barrel imposed by the secretary of agriculture.

To Forfeit Processing Right.

The instances have been sufficiently numerous, it is reported, so that the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington has indicated he will issue a ruling to place a penalty upon such violations. Farmers found to have sold flour, tobacco, pork, cornmeal or other products subject to a processing tax will be forbidden to have any of their products processed whatever, it was explained.

What penalty would be placed upon farmers who installed their own gristmills without paying the tax has not been reported, but it is anticipated by the federal officials that they will be subjected to criminal prosecution as would be done in the case of violations by millers or other processors of foodstuffs.

According to the regulations thus far promulgated, the farmer is permitted to feed any of his own employés, their families, and his own family, without paying a tax on the items consumed. He would be permitted to feed employés on any of his farms if he owned or operated more than one, with any untaxed flour, pork, cotton, corn, or tobacco.

Tax Due on All Products Sold.

A farmer even would be permitted to give away cakes or other foods made from such untaxed foodstuffs, local officials of the AAA declare. But if he peddles sausages from home butchered hogs, sells home smoked hams, or his wife sells cakes and pastries made with untaxed flour, the tax would be collectable, they say.

The enforcement of the ruling on taxing pork products sold by farmers directly to consumers is presenting the revenue bureau of the nation with a sizeable task. One-eighth of all the pork consumed in the nation is sold in this manner or by small town butchers with their own slaughtering quarters, who supply their own consumers without a middleman or packer entering into the transactions.

Deadlock in Hog Sales.

Farmers who in the last week have shipped hogs to the Chicago stockyards have found a new angle in the processing tax regulations. The packers and commission men at the stockyards have been in a deadlock for eight days, the commission men asking a price for hogs from 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher than packers were willing to pay.

The Federal Surplus Relief corporation, of which Harry L. Hopkins is president, has been purchasing the hogs left unsold, to be processed by packers for agencies feeding unemployed at public expense. Since pork, wheat and other foods subject to the processing tax are not subject to the tax if consumed by such families, the farmers have not been paid the processing tax of 50 cents per hundred weight by the governmental agency, as the packers would have been obliged to pay.

RAID APARTMENT TO SEIZE OUTLAW WHO FLED TRAP

Deputy Chief of Detectives William V. Blaul with four squads of detectives raided an apartment at 4310 Clarendon avenue yesterday afternoon in the hope of capturing John Dillinger, Indiana desperado who with his sweetheart, believed to be Mary Jenkins, escaped a police trap Wednesday night. The occupants of the apartment had fled.

Blaul and his men were convinced that the Indiana gang was still in Chicago and the search for them was to be kept up all night. Blaul said there were several clews to be followed which might lead to the arrest of the fugitives.

Capt. Matthew Leach of the Indiana state police, with Lieut. Chester Butler and Detectives Arthur Keller and Eugene Ryan, decided to remain here and keep up the hunt. They had traced Dillinger to Chicago and learned he was to call at the office of Dr. Charles O. Eye at Keeler avenue and Irving Park boulevard, Wednesday night, and they, with Chicago police, waited for him.

Flee in Volley of Bullets.

Upon coming from the physician's office, however, Dillinger, accompanied by a woman and—it was believed—another man, swung his car about and managed to get away despite the firing of hundreds of shots at the car by police.

The Dillinger car was abandoned and found yesterday morning at Greenview avenue and Howard street. It contained scores of bullet holes. A man identified as Dillinger had obtained a license for the car under the name of Joseph Harris, 2847 Washington boulevard, attendants at the Buena Park garage declared. They identified Dillinger as Harris.

Girl Is Sister of a Fugitive.

Dillinger has been at large since Oct. 12, when a group of escaped convicts stormed the county jail at Lima, O., and rescued him after killing Sheriff Jess Sarber. It is believed the girl with him is Mary Jenkins, because her brother, James, was one of the convicts who escaped from the Michigan City [Ind.] penitentiary on Sept. 26, and it was learned Dillinger had aided Jenkins and the others to escape and in return they delivered him from jail.

Capt. Leach said that Dillinger brought his entire gang to Chicago. It consists of at least eight men and five women, Leach said. Deputy Chief Blaul refused to reveal who had been living at the apartment at 4310 Clarendon other than to say that Dillinger had been there at one time or another, but it was supposed some of the gang had rented the apartment. An automobile found parked there had been stolen from Hugo A. Anderson, 5634 Dorchester avenue.

HUNTERS CAUGHT BY COLD SNAP; 50 ARE 'FROZEN IN'

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Caught unawares by the cold snap, some 50 hunters who were encamped between here and North bay late last week were reported today to be "frozen in" and unable to return to their homes.

Fruitless attempts have been made to cut through the ice with motor boats where the crust was too thin to bear human weight and too thick to permit small boats to pass.

So far as is known the icebound hunters are all Canadians.

TRIAL BEGINS TODAY OF NEW MEXICO ROW IN AMERICAN LEGION

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The trial of the New Mexico department of the American Legion on charges of political manipulation will open tomorrow at national headquarters coincident with the annual conference here of commanders and adjutants.

The department will be represented by Osborne C. Wood, adjutant general of New Mexico and state commander of the Legion. Wood, who is the son of the late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, arrived here today, accompanied by Maj. Herman G. Baca, John Hernandez and J. D. Atwood of New Mexico.

A subcommittee of the national executive committee, composed of James Ringley of Illinois, chairman; Sam Jones of Louisiana and Paul M. Herbert of Ohio, will hear the charges. Remster Bingham, national judge advocate, will sit as legal adviser.

The prosecution will be a committee composed of Harry Colmery of Kansas, Sam Reynolds of Nebraska and Louis Johnson of West Virginia.

The charges are understood to involve two Legion actions in New Mexico, one of which is based by United States Senator Bronson Cutting. The accusations include alleged fraudulent legion memberships for the purpose of controlling state headquarters and permitting Legion officials to hold political positions.

ACCUSED SPY TRIES TO END LIFE IN ITALIAN CELL

ROME, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Commendatore Donato Batelli, charged with complicity in a large spy plot alleged to have been headed by former Deputy Umberto Bianci, was said by police today to have attempted suicide during the night in Regina Coeli prison, where he was held.

The police said Battelli cut both his wrists with a broken drinking glass and was found in a serious condition. The prison physician said he probably would lose a hand.

It was learned two artillery officers were arrested in the last two days, bringing the number held on the spy charge to 20. It was said they were to be brought before a special tribunal within a few weeks. The first intimation of such a plot came early in October when it was announced Bianci was under arrest.

LOST 26 POUNDS IN RUSSIAN TOUR, EXPLORER SAYS

In one month's travel in soviet Russia, Carveth Wells, explorer, lost twenty-six pounds in weight, he asserted yesterday at a pre-view of the travel film he will exhibit at Orchestra hall next Wednesday under auspices of the Americanism committee of the American Legion.

Food was so scarce and what was available was so inferior that he and his wife once paid $30 for the seeds of a large sunflower to keep themselves from starving, he told guests at the showing, held in the Chicago Theater building.

Government officials clipped from the motion pictures they took the worst examples of the hardships suffered, Wells said. Yet the scenes retained reveal conditions of extreme poverty, especially in the large cities such as Leningrad, Moscow, and Tiflis. They are, however, considered good propaganda by the officials who reviewed them, Wells explained, because the party filmed every market place they found showing any considerable amount of food, and the continuity makes it appear that such instances are numerous.

At its recent national convention in Chicago, the Legion went on record as opposed to recognition of Russia by the United States.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR ASSETS OF CARLTON E. FOX

Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday appointed Charles Carroll receiver for the assets of Carlton Ernest Fox, son of Albert Fuchs, pioneer north side real estate dealer. The receiver was appointed on the recommendation of Master in Chancery Otto C. Rentner who heard testimony that Fox was $4,000 in arrears in alimony payments to Mrs. Gladys Graham Fox.

Mrs. Fox won a decree of separate maintenance in 1921. At that time Fox was ordered to pay her $200 a month. He testified several months ago that his income had been reduced and that his father's holdings were tied up in litigation. Mrs. Fox charged that her husband has stocks and bonds. Master Rentner suggested the appointment of a receiver to conserve Fox's assets for both parties.

GRAVITY
65.6° TO 72.4°
That's how high Phillips HIGH TEST is!

Phillips 66

Instead of high-sounding words about high test, Phillips gives you evidence as simple and convincing as "2 and 2 make 4."

The gravity of Phillips 66—usually called the "test"—is printed above in plain figures. You can see for yourself how high they are. And that is exactly what you don't see in other gasoline ads. The next time you read the phrase "high test" elsewhere, just look for the gravity figures—if any!

These figures are your guarantee of real action for every penny you spend on gasoline . . . your guarantee of the biggest value in motor fuels . . . your guarantee of honest high test.

Phill-up with Phillips and you will quickly get results which prove there is a difference in gasolines! You will enjoy the new speed and ease of starting. The quick warm-up and eager acceleration. The added power and mileage. And not the faintest ping or knock, even if you jam down the gas—because high test Phillips 66 is also high anti-knock.

All of these good qualities are preserved and protected by the Phillips method of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY. Fifty above or ten below zero, whatever your weather, every gallon of Phillips 66 is scientifically matched to it in advance. So you always get a gas which delivers the peak of performance.

Make the test today. Convince yourself and start saving money. Just stop for one trial tankful at the nearest Orange and Black shield.

Don't buy any tires until you see the Phillips written guarantee

LEE of Conshohocken Tires

At last! A first-rank quality tire with skid-resistor tread, at a mail order price. Made by Lee of Conshohocken. Serviced by Phillips stations and dealers in 17 states. And now is the time to buy and save money!

"HIGHEST TEST" AND anti-knock at the price of ordinary gasoline

PITS 5 PROVINCES AGAINST NANKING IN REVOLT MOVE

Chinese General Declares War on Government.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 16.—Dissatisfied with Nanking's alleged pro-Japanese policy as well as Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's forceful measures against the communists, Gen. Chen Ming-shu, head of the 19th route army [defenders of Shanghai in 1932] and controller of Fukien province, today announced a coalition of the five provinces of Fukien, Kiangsi, Kwangsi, Yunnan, and Kweichow against the national program.

Gen Chen said his program includes positive resistance to Japanese encroachments, redistribution of land as a means of combatting communism, dismissal of Chiang Kai-shek, and opposition to Gen. Chen Chi-tang, Cantonese leader, who is an ally of Chiang.

Paralyzes Chiang's Drive.

The movement has the effect of paralyzing Gen. Chiang's anti-Red campaign since the 19th route army, which controls Fukien and Kiangsi provinces, has been one of Chiang's chief supports. The army has maintained a blockade around Kiangsi province where the Reds have set up a so-called soviet republic with the capital at Juikin [or Shuikin] in southern Kiangsi.

As a result of the new coalition Gen. Chen Chi-tang has been forced to withdraw his troops from the Kiangsi border in order to protect himself against possible invasion of Kwangtung province from both Fukien and Kwangsi.

In order to head off the storm precipitated by the move to recognize Manchukuo, the national government has ordered discontinuance of the Peiping negotiations with the Japanese, but it is doubted here whether this will be sufficient to prevent a south China coalition and a possible new civil war.

Denies Alliance with Reds.

Gen. Chen Ming-shu denies the allegation that he has formed an alliance with the Reds. He declared that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's campaign has failed and that it is necessary to use political and economic measures.

Nanking circles believe the south China coalition will precipitate new trouble with Japan which will possibly lead to Japanese intervention in Fukien province. Fukien is opposite the Japanese colony of Formosa.

H. F. M'CORMICK FILES ANSWER TO DIVORCEE'S SUIT

Harold F. McCormick, Chicago capitalist, yesterday filed a formal answer in the Circuit court to the $1,500,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, New York divorcee. The answer, prepared by the law firm of Wilson and McIlvaine, contained less than 100 words of stilted legal language.

"The defendant comes by his counsel and defends the wrong and injury done him and says he did not promise in manner and form as the plaintiff has above thereof complained against him," it read in part.

Mrs. Doubleday has alleged that Mr. McCormick proposed to her a year ago during an auto ride here. Her attorney, William Gemmill, announced yesterday he will appear in court shortly to ask that the case be set for trial.

100,000 JAPANESE VIEW LAUNCHING OF NAVAL CRAFT

Tokio Will Rebuild Its Best Battleship.

TOKIO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Japan's onward swing toward increased power at sea was signalized today by the launching of a new submarine depot ship and an order placing in reserve the Mutsu, her most formidable battleship.

Soon, it was understood, the Mutsu is to be modernized extensively and the newest in fighting equipment added to her present strength.

100,000 View Launching.

More than 100,000 persons, vernacular newspapers reported, turned out at Yokosuka—principal base of the sea forces—for a spectacular festival at the launching of the Gaigei, meaning "Big Whale."

Minister of the Navy Admiral Minea Osumi presided over the ceremonies at the launching of the depot-ship, a 7,500 ton vessel outside the categories of fighting craft limited by the Washington and London naval agreements.

The Taigei is not in itself an important ship, but the navy seized the occasion to impress the nation with its ability, to emphasize its need for record appropriations next year and incidentally to stress the paramount value it places on its undersea flotillas.

63 Subs in Commission.

Today the Japanese navy has in commission 63 submarines of all types—totalling 72,294 tons. Five more undersea fighters are under construction, four others already sanctioned, and six more projected for laying down before the end of 1936.

At the London conference of 1930, the Japanese fought bitterly for and won parity with the United States and Britain in submarines, with 52,700 tons allotted each power.

The apparent discrepancy between the tonnage permitted under the treaty does not require that signatories reduce their navies immediately to the limit. That limit, according to the treaty, is to be reached in 1936.

Will Enter School

Alexander Stark Jr., 7 years old, began a journey all alone yesterday to San Francisco. The boy, the son of Mrs. A. J. Stark of Berwyn, was placed on the Pacific limited of the Chicago and North Western railroad and the Pullman conductor was given money for his meals and other needs. Alexander will be met by his father who will enter him in Mill Valley school near San Francisco.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 16.—The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employés, representing 9,000 clerks on the Canadian National railways, today notified the company they rejected a compromise offer of a five per cent pay reduction. The company previously had announced a second ten per cent cut, which the men had fought.

25 Spanish Socialists Killed as Bus Plunges Over Cliff

GRANADA, Spain, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Twenty-five persons were killed when a bus loaded with members of the Socialist party fell over a 250 foot cliff on the highway between Huescar and Castril today. The bus was part of a caravan returning from a political meeting at Castril.

KINGFISH FOES, FRIENDS STORM SENATE INQUIRY

Thousands Try to Hear Election Testimony.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Thousands of political factionists today stormed the Scottish Rite cathedral where the special United States senate committee has been conducting investigations into the election of Senator John H. Overton, and Chairman Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] and Senator Overton were forced to enter the building up a fire escape and through the women's washroom.

The crowd had congregated in front of the building, jamming the steps before the locked doors and stopping traffic in the street. The gathering was composed of men and women of all political factions and all walks of life, from women society leaders to plug-uglies from back of town.

Yell Jibes at Chairman.

The crowd got into a hilarious mood when it saw Senator Connally climb the fire escape and began yelling jibes at him. When they heard the senator had gone through the washroom, yells went up about "another Sands Point affair," and "don't get socked in that washroom."

They were referring to Senator Huey P. Long's experience at the Sands Point Bath club on Long Island where he was struck over the eye by the fist of an unidentified guest.

When the doors were opened, police had to use strong-arm methods to prevent a rush inside the cathedral and the senate commitee, composed of Chairman Connally, Senators Logan [Dem., Ky.] and Thomas [Dem., Utah], had difficulty maintaining order after the hearing started. The crowd had been attracted to the hearings by the tenseness of the situation produced by the violent clashes between the committee, factional leaders and spectators.

Investigator Still Denouncing.

One of the main attractions was John G. Holland, the committee's own investigator, who has denounced the committee publicly at each session this week with shouted charges that it was seeking to "cover up rather than investigate."

And he did not disappoint them today. He interrupted a witness to ask the chairman if he could make a request. Before Connally could answer he opened a tirade against the committee with his fists shaking and his arms flaying the air:

"If you are really in earnest in putting this evidence in the record, why don't you let some one examine the witness who understands the evidence to be produced and let Senator Logan, and you other senators cross-examine? You are not seriously trying to put evidence in the record."

Orders Holland to Sit Down.

Holland continued to shout until his remarks were drowned in yells and cheers of the spectators who packed the seats, the galleries, and the passages.

When Chairman Connally could make himself heard he said quietly:

"Mr. Holland, will you please be seated? The committee will handle its own affairs."

Holland then sat down at the counsel table with Senator Logan, who has been examining the witnesses.

MILLION PUPILS' SCHOOL TERM CUT BELOW HALF YEAR

Educator Blames Slump, Poor Tax Systems.

School terms of less than six months will be the lot of 1,020,000 children throughout the country, it was declared yesterday by Dr. John K. Norton of Columbia university, speaking before the national association of state universities at the Stevens hotel. He blamed the depression and obsolete taxing machinery for the shortened terms.

Dr. Norton, who is chairman of the joint commission on the emergency in education, an agency of the National Education association, drew his findings from a recent questionnaire sent out to all county superintendents.

"A similar inquiry a year ago disclosed that forty schools had been closed," said Dr. Norton. "Now we find that 2,000 schools with an enrollment of 100,000 pupils are closed entirely. The average term for 1,020,000 children will be but three months."

Need for Federal Aid.

The drift toward the closing of schools entirely and reductions of terms will continue, Dr. Norton contended, unless federal aid is obtained.

"Otherwise, we are certain to develop in certain areas generations with practically no schooling at all," asserted Dr. Norton. "The federal government has come to the rescue of banks and farms. The schools of the nation are in such a crisis now as to constitute a national emergency."

The breakdown of schools in Chicago and places in southern Illinois has occurred because of "a 19th century system of taxation," he declared. A fundamental revision of the taxing machinery is one of the first remedies for the situation, Dr. Norton contended.

700 to be Closed in Kansas.

"Michigan one of the richest states in the union, has cut all educational budgets from a total of 109 million dollars at the peak to an estimated 45 million for this year," said Dr. Norton. "On the basis of reports, Kansas will have 700 schools closed by April 1, affecting the education of 35,000 children."

Aside from federal aid, Dr. Norton advocated a three point program as follows: Increased responsibility on the part of the state; money given by the state must provide a minimum education for all localities; and new sources of revenue other than property taxes must be found.

New Bedford Schools Close.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The public schools of New Bedford closed tonight until Dec. 1 because the city lacked $45,000 to defray expenses until the end of the fiscal year, Nov. 30.

WOMAN SHOT IN HEEL AS POLICE RAID HER HOME

Mrs. Florence Less, 30 years old, was shot in the right heel last night by Policeman Fred Susebach of the West North avenue station, in her home at 834 North Richmond street.

Several squads were sent to the Less flat after a report had been received to the effect that stolen goods were being stored there. They were refused entrance by the membrs of the household and Susebach broke in a rear door. As the door gave way he fell, according to his own statement, and his pistol was accidentally discharged, causing the woman's wound.

Mrs. Less' husband, Lawrence, and two other men, George Fairchild and Walter Sterrett, were arrested. Several fur coats and some new dresses, which the police said appeared to have been stolen, were seized.

3 CHICAGO BROTHERS IN UTAH TROUBLE; ONE PUT UNDER BOND

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Jack Jersky, 25, 3530 W. 12th place, Chicago, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon to commit murder and was under $5,000 bail in City court here today. His preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 23.

Reuben Jersky, 19, and Irving Jersky, 18, brothers of Jack, were held on charges in connection with the shooting of two farmers of Granger, near here, last week after a collision with the car of one of the Jersky brothers. The trio fled after the shooting in separate cars declared by officers to have been stolen in Chicago, and were arrested 40 miles away.

San Bernardino, Cal., officers today advised the sheriff there that evidence believed to connect Reuben Jersky with a robbery charge there was not sufficiently strong to warrant prosecution.

The two victims of the shooting, Milton Orr and Ferris Bowden, were reported recovering today.

COUPLE KILLED IN AUTO; BLAME ICY PAVEMENTS

The police yesterday expressed the belief that icy pavements caused the accident in which two persons were killed earlier in the day at Vermont and Division streets in Blue Island. The victims were Mrs. Syrl Shaddon, 25 years old, 7917 South Trumbull avenue, a divorcee, and William Rhode, 35 years old, 2325 Olive street, Blue Island, a clerk for the Rock Island railroad.

The automobile in which they were riding skidded and crashed into a tree at the roadside. They were hurled from the car and were dead when neighbors, aroused by the noise of the crash, reached the scene. The Blue Island police said that Rhode was married but had separated from his wife. Mrs. Shaddon, the mother of a 17 months old baby, was divorced from her husband, Howard, 6 months ago.

Opera Conductor, Singer Injured in Auto Crash

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Harry Irving Clarkson, 35, Tulsa singer, was injured, probably fatally, and Carlo Edwards, assistant conductor of the Metropolitan Opera company, New York, suffered serious injuries when their automobile overturned three miles east of Edmond today.

JEWELER DIES BY GAS.

SUES 2 WEALTHY MEN FOR FEES IN INCOME TAX CASE

AccountantSays He Saved Them from Trial.

Theodore D. Thomas, a certified public accountant living at 5434 Hyde Park boulevard, filed a bill of particulars yesterday in the Superior court in which he asserted that he had saved Elmer O. Beardsley and Walter F. Piper, wealthy manufacturers, from criminal prosecution for alleged income tax evasions totaling $400,000.

The bill was filed in Thomas' suit for $75,000 for his services in the matter. Beardsley lives at 2038 Kenilworth avenue, Wilmette, and Piper at 403 Lenox avenue, Oak Park. Their plant, the Berdsley & Piper Foundry Equipment Manufacturing company, is at 2451 North Keeler avenue.

Bill Demanded by Defense.

Thomas started his suit a month ago, merely asking damages "for services rendered." His attorney, Charles H. Borden, filed the bill of particulars yesterday in response to a formal demand by defense counsel.

The bill sets forth that Beardsley and Piper employed Thomas from late in 1931 until Sept. 20 of this year to straighten out their income tax returns and those of their company, which were under investigation by the bureau of internal revenue. Agents of the bureau here, the bill charges, were preparing, when Thomas entered the case, to send a report to Washington stating that the defendants, individually and on behalf of their company, had failed to report as income large payments which they received as royalties from 1925 to 1930.

Charges False Claim.

Thomas charges further that the defendants "unlawfully and fraudulently" omitted these royalties, which were taxable, from their returns. He makes another charge that the defendants "falsely and fraudulently" filed claims for income tax refunds on the basis of a pretended loss, alleging that a customer in Europe had not paid them for services for which, he charges, they really received payment.

Thomas charges that the government had a total claim of $400,000 in taxes and penalties against Beardsley and Piper and their company. Through his services, he charges, a settlement was arranged on March 15 of this year by which the defendants paid taxes and penalties of $63,322 and threats of criminal action against them were dropped.

305 RECEIVERS OWE $451,210 IN OVERDUE TAXES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $206,845, making a total of $88,176,296 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Nov. 16........	$ 18,874	$ 79,045
Uncollected	16,415,077	43,718,385
	1930.	1931.
Nov. 16........	$ 75,221	$ 123,105
Uncollected	69,328,819	71,032,766

The day's collection of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $661.

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court announced yesterday that reports filed by 305 receivers appointed in the court show that the properties under their control owe $451,210 in taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Taxes have been paid in full by 109 other receivers, Judge Sullivan said.

"If receivers cannot explain why they have failed to apply at least 75 per cent of the net income from their properties to the payment of back taxes, they will be asked to resign," Judge Sullivan declared. He said that he did not want receivers to retire notes and mortgages on properties "at the expense of Cook county."

The reports examined by Judge Sullivan are the first received on the questionnaires sent to the 3,000 receivers appointed by the chancery judges of the Superior court. Receivers who have failed to pay the taxes and who show large cash balances will be summoned before the judges who appointed them and asked to explain.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver for 38 properties to enable him to collect delinquent taxes under the Kerner-Skarda act. The properties thrown into receivership owe $81,000 in taxes.

Mrs. Norton Hammett Sues Husband and Other Woman

Mrs. Ruby Hammett, 1715 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, filed suit for $50,000 yesterday in the Superior court against Miss Emma Smith, 6025 North Paulina street, charging alienation of the affections of her husband, Norton Hammett, 511 Park avenue, Wilmette, a retired business man. At the same time she sued Hammett for separate maintenance, on charges of desertion and nonsupport, and asked an injunction to prevent his seeing Miss Smith. The Hammetts were married in 1907.

CLOW GASTEAM

Economical GAS Heating!

A LIBERAL rental offer you can't afford to miss. If you have a home, store or office without central heating system, let us install Gasteam radiators in one or more locations. Enjoy the comfort and convenience of easily regulated, comfortable heat. There's no reason to build fires, haul coal and ashes when it is so easy to have gas heat.

It is simple to use—just turn a valve and light it whenever you need heat. Each Gasteam radiator is an individual heating plant.

Auxiliary heating, too

Also, Gasteam radiators are ideal for locations not adequately heated by a central heating system—in sleeping porches, attics and storerooms.

Gasteam radiators are quickly installed at our expense. During the heating season (seven winter months) you pay a small rental charge—as low as $1.00 per radiator. This charge comes to you with the bill for the gas you use. If you decide you want to purchase the radiators, the rental you pay applies on the purchase price. In case you don't want to keep gas heat we remove the radiators and your rental stops immediately.

A liberal offer

A most liberal offer. We want you to be perfectly satisfied before you invest a cent to buy the equipment.

ALDERMEN URGE FIXED SPANS ON RIVER AND CANAL

Bridge Report Approved by Subcommittee.

A report on Chicago bridges recommending that the war department and the city adopt a policy of fixed bridges in the downtown district and on the branches of the Chicago river was approved yesterday by a subcommittee of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges. Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th], subcommittee chairman, said the full committee, of which Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] is chairman, would be asked to concur in the recommendation.

Under the plan proposed by the subcommittee, the only movable bridges eventually left in the city will be those over the Calumet river between Lake Michigan and Lake Calumet, which would serve as a terminal for Chicago's lake steamship traffic and as the principal link between the great lakes and the inland waterway system to the Gulf of Mexico.

Report Is Result of Survey.

The report, which deals with the barge terminal question as well as that of bridge clearances, is the result of a survey by Hugh E. Young, engineer of the Chicago Plan commission, Thomas G. Pihlfeldt, city bridge engineer, and Martin W Oettershagen, city port engineer.

The report recommends particularly that a policy of fixed bridges over the North branch of the Chicago river be adopted as quickly as possible.

The city, which is seeking a federal public works loan to build a bridge over the branch at Ashland avenue, is desirous of making that a fixed structure. Its engineers have estimated a saving of several million dollars if that is permitted, due to reduced construction and operation costs of the Ashland avenue bridge and to the fact that with it built, it would be possible to abandon operation of movable bridges farther north on the river.

Urges Fixed Canal Bridges.

The report recommends that bridges over the sanitary canal into Chicago as far as Cicero avenue, and over the Sag-Calumet channel from the sanitary canal to its ultimate extension to Lake Calumet, be built with a clearance of 25 feet above the water level, and that all bridges over the sanitary canal from Cicero avenue to its junction with the Chicago river at Damen avenue, and also those over the river and its branches, have a 21 foot clearance. All of these bridges would be fixed.

In this connection, the report recommends that eventually there be constructed at the mouth of the Chicago river a lock which would prevent rises in the lake level from diminishing the clearance under bridges over the river. Such a lock would make possible a maximum difference of six feet between the lake level and the river level, the latter governing bridge clearances. The present movable bridges over the river have a clearance of 16½ feet over the average level of the river.

It is economically impossible, the report points out, to raise bridges in the downtown district to give a bridge a clearance of more than 21 feet. If the 25 foot clearance recommended for the outlying bridges were adopted for the downtown spans, the engineers found, it would be necessary to raise street levels to such an extent that the present entrance utility of buildings on neighboring streets would be destroyed, at a cost of millions of dollars.

SETTLE POSTPONES HIS STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT AT AKRON

Akron, O., Nov. 17 [Friday.]—(AP)—A projected balloon flight into the stratosphere by Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle, U. S. N., and Maj. Chester L. Fordney, U. S. Marine corps, early today was postponed indefinitely because of unfavorable weather conditions.

GEN. H. C. TREXLER KILLED; HEAD OF CEMENT COMPANY

Easton, Pa., Nov. 17 [Friday.]—(AP)—Gen. Harry C. Trexler, chairman of the board of the Lehigh Portland Cement company, and a widely known banker of Allentown, Pa., died in a hospital here today of injuries received in an automobile accident. He was 79. On his way home from New York City last night his car sideswiped a large oil truck and trailer parked at the side of the highway.

Identified for many years with the development of the Lehigh region, he was president of the cement company from its organization until he relinquished the post for the one he held until his death.

He owned one of the largest fruit orchards in the state, and his agricultural holdings total more than 7,000 acres in Lehigh county.

BAR ASSOCIATION ORDERS A QUIZ OF SONSTEBY OFFICE

Names 2 Committees to Conduct Inquiry.

The Chicago Bar association, through its board of managers, yesterday decided to conduct a thorough inquiry into the alleged illegal expenditures in the office of Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court. It also decided to investigate the proposed adoption of 321 new court rules which have been termed unnecessary.

John D. Black, president of the association, announced that the committee on Municipal courts, headed by Attorney Harry G. Hershenson, would hold hearings to determine whether Chief Justice Sonsteby has expended money illegally and made illegal transfers of funds. These expenditures have been termed "a raid on the city treasury" by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas who demanded that the bar association make an investigation.

Attacks New Rules.

The proposed adoption of the new rules and printing of them at an expense of thousands of dollars has also been attacked by Judge Jonas, who charged that the rules were drawn and printed merely to furnish an excuse for a job for Hiram T. Gilbert in the chief justice's office. Gilbert formerly held a $10,000 a year job as "special assistant" to the chief justice and has been kept on the pay roll at a minimum salary of $6,000 a year since the city council abolished his position.

An investigation into this phase of Judge Jonas' charges will be made by a special committee headed by Attorney Alexander J. Resa, it was announced. This committee has already examined the rules in question and found them unnecessary to the orderly and efficient procedure of the Municipal court, it was reported.

The board of managers, consisting of President Black and all the past presidents of the bar association, discussed the charges against Chief Justice Sonsteby at some length, it was reported. They asked the investigating committee to hold early hearings and make early reports, it was learned.

Jonas Willing to Appear.

Judge Jonas has announced that he will gladly appear before the committees and provide details of the alleged illegal expenditures. Judge Sonsteby, who has contented himself with a formal denial of the charges, has not indicated whether he will appear to deny the charges in person.

Physicians Now

Twenty physicians who served their internships at the Cook county hospital held informal "homecoming" exercises there yesterday. They were welcomed back by Dr. Ole Nelson, assistant superintendent, and shown through the hospital. They were most interested in the daily clinic, where they watched the present staff at work. The doctors are to attend the weekly pathological conference at the hospital today.

Wife Gets Writ to Keep Other Woman from Mate

Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday issued an injunction restraining Miss Grace Bergenson from seeing or talking to Harry Feinberg, district manager of a national motion picture theater chain. The injunction was granted on petition of Mrs. Fannie Feinberg, 1338 Winnemac avenue, wife of Feinberg, who recently filed a suit for separate maintenance against her husband. Mrs. Feinberg charges that Miss Bergenson and another woman have taken her place in her husband's affection.

2 HELD HERE TO FACE ST. PAUL ROBBERY TRIAL

Albert Kator, who has been indicted as one of the kidnapers of Jake Factor, and James Ryan were held yesterday by United States Commissioner Walker for removal to St. Paul to stand trial for a $20,000 mail robbery in that city last January. Bond of $50,000 was set for each of the defendants.

The men were held for removal to St. Paul on the testimony of Jule M. Hannaford, foreman of the federal grand jury now sitting in St. Paul. Hannaford identified pictures of Ryan and Kator as the men whose photographs had been presented to the St. Paul grand jury. The pictures presented to the grand jury had been identified, Hannaford said, as those of members of the gang who participated in the mail robbery. Hanniford said that the St. Paul identification had been made by Leon Epmeier, another member of the bandit gang.

Here's the way to tell if you have Acid Stomach

You Can Get Rid of it Quickly!

The Signs of Acid Stomach

Nervousness	Neuralgia	Indigestion
	Auto-intoxication	Nausea
	Frequent Headaches	Sleeplessness
	Feeling of Weakness	Mouth Acidity
	Loss of Appetite	Sour Stomach

WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

OR—Take the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—one tablet for each teaspoonful as directed above.

Some 80% of the people of today have Acid Stomach, according to many authorities! This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," "biliousness," are the usual indications. So you can easily tell if you have Acid Stomach.

You Can Quickly And Easily Correct It

But if you do have it, don't worry about it. Today it can be corrected in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid.

What This Does

That's all you do. But do it regularly. EVERY DAY.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy you feel.

Everywhere people are doing this—doctors advocating it. Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips'" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

WANTED
ONE MILLION POUNDS OF TOMATOES

. . . must be in perfect condition

THIS message is addressed to buyers of tomatoes—and buyers of advertising space.

If you were buyer for H. J. Heinz Co., would you contract for a million pounds of tomatoes without asking their condition? Not if you make the kind of ketchup Heinz makes. Not unless you want to throw both tomatoes and money away. Heinz has to have tomatoes grown from prize-winning tomato seeds, and make them into ketchup the day they are picked.

Well then, why is it that buyers of advertising often spend money to buy readers for their advertising — readers by the hundred thousand, and by the million — without asking whether the reader is in prime condition?

The answer is that shrewd advertisers don't buy that way. They want quantity of readers, yes. But not without quality. Three thousand, or even three million readers that can't afford or don't want what you have for sale are of no use to you.

That explains why the New York Herald Tribune is carrying advertising for some of the most difficult-to-please advertisers in the world.

How does the Herald Tribune get that way? By dedicating its contents to that restless, progressive, well-to-do element in the Metropolitan Area, who haven't stopped wanting things, and who haven't lost the ability to pay for them . . . 321,283 families to be exact, 427,232 on Sundays. As for their responsiveness to advertising, we have some valuable statistics for those who wish to see.

Chicago Girls to Travel East to Grid Games

Three Make Trip Together in Deb's Auto.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERY evening next week lively telephone conversations will be carried on between the households of the Walter Garrett Smiths, the Harve Badgerows, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vincent O'Brien. Mrs. Smith, mother of Miss Roslyn Paine, who is one of the attractive debutantes of this season, will be reporting to Mrs. Badgerow and Mrs. O'Brien the welfare of their daughters, Miss Susan Badgerow and Miss Jean O'Brien.

Early Monday morning the three young women are loading their bags into Miss Paine's car and setting off for New York and a three weeks' holiday. Yesterday, however, Mrs. Smith exacted a promise from her daughter that she will wire of their progress every day at 5 o'clock.

Miss Paine, Miss Badgerow, and Miss O'Brien will spend the three weeks visiting school friends in and about New York and attending the two most exciting football events of the fall season. The afternoon of Nov. 25 they will be in Cambridge to watch the Harvard-Yale game. Students at the two universities will be their escorts. The following week they will have places in the Yale bowl for the Yale-Princeton game which promises to be an even more exciting contest.

Another debutante of the season who has the good fortune to be traveling east for a football game or two is Miss Virginia Ashcraft, daughter of the junior Edwin M. Ashcrafts of Evanston. Miss Ashcraft is leaving this morning for Orange, N. J., where she will be the house guest of Miss Elizabeth Campbell who was her roommate at Miss Porter's school and who came west to assist at her debut tea on Sept. 20. The young women expect to see both of the big eastern games.

Barbara Bullard Will See Game.

It will be hard for Miss Barbara Bullard to decide whether to cheer for Yale or Princeton when she attends the game on Dec. 2 in New Haven, for she has always had as many beaux at one school as the other. Miss Bullard is leaving next Thursday to spend several days in New York with her aunt before going up to New Haven.

Another popular young woman who is to have a trip east for the Yale-Princeton game is Miss Eleanor McNally. While east Miss McNally will be the house guest of her mother's intimate friend, Mrs. J. Stewart Brown, in Greenwich.

And apropos of the gridiron there are probably few persons who know that the Amherst-Williams football rivalry antedates any other . . . even the Harvard-Yale . . . in this country. Tomorrow afternoon the two men's colleges will play their 54th consecutive game in Williamstown and all of those Chicago alumni who are not fortunate enough to be in the stands will be down at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club to hear a play by play account over the radio.

Allan Healy, who captained the Williams team in '24 and Berford Brittain Jr., who led the Amherst team in 1929, will be in charge of the board. Charles R. Lindsay III. is president of Chicago's Williams alumni this year and Charles Henry Brown presides over the Chicago Amherst club. Robert Hoffman Jr., as the secretary and treasurer of the Williams club, has been handling most of the arrangements for Saturday's football luncheon.

The H-Y-P club, by the way, is letting down the bars as far as women are concerned on the days of the Harvard-Yale and the Princeton-Yale games and the members are inviting their wives and sweethearts to buffet luncheons, starting at 12 o'clock, and radio broadcasts of the games.

Dinner Tonight for Patsy Keith.

One of the small but very nice debutante parties on this week's calendar will be given this evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley when they entertain at dinner in their State parkway apartment for Miss Patsy Keith, one of this season's buds. Among the guests will be Mrs. Victor Elting Jr. [the former Helen Stanley], who is here from her home in Cedar Rapids, Ia., for a few days' visit with her family. Mrs. Elting will return to her home on Sunday.

Mrs. Horace E. Newcomet and her daughter, Miss Marion Newcomet, are entertaining at a 1 o'clock luncheon this noon in the English room of the Blackstone hotel for thirty-five debutantes and post-debs. Although Miss Newcomet is not herself a debutante of this season, she thought it would be very nice to do something for all of her friends who are making their bows to society.

Although the party they are giving tomorrow night for the landowners who let them ride over their property is occupying the attention of members of the Longmeadow Hunt just now they also are looking forward with keen anticipation to their Thanksgiving hunt, for that is an occasion replete with interest and tradition.

At 8 o'clock every Thanksgiving morning the members of the hunt, the men in their plain coats and the women in their smart habits, attend services at Christ church in Winnetka, and then after the hunt they go to

Mothers Give Luncheon for Two Debutantes of Season

Debutantes Guests at Luncheon

Exquisite rubrum lilies decorated the long table at which the debutantes of the season sat for luncheon yesterday in a private dining room of the Woman's Athletic club, and when they left each girl was urged to pin one of the lovely flowers on her coat collar.

The party was given by Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence and Mrs. Ralph Hubbart for their debutante daughters, Barbara Lawrence and Charlotte Hubbart, two of the most attractive of this year's buds. Miss Lawrence was charming in a black velvet suit with a silver lame blouse, a small black velvet hat and gardenias, and Miss Hubbart was equally smart in eel gray silk with a chinchilla collar and a tiny cap made of gray leaves. Her flowers were orchids.

Among the guests were the Misses Virginia Ashcraft, Jean O'Brien, Roslyn Paine, Betty Alexander, Jean Hyman, Lucy Harrison, Kean Hughes, Betty and Eleanor Coit, Jeannette Schreiner, Marie Louise Gardner, and Josephine Templeton.

Miss Lawrence's two older sisters, the Misses Jane and Mildred Lawrence, and their grandmother, Mrs. John D. James, and Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Hubbart sat at a small table.

Short Story Night.

Short story night will be observed at the meeting of the Illinois Woman's Press association at 8 o'clock this evening at the Cordon club.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

IT'S a belated, but true story, and pretty funny, too. By way of preamble, we point out that the rickshaw boys at the Fair were instructed to be chatty and amiable, and to discourse with their patrons along the lines of interest shown by the patron. Thus one day when a man who got into a rickshaw at the 12th street entrance and said he wanted to be driven through the Fair showed an interest in motors, the rickshaw boy talked motors with him. It was a matter of interest to the boy, too, and when his patron asked him what he thought of the respective merits of General Motors and Chrysler, he answered at some length. He said he thought General Motors had superior features and told what they were. The man listened attentively, and after his tour of the Fair, asked to be let out at the Chrysler building. The fare was $2.50. The man gave the boy a $5 bill, folded in two, and told him to keep the change. Inside the folded bill the lad found a personal card. It was engraved: "Mr. Walter Percy Chrysler."

LETTER from Glenwood, Ill., to social worker who had failed to report the request of the writer to the Red Cross, which is distributing clothing to the poor:

"I have written you often in regards to a clothing order and have had no answer. . . . Now I want you to call at my home and see for yourself the trousers I am wearing. If you think they are O. K. I will give them to you and join the nudist colony. I will have to join it anyhow in about three days, as at that time all I'll have left is belt loops.

"In closing all I have to say is give me a reply; any kind, even if it's asking how the weather is in Glenwood [without trousers]. Also be kind enough to tell me if I may or may not have this order.

"Thanking you in advance, I remain, A FUTURE NUDIST."

IT sounds to me like a new version of an old story. As told the other day it concerns a man who offered his seat to a lady on the "L." At this startling innovation the lady fainted. When she came to she thanked him. Then he fainted.

FOR people who are saying "Who is Paul Kerby?" we point out that the young British conductor from Vienna who is conducting the Chicago Symphony tomorrow night is a sort of an Anthony Adverse in the way in which his destiny has touched three continents and four or five countries. His father was sent to Capetown by the British government to open a music school, and Paul was born in South Africa. He came to England, studied at the Royal Academy, and became an associate. Later he went to Vienna and conducted symphony concerts there, and also at Salzburg, where he put on some programs of music by English composers. He also at one time or another, conducted at Roxy theater in New York. . . . That's practically all we know about him, except that he is a rather handsome and animated young man whose most prized possessions are some records of his orchestra in Vienna. He brought them to a week-end party where we were a guest late this summer, and every time an attempt was made to hear them, something happened. Finally, just before the house party broke up Sunday evening, a request was made for Mr. Kerby's records. Midway through the first record the hostess was called to the telephone. She came back looking pale and concerned, and said that the gardener's daughter had been in a shooting accident in town, and as there was no one else to go, they were driving him in at once. So the party broke up and we never did hear Mr. Kerby's records. . . . Orchestra hall is sold out for tomorrow night, we hear, but he also is to be guest conductor for the Woman's Symphony later, and with Carl Bricken's University of Chicago orchestra Dec. 8.

THE story about the wag who asked Senator James J. Barbour to pronounce polopony reminded Mrs. Frank P. Withers of the French professor who was asked by one of his pupils to pronounce ba-cka-che. The professor looked it over and decided it might be pronounced back-a-shay. He didn't know its meaning, but would look it up, he said. Then his pupil told him not to bother, as it probably was just ordinary backache.

GIFTS OF GAME MAY EMBARRASS PUZZLED COOKS

Hints on Preparation Are Now in Order.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:10 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

"The game's the thing" these days, and in what manner! If it isn't wild duck perhaps it's a plump pheasant or quail; if it doesn't turn out to be partridge or rabbit, it quite possibly may be a meaty squirrel. And if by any glorious throw of luck you have friends who travel for their hunting, there's always the chance that the express package might open up to be venison or wild turkey!

If luck is with you and it's leg of venison, do you know just how to roast it? One game-wise cook I know does it in this way:

ROAST LEG OF VENISON.

Wipe the venison with a damp cloth and strip off the dry skin. Lard the lean side with strips of fat pork, drawing them through with a larding needle. Rub the whole piece with softened butter, then sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Now lay the venison leg down on a rack in a roasting pan, the bottom of which has been dusted generouly with flour. Place the pan in a hot oven, and in 5 minutes, or just as soon as the flour in the pan is browned, add enough boiling water to cover the pan bottom. Now lower the heat to medium temperature and continue roasting, allowing about 10 minutes for each pound. Baste frequently, adding more boiling water if necessary. Serve with a gravy made of the drippings, and with a tart jelly.

But maybe you prefer the broiled version of venison. Then cut it in steaks, wipe them with a damp cloth, and sear on a broiler rack in a hot oven. Reduce the heat and continue broiling till done. This will take about the same length of time as for broiled beefsteak.

About wild ducks there are two schools of thought. Some prefer the strong gamey flavor left in; others request it taken out. One of the best ways to lessen it to any degree you wish is to soak the cleaned ducks two or three hours in fairly strong salt water to which has been added a level teaspoon of soda. Rinse before cooking. And don't forget, a good wild duck should show blood when cut at the table—cook it rare.

Mallard ducks are less plump than some of their other wild cousins, and frequently respond best to the following attention. Dress the mallards, stuff with bread, apple, nut and egg dressing, sew up and cook slowly in a kettle to which has been added an inch of water, a slice of onion, and a small amount of thyme.

Grouse are even dryer birds and really need a little fattening added in the cooking. The best way to do this is to cover them completely with strips of bacon before roasting. Just before serving, remove the bacon, brush the birds with melted fat, dredge with flour and brown in the oven. Gravy is served up with grouse. Use the thickened juices from the roasting pan.

Partridge, quail and pheasant may be roasted, or if the birds are young, plenty of game enthusiasts best love them broiled. Clean them, then split down the back, season, and place on a broiler rack with the inside to the flame. Ten minutes broiling will take care of a quail so prepared, and 30 to ,40 minutes should satisfy a pheasant or partridge. On the other hand, if you like your birds pan fried, cut them into convenient pieces, dredge with seasoning and flour, and brown in a little hot fat in a frying pan. When they're browned to your liking, add milk and continue baking till tender. Thicken the milk a bit to serve as gravy.

And lastly, if it's squirrels your hunter comes packing home, have you yet gone into the matter of roasting them? Here are plans and specifications:

ROAST SQUIRREL.

Skin and clean the squirrel carefully, washing it inside and out. Let the carcass lie in a mixture of vinegar and oil for 1½ hours, then drain and stuff with well seasoned bread dressing to which has been added chopped up mushrooms. Rub the stuffed squirrel with oil and place in a roasting pan. Add water or brown stock and roast till tender. Add seasoning and lemon juice to the pan juices and thicken to make gravy.

USE HONEY FOR FINER FLAVOR FOR SALT WATER TAFFY

Atlantic City salt water taffy, famous from coast to coast, may be given a special zest if honey is used, says Kathryn B. Niles of the home economics division, University of Minnesota. Taffy is a particularly appropriate candy for winter when the longer and colder evenings call for party fun around the fireside. For honey salt water taffy use:

1 cup sugar
½ tb. cornstarch
⅓ cup corn syrup
⅓ cup honey
⅓ cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

1. Mix sugar and cornstarch thoroughly.
2. Add remaining ingredients [except vanilla] and stir until sugar is all dissolved and the mixture boils.
3. Boil to hard ball stage [256 degrees F. if theremometer is available].
4. Remove from fire, add flavoring, and pour on greased platter after the bubbling has ceased.
5. When cool enough to handle pull until light colored.

For variation, chopped nuts or coconut many be added. These may be sprinkled over the cooled candy before it is taken up for pulling. If several batches are being made, some may be delicately colored.

If any candy is to be kept, pieces should be wrapped in waxed paper and stored in tightly covered container.

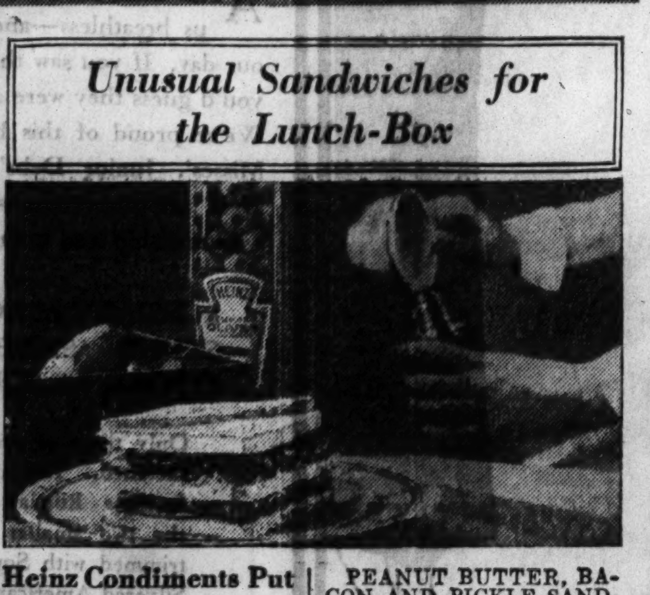
Unusual Sandwiches for the Lunch-Box



Heinz Condiments Put New Thrills in the Mid-Day Snack

By Josephine Gibson

HARD COOKED EGG AND KETCHUP SANDWICHES. Combine 6 hard cooked, chopped eggs with enough Heinz Tomato Ketchup to moisten and one teaspoon Heinz Prepared Mustard, ¼ teaspoon Heinz Worcestershire Sauce, salt and pepper to season and a few drops onion juice. Spread between slices of buttered bread. For the packed lunch, wrap each sandwich in waxed paper.

PEANUT BUTTER, BACON AND PICKLE SANDWICHES. Fry 4 slices bacon until crisp, chop finely and add to ½ cup Heinz Peanut Butter and 3 tablespoons Heinz India Relish. Spread between slices of buttered bread, using in each sandwich lettuce, if available. These may be either plain or toasted.

OLIVE CLUB SANDWICHES. Toast slices of bread ¼ inch thick until an even golden brown. Butter lightly and let cool slightly. Spread with thick Heinz Mayonnaise. On half of the slices place lettuce leaves and cover with Heinz Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced. On remaining toast, arrange slices of broiled bacon. Put together and garnish with watercress.

DRESSING RECIPE FOR TURKEY ON THANKSGIVING

Can Be Made to Share in Praise for Feast.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

When planning the Thanksgiving dinner, whether it is to be a pompous gobbler, a big fat goose, game in season, capon or just a plain barn-yard fowl, "how's about" the dressing?

The dressing can be conjured into such a delicious entrée to the king of fowl, and can receive so full share of praise, that it deserves time and thought to the preparation of it.

When bread is the main ingredient used it should be purchased at least two days before time, so that it may be thoroughly dry and crumb easily. When fresh bread is used a heavy, soggy dressing is the result.

Some housewives think it displays their culinary art to the zenith degree to have oyster dressing with the turkey. We think it completely spoils the delicate flavor of any poultry, as the fishy taste of the oysters is accentuated and permeates the fowl. Scalloped oysters are a delicate accompaniment to roast turkey or as an appetizer preceding the dinner, but further than that they should be tabooed.

Here's Recipe from Italy.

A most delicious new way to stuff the turkey is a recipe that hails from Italy, where it is served at the countryside inns of Arcetri. We have heard that people come from far to eat of it, and it is prepared in the following manner. For an ordinary 10 pound turkey use the following:

1 lb. bulk sausage.
1 lb. chestnuts.
2 stalks celery.
1 small onion.
1 large loaf bread.
12 olives.
Salt, pepper, pinch thyme.
Pinch marjoram, 3 sprigs parsley.

Soak the bread in enough milk to moisten so that it can easily be handled. Run celery, onion and olives through meat grinder after cutting out stones from olives. Roast chestnuts enough to loosen the skins, peel and cut in half. Mix bread crumbs, sausage meat and seasoning thoroughly, kneading until sausage meat is completely blended with bread. When well mixed add the chestnuts and mix in thoroughly without breaking the nut meats. Stuff breast pouch first, sewing up tight, then put the rest of the stuffing in the hollow of the carcass, basting with cider and water, heated, and in which a little butter has been melted. Cook in moderate oven. Put well greased paper over the turkey inside the double baking pan. It will help keep the breast well basted. Thyme and majoram can be left out if not liked. Ordinary breakfast sausage is best.

Another Not So Elaborate.

Another dressing not quite so elaborate, but really good for stuffing crown roast of pork, stuffed spareribs or brisket of veal, is called "grandma's dressing." The method for making this versatile dressing, and which is a favorite, is made in the following manner:

Remove crust from large loaf bread, slice and crumble in small bits. Season with ½ teaspoon black pepper, 2 teaspoons salt, ¾ teaspoon of poultry seasoning and 1 medium sized chopped onion. Mix well, add 2-3 cup melted butter in ¼ cup boiling water; toss with two forks and add 2 eggs slightly beaten. Blend well. Fill body and breast of turkey sufficient to give plump appearance. It is a good idea when more dressing is made than needed to fill small baking dish with it and bake it in oven right along with turkey. Baste it at the time you baste the turkey. This extra dressing may be held over for the next day's meal.

Household Hints

Man eats animal and vegetable foods. The herbivorous animal has a digestive system specially designed to handle bulky foods in quantity. The digestive apparatus of man requires that part of his food be concentrated and of animal origin, such as meat.

A sound apple or two placed in the cake box and renewed as it wilts helps to keep the fruit cake fresh and moist.

Pardon, Mr. Kipling. But through the good works of Heinz globe-trotters those "twain" of yours, East and West, have met!

For back from the lush tropical gardens of India, Heinz has brought rare exotic spices, the pride of the East.

And from Western farms Heinz has brought luscious red-ripe tomatoes, tomatoes grown from seeds that Heinz specially develops, and picked from plants that Heinz rears in greenhouses.

The best of each of these two, the savory excitement of the spices, and the fresh wholesome goodness of the tomatoes, have been brought together, made one, in Heinz Tomato Ketchup. No wonder, then, that Heinz Ketchup has become the largest selling in the world.

Perhaps it enjoys world-wide success because in it Mr. Kipling's "twain" do meet.

CHICAGO'S IDLE STORE FOOD FROM RELIEF GARDENS

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Several hundred families of Chicago's idle who worked relief gardens in 1933 yesterday began to stock up pantry shelves with their portions of canned goods preserved for winter use from the excess vegetables of their plots. Thousands of cans of food are being portioned out, one-fifth of the supply reserved for distribution to relief shelters in the city.

Some of the families are storing away as much as 80 to 100 cans of processed food, according to J. F. Machotka, superintendent of the garden service of the Cook county bureau of public welfare. Another month will be required to complete canning of the surplus vegetables in the canning center at 345 East Burlington road, Riverside.

Cuts Costs of Relief.

Nearly 15,000 quarts and pints in tins have been filled and processed. The principal vegetables harvested for canning are beets, carrots, kohlrabi, squash, tomatoes and Swiss chard. Smaller amounts of mustard, turnips and turnip tops, green and ripe tomatoes and Swiss chard stems also have been canned.

Remaining are quantities of carrots, kohlrabi, pumpkin, squash and fruits purchased or brought in by the idle. During the months of September and October those who participated in the garden relief project received $2 less per month because of vegetable supplies grown on their plots.

Families on the relief rolls received their plots in the fields along 1st avenue in Maywood in the spring. The projects were in charge of Warner G. Baird, chairman of garden work of the county bureau of public welfare. Through the summer the gardeners were permitted to take home maturing crops such as beans, corn, radishes, chard, lettuce, tomatoes, and cabbage.

Repeat Scheme Next Year.

Then the fall harvest was announced. The gardeners, getting receipts for all the amounts they turned in for canning, completed the gathering of crops before Oct. 25, after which other idle gleaned the fields and turned in the remainder to the general supply of the vegetables for canning, to be given to relief shelters.

We are in earnest about Heinz cooked Spaghetti!

When made, the spaghetti is dried on racks in airtight rooms.

We follow a fine Italian recipe, cooking the spaghetti just enough.

The famous Heinz spices, and luscious Heinz tomatoes go into the spaghetti sauce.

We want to be absolutely sure your family will take to Heinz Cooked Spaghetti like an old favorite. So we go the limit, spare no effort, give it everything we've got.

We even make the original dry spaghetti. In a six-story building specially equipped for spaghetti making we mix it, and knead it, and press it, and dry it. The flour we use is milled for us from a special hard Durum wheat.

Then we cook it. Just enough. Soft, digestible—but not soupy, not "mushy". And we season it with oh! such a delightful sauce! Luscious ripe Heinz-grown tomatoes and spices that we choose in the Orient. A sauce that does to spaghetti what Heinz Ketchup does to an omelette. And we add fine imported cheese.

To our own sixty-four years of food-making experience we add the expert knowledge of several generations of Italian spaghetti-makers. So Heinz cooked Spaghetti is as delicious as Italy's finest.

Have Heinz cooked Spaghetti for lunch, for dinner, as a happy change from meat. Have it often. It's quick to fix. (All ready to heat and serve!) And it's thrifty, too. (Practically a meal in one tin, for just a few pennies at your Grocer's!)

P. S. Josephine Gibson, the Hostess Counselor, has written a grand book "57 Ways to Serve Heinz Cooked Spaghetti." It's free! Write to her for it, care of H. J. Heinz Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

good eating in each tin of BEANS

One reason why we oven-bake our beans—instead of boiling or steaming them—is this: dry oven-baking enables us to replace the original moisture in the beans with rich savory sauce. Thus you get, in Heinz Oven-Baked Beans, a tin filled with good bean nourishment with spicy, delicious sauce—and nothing else!

That is one reason why Heinz beans are oven-baked. There are others. Oven-baking makes beans easier to digest. It makes them more munchy, more mealy, more fun in the eating. And that is why our ancestors chose to oven-bake their beans, why Heinz oven-bakes them today.

Heinz buys "choice hand-picked" beans and culls out all but the perfect ones. Heinz makes each sauce rich and savory and pure. Heinz puts more good bean-eating in each big tin. And your Grocer sells them at prices reasonably low.

TRIBUNE COOKING EXPERT MAKES MOUTHS WATER

Sausage, Baked Apples Is Piece de Resistance.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Five thousand women of the west side yesterday heard Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who conducts the classes in THE TRIBUNE'S school of cookery, tell them how to prepare an ideal dish for wintry days. The class was the third of four to be held in Guyon's Paradise ballroom, in Crawford avenue, near Washington boulevard. The dish was baked apples and sausage.

FRANCIS W. SLIGHTHAM.

Baked apples and sausage, as made by Mrs. Chitwood on the kitchen-stage at the cooking school, have as their component parts quartered apples, laid in the bottom of a greased pan on top of crumbled crackers; sugar and cinnamon sprinkled on the apples, and, on top of all, pork sausages.

Comes Out Savory and Inviting.

Even to the inexpert it appeared a simple thing to put the apples, sausage, and their trappings into the dish and whisk it into an oven. After twenty-five minutes the pan was brought out, savory and inviting.

Some of the entertainers on the program almost wept at the smell and the sight of the sausage and apples. Allan Grant, pianist, hunted up Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies, backstage and asked if the dish was to be passed around. John Pane-Gasser, tenor, put in his bid for some. But some one in the audience eventually got it.

Another dish which may make its appearance on many a west side dinner table tonight was prepared by Mrs. Chitwood—tuna fish pie. When she held up the creamy preparation in a glass baking dish, topped with thin slices of toast, before putting it into an oven, an audible murmur of approval swept over the audience.

A reminder of the approach of Thanksgiving a huge turkey was set before the audience on Mrs. Chitwood's white table, while her capable hands mixed giblets, hard boiled egg and milk with dressing and stuffed the bird.

Unafraid to Use Her Hands.

"Of course I use my hands," Mrs. Chitwood said when she dredged the bird [previously brushed with butter] with flour. "Use your hands in filling the cavity with dressing, too. Hands are made to work with and no good cook is afraid to use them."

She then placed a beef roast on the stove, first dredging it and searing it.

"Don't stick a fork into it," she warned. "Turn it with a wooden spoon or fork."

After the roast was browned four onions were cut up and browned in the fat. Two tablespoons of prepared mustard, ½ cup chopped celery and 1 cup of tomato soup were added, the sauce then being poured over the meat and the whole allowed to simmer for several hours.

Other winter fare prepared at the cooking school included gingerbread stuffed prune salad and banana bran muffins, which were requested as a "repeat number."

The west siders received with prolonged applause Mr. Pane-Gasser, who was reared on the west side. Accompanied by Camille Iarussi, pianist, he sang "I Love Life," by Manna-Zucca; "For You Alone," and Brahe's "Bless This House."

The comedy dance team, Gini, De Quincy and Lewis, from the Hotel Sherman's College Inn, kept the cooking pupils laughing throughout their act.

Another apparent favorite was Ireene Wicker, the "Singing Lady" of W-G-N radio station, who, accompanied by Allan Grant, sang his composition to the words of Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue."

Appearing as the "harmony singers" were Vivian Holt and Lillian Rosedale, who sang several songs they helped make popular on the vaudeville and concert stage years ago. Miss Lois Grider, one of the two "grocerettes who distribute bushels of groceries at each cooking school session, sang a song, accompanied on the piano by her partner, Lorraine Nevens.

Woman Writers of Tribune Speak.

Miss Mary Meade, THE TRIBUNE cooking editor, made an introductory talk before Mrs. Chitwood's lecture. Other writers for THE TRIBUNE who appeared on the program for short talks were India Moffett, society editor, who writes under the name of Judith Cass, and Angela Petesch, who writes on etiquette under the name of Helen Bartlett.

The program was begun with community singing, led by George L. Tenney, accompanied by Mr. Grant. As a feature of the afternoon Camil Virla, executive chef of the Sherman house, gave a lecture demonstration on how to make white layer cake.

The last of the west side sessions of THE TRIBUNE school of cookery will be held today in Guyon's Paradise ballroom. Next week north side housewives will be instructed in cooking at the Aragon ballroom by Mrs. Chitwood.

Music, Magic, Dancing Today.

Today's program includes the appearance of Hal Kemp, Deane Janis, and Skinny Ennis, of Hal Kemp's orchestra, broadcast from the Blackhawk restaurant over W-G-N radio station, and Pierre Andre, W-G-N staff announcer. John Platt, magician and pupils of the Esther M. Bossert School of the Dance, also will appear. Harry Walsh will lead the community singing, accompanied by Helen Rauh.

Another feature will be a solo by Francis W. Slightam, who was chosen as the second best man singer in the 1933 Chicagoland Music festival. He is now employed in a Madison, Wis., bank, but was born on the west side and is widely known there.

GRANULATED HONEY MAY BE USED IN MANY DELICIOUS DISHES

Granulated honey is far from useless as a food, for many housewives experienced in honey cookery often put quantities of honey in the refrigerator to make it granulate.

Some of the most common uses for granulated honey in cooking include the following:

Cake icing—Add chopped nuts and coconut to granulated honey and warm just enough so it will spread easily.

Hard sauce—To ¾ cup granulated honey add ½ cup butter that has been allowed to stand at room temperature. Blend thoroughly. This mixture should be prepared as needed and chilled before being served.

Candy—Mix granulated honey with ground dates, prunes, apricots, figs and other dried fruit.

BREAD PRICE WAR CUTS ONE POUND LOAF TO 5 CENTS

Stores Offer Bargains in Butter.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicagoland food shoppers will find a "bread war" merrily in progress as they venture out today to fill the market basket with edibles for the week-end menus. A good loaf of bakers' bread, either sliced or unsliced, is available at 5 cents in several hundred stores this week.

The price trimming on bread started in Chicago and the suburbs early Wednesday morning, when a chain of stores offered a twelve ounce loaf for 5 cents. This price was met by other stores later in the day and yesterday when 16 ounce loaves were offered at the same price.

It is the first time nickel a pound bread has been available here since last July, when by agreement all bakers raised bread prices 1 cent a loaf to meet the increased labor costs of the NRA and the processing tax on wheat which amounts to about one-half cent per loaf.

More Baking at Home.

In recent weeks many independent bakers who earlier reluctantly agreed to increase bread prices only 1 cent a loaf, instead of 2 cents, boosted their prices on bread that in July sold for 5 cents to 7 cents. Housewives have been baking more of their own breadstuffs of late, as flour prices were reduced by some millers lowering the quality of wheats used in their blended flour.

This is said by bakers to have been a small consideration in launching the present price cutting, however. Their main objective, it was pointed out, is to keep bread at a price attractive enough to encourage consumption by people of limited means, which in turn adds to purchases of butter, jellies, and other foods served in combination with bread.

With wholesale butter prices steadily declining in recent weeks many stores are offering bargain prices on creamery butter. Retail butter prices in Chicago are between 2 and 8 cents lower than they were in early October. Storage stocks of butter are the largest on record and farm production is continuing at a heavy rate in a period when butter production normally declines in volume.

Still Offer Bargains in Pork.

Many stores also are taking advantage of the government's ruling that the processing tax on pork does not begin on retail stocks until Dec. 4. They are offering bargains in pork loins, spareribs, and pork roasts. Leg of veal and lamb roasts also are low in price in most meat markets, a survey shows.

Turkeys are being sold at a lively rate for preholiday dinners, prices ranging from 23 to 31 cents a pound, depending somewhat on quality and size of the dressed bird. Turkey prices are expected to be very low as consumers begin placing their Thanksgiving day orders. Stewing hens also are at bargain counter prices this week.

Not in many years, according to Chicago grocers, has the demand for eggs been so brisk as in the last few weeks. Egg prices are extremely low in comparison with other protein foods and with the prices charged for eggs in September and early October. Finest fresh eggs are to be had at 30 to 39 cents a dozen, depending upon size and grade, while good storage eggs are selling at 20 to 25 cents a dozen.

Vegetable Prices Low.

California's Valencia oranges also are coming to market in goodly numbers and with a higher juice content than those sold a month ago. Some of the first seedless grapefruit are on the markets, while string beans from the gulf states, head lettuce, sweet potatoes, table grapes and cranberries are selling at prices as low or lower than at this season last year.

A large crop of nuts arriving in recent weeks has caused a drop in price of nut meats as well as nuts in the shell. Few, and those of minor consequence in the food budget, foods have been increased in price in the last week, canned milk and bacon being the principal exceptions.

Bishop Hill, 208 Persons, Has 60 Who Attended Fair

Bishop Hill, Ill., Nov. 16. — [Special.]—This town with 208 residents sent 60 persons to Chicago during the World's Fair last summer. Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President, was recovering from a cold today at her home at Sagamore Hill. Members of the family said she had had a cold for the last few days, but was up and around the house and not seriously ill.

"May I have your recipe for Hard Sauce"

A famous restaurant man attributes much of his reputation for wonderful meals to the use of plenty of butter . . . good butter. Holidays are just ahead . . . maybe you'd like to try this hard sauce . . . it has been much complimented.

Delicious on Steamed Puddings, Plum Pudding, Mince Pie, Cobblers, Etc.

¼ cup Borden's butter
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon molasses
½ teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and beat until very light. Add other ingredients and beat again. Place in ice box until ready to serve. Hard Sauce is improved by slightly freezing in the tray of an electric refrigerator.

SERVE JUICY SEA FISH TONIGHT

You don't have to live by the sea now to serve a real shore dinner in your inland home. Just ask your fish dealer for 40-Fathom Fish which fairly flies from deep ocean to your dealer, teeming with that fresh caught flavor of the sea.

40-Fathom Fish is the cream of the catch—boned and free from heads, tails, and all waste—the flaky, white tenderloin of the sea—tender and juicy with the delectable flavor of deep ocean—ready for the fire without even washing—easy to cook as bacon.

Neither you nor your dealer can tell how good a piece of fish is going to taste when you buy it. Therefore, ask for 40-Fathom Fish which you know has that luscious fresh caught flavor. But unless the fish comes to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name and picture of Old 40-Fathom on the wrapper, it is not 40-Fathom Fish. Don't buy it

"Now My Family Prefers These 10-Minute Desserts to All Others!"
—Says Mrs. F. Arnold

"MY family would rather have one of these desserts I make with Kosto, than any of the ones I used to spend hours over!" says Mrs. F. Arnold, 4466 Wilson Ave. "I can make dozens of them—and they only take me ten or fifteen minutes. For an ice-box cake, for instance, I just alternate layers of chocolate Kosto with layers of vanilla wafers. My family loves it, just as they love any Kosto pudding or pie."

Learn Mrs. Arnold's easy method yourself! Just add a package of chocolate or vanillin Kosto to a pint of milk (use water with lemon Kosto). Cook as directed—and in ten minutes your pie-filling or pudding is done. It's velvety—lumpless—just the right texture. It has a rich, full flavor famous chefs could not beat. Just add Kosto to your favorite combinations of fruits, nuts or cake, and you can make an infinite variety of dainty desserts—a new creation for every day, almost!

Just ask your grocer for Kosto—only 10c for a generous big package, in any of the three flavors—chocolate, lemon and vanillin.

See and hear Mrs. Chitwood demonstrate Kosto at Guyon's today, and Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week at the Aragon

SAVOY
PINEAPPLE
It's the best in years and it's VACUUM SEALED!

There is as big a difference between Savoy Hawaiian Pineapple—vacuum sealed—and ordinary Pineapple as between a county fair and the Century of Progress. Savoy Pineapple is more than the choicest, finest fruit from the sun-drenched islands. Vacuum sealing enables the use of the ripest Pineapple, preserves it in its natural, fresh state. There isn't a trace of the "cooked" taste or odor found in ordinary canned Pineapple. That is because flavor-robbing steam never comes in contact with Savoy Hawaiian Pineapple. Try a can. When you open it, you'll be surprised at its fresh, inviting appearance. When you taste it you'll be even more surprised—pleasantly!

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaperman, is her friend and counselor. Bun agrees to help James B. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, find his young wife, Helène. He wants no publicity. He had met Helène after the war in Bucharest. He had installed her family, the Bobianoffs, in a villa on the Riviera at Grasse. Her brother, Ferenz, he had brought to America. No trace can be found of Helène and her parents since the last time she returned to visit them. Bun's suspicions are aroused by Finlay's niece, Mrs. Craymer. A recent newspaper picture, showing Helène standing with a tall woman in a group at Biarritz is the only clue Bun has to go on. That same night Finlay is murdered. The money Finlay had given Bun as advance payment is stolen from her apartment. Bun meets Finlay's son Robert at Cannes. She is attracted to him, but believes he's in love with Helène. She continues the quest with him. The tall woman with Helène in the group picture is identified as the Countess Vernadon, who has a villa in Grasse. Bun and Robert call on her at her dreary villa. She denies knowing Helène. As they are leaving they see a woman fall from a window. They send a doctor out from the town. Next day Mrs. Craymer, who had arrived in Cannes, is found dead. Fred Crawford joins Bun. Robert leaves for Bucharest after receiving a note he thinks is from Helène. Bun finds out that the young woman who fell from the window of the villa of Countess Vernadon is Helène, who had been held there captive. Bun gets to see her, through the doctor, just before she dies. Bun and Crawford fly to Bucharest where they are met by Fanchon of the Paris police. Bun and Crawford, with Fanchon and his aides, attend a masked ball that night given by Countess Vernadon in her Bucharest palace.

INSTALLMENT XLI.

A TIMELY RESCUE.

The countess' head lifted arrogantly. "Am I here to solve riddles?"

"There are no riddles, Madame Bobianoff." Bun replied.

The man moved forward stealthily. Bun's hand crept towards the pistol under the portfolio, then stopped. She could see two pistols already leveled on him from either side of the door. She knew she was no longer in danger.

"What does Madame Bobianoff signify?" the countess asked.

"The name you are known under whenever it suits your criminal purposes."

For a bare second there was an alertness in the countess' eyes that was new, but this quickly disappeared as she laid a restraining hand on the arm of the man beside her. She laughed lightly. "It sounds interesting—even intriguing. Would you mind removing your mask so that I can see the face of the person who apparently knows such amusing things about me?"

Bun tore off the mask and let it fall to the floor.

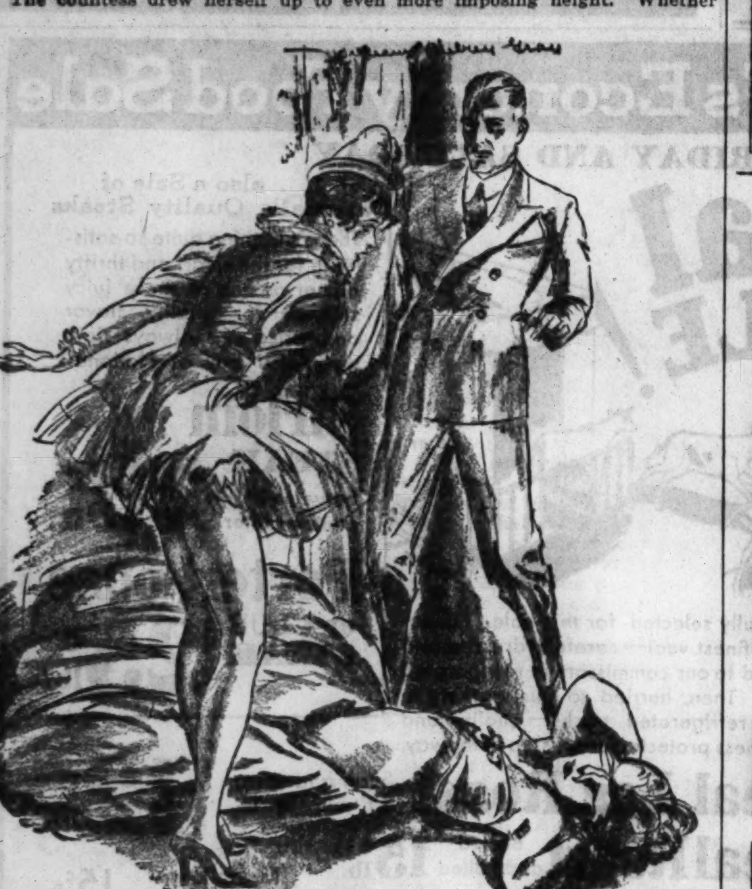
The countess showed mild surprise. "If I am not very much mistaken you are the person who came to my villa once with an American."

"You are not mistaken. Robert Finlay and I went there in our search for Helène Finlay."

"Yes—I remember perfectly now. I do so hope you have found her by this."

"I did—at the Villa des Roses—where she died while I was with her. But not before she had told me everything."

The countess drew herself up to even more imposing height. Whether she had yet decided to discard her attempt at carrying off the situation, Bun was not quite sure. Her next words, however, showed that she had.



The countess fell across her path and lay rigid on the floor.

"Very well, Miss O'Reilly, what do you hope to gain by forcing yourself into my house and accusing me of futile lies that you can never prove?"

"I hope for nothing. I demand Robert Finlay and the will you made Helène sign before her death."

"But—how ridiculous!"

"You are far from stupid. And I hope I am. Are we not wasting valuable time?"

The countess smiled easily; there was even a slight return of the graciousness she had shown at their first meeting. "Perhaps we are." She turned to the man beside her. "Will you tell Agid to prepare a room for Miss O'Reilly. Evidently she intends to remain here with us."

"I do not intend to leave—that is true—unless Robert Finlay leaves this house with me."

The countess was still superbly calm. "Don't you realize you have put yourself in our power—just as that stupid Finlay did?"

Bun could not keep back an exclamation of joy. "Then you admit he is here!"

"Why not!" She moved back slightly with the first show of impatience. "Ferenz—do whatever you think necessary. I must return to my guests."

Bun saw the man lean forward as if ready to spring at her. A cry from the countess made the man turn to face Fanchon, Crawford, and the four assistants.

Fanchon was the first to break the tense silence. He bowed ceremoniously before the countess. "Madame la Comtesse—my compliments. I have looked forward to meeting you under such circumstances for several years. Thanks to Miss O'Reilly, my wishes have become a fait accompli. We are all here for the purpose of finding Monsieur Finlay. Will you be good enough to have him brought here at once?"

After her first cry of amazement, the countess' assurance was completely restored. Only a slight gesture showed that she was under a strain. She looked straight at Fanchon. Their eyes met and dwelt in a gaze that did not waver for an instant. Finally, she inclined her head slightly towards the man beside her. He seemed to understand the gesture and crossed the room to a bell cord and pulled it. Again a short silence, broken at last by a knock on the door. The footman who had shown Bun to the room entered.

The countess spoke to him. "Agid—bring the American here."

"Yes, Madame la Comtesse."

"Go with him." Fanchon's command was quickly followed by two men.

Bun's glance had not left the countess for a moment. When the attention of the others had momentarily shifted to the door, she had seen her drop her left hand and raise it to her lips. The gesture might have passed unnoticed except that immediately afterward the countess' expression changed. She was as calm and assured as before, only now there was a strange light in her eyes—a glow of something like satisfaction, even joy. Then, slowly, her glance seemed to concentrate upon something across the room. Bun shot a quick look round to see what was holding her attention. She could make out nothing. Then, back to the countess, she saw the weird expression had deepened. It was now a fixed, glassy stare. She was so held by the sinister change that she was only vaguely aware of the door being opened and Robert Finlay standing in it. And when she started towards him with a cry of profound joy, the countess fell across her path and lay rigid on the floor.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning—which, in Bucharest, as in many cities that are just over the border from the near east, is only the height of the evening. Almost all the tables in the hotel restaurant were filled. Fanchon had succeeded in finding a place far enough removed from the jazz band for them to talk quietly. Bun was seated at his right, Robert Finlay at his left, and Crawford opposite. Fanchon, though his keen little eyes rested now and then on the food, did not show any special inclination to eat. He was much more intent upon the faces about him. For more than two hours he had been asking questions and receiving answers. At last he seemed to have reached a point at which thought instead of words was more important.

"It is a crime to keep Miss O'Reilly up longer," he said. "But what can we do?"

"Absolutely nothing," Bun answered. "If I went to my room I'd not go to bed. I'd simply sit there and stare—not at a blank wall but at one covered with hideous pink roses. Besides—if we are all flying back to Paris tomorrow, this is our best chance to find out where we are."

Fanchon nodded. "While everything is fresh in our minds. You are right, mademoiselle. After tomorrow—all this will be a thing of the past."

"Hardly that." Bun shook her head. "There is too much future mixed up with this past."

Good Morning!

"The Emperor Jones" deserves warm approbation for several reasons. It is unique. It is ambitious. It brings the great Negro actor Paul Robeson before the public at a price most can afford. And from a production standpoint it is excellent.

But it seems to me the picture fails to capture the suspense of the Eugene O'Neill play—which I have not seen but only heard about. At least I was disappointed.

The reason for dissatisfaction lies in the fact that, in the first part of the picture the leading character is shown as too shrewd, carefree and intelligent a person to make his fear-ridden end quite credible.

The action starts down south, where Brutus Jones, handsome love-'em-and-leave-'em buck Negro, is preparing to enter a career as Pullman porter.

The Baptist church congregation speeds him on his way with emotional prayer and song and Dolly, the adoring black girl with whom he has been living, sheds tears as she bids him good-by, for well she knows the wiles of the sirens on Lennox avenue and doubly well she knows her two-timing Brutus . . .

Brutus progresses in knowledge under the tutelage of his pal, Jeff, a Pullman porter of long standing. The upshot is that he takes Jeff's girl, kills Jeff over a game of dice and is sentenced to a chain gang from which he escapes after slaying a guard.

He finally lands on a tropical island, populated by ignorant blacks whose ruler he soon becomes. It is at this point, I believe, that the original play starts.

"The Emperor Jones," as he designates himself, lives in splendor. He plays on the ignorance of his subjects, beats and outwits them at every turn, and grows rich through excessive taxation. He knows that sometime they will turn on him and has bought a ship to escape in that he keeps anchored off shore. In the jungle through which he must pass to reach the shore he has cached supplies in various places. He figures that three years on the island will be about his limit.

He's been too optimistic. Insurrection rises suddenly and before he had anticipated. "Emperor Jones" finds himself fleeing through the fearsome jungle in the dead of night, pursued by the sound of the beat, beat, beat of tomtoms, confronted by apparitions of the men he has murdered, and, reverting back to type, he crumbles and shrieks and prays and sobs in terror. His stumbling flight leads him in a circle—directly into the camp of his silent, waiting enemies. And so he meets his death . . .

I understand that Jones, as conceived by O'Neill and portrayed by Charles Gilpin who created the stage rôle in which he was followed by Paul Robeson, had none of the screen hero's magnificence and was from the start an ignorant superstitious fellow. Such he should have been in the movie to make it ring true.

The first half of the picture—and an interesting and colorful half it is—is given over to the life of Brutus in the United States. His island existence is treated sketchily and with not enough build up toward the finale.

A privilege, however, to have seen Mr. Robeson. He is a great, natural actor.

See you tomorrow!

Irregularities Not Always Sign of Ill Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There are times when mothers find even a well regulated child slipping out of his routine of eating and sleeping. This is not necessarily a cause for worry or even disquiet. Children aren't machines and even if they're perfectly well they won't always need the same amount of food and sleep—and they may not always be growing at the same rate of speed. Machines have their variations—any locomotive engineer or driver of an automobile will tell you that—why not our small human beings who are more subtle, more complicated, and always growing, growing?

Now this doesn't mean in the least that you ought to be indifferent to variations in eating and sleeping. When a child eats much less than usual over a period of time you will cast about for a reason—and the same holds true of sleep.

Now, one of the troubles that parents frequently complain of in regard to sleep is the matter of children's staying awake for a long time after they go to bed. Sometimes this is unaccountable and we just have to wait until a child passes through this state. But it is well to look over possible causes and eliminate them. An hour and a half of lying awake for instance, might be traced to one or more of the following causes:

The child may be overtired from not having had a nap or enough sleep the night before.

He may, instead of being overtired, not need so much sleep and a later bed hour might find him ready to drop off easily.

He may have had too little supper or too early a one. Hunger may keep children awake or make them wake up too early.

He may play too hard just before bedtime.

These are a few possible reasons for prolonged wakefulness. It might be of interest to mothers to know that the majority of young children do not drop off to sleep immediately—in fact that the majority take about twenty minutes to relax enough to sleep.

Chicago Girls to Travel East to Grid Games

the Ernest S. Ballards' hospitable home for eggnogg.

The only thing that could spoil the affair would be bad weather, but it is quite possible that the ground will be softer by the end of the month and that everything can take place as scheduled. Clark Lawrence is the M. F. H. of the hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Graeme Stewart of Commonwealth avenue are being congratulated upon the birth of their first child, a daughter, at the Passavant hospital on Nov. 9. The baby has been named Barbara Wieland Stewart. Mrs. Stewart is the former Mildred Wieland, a daughter of the Robert A. Wielands of Lake Shore drive.

The John Portwood Blairs have returned to Chicago to make their residence, at least temporarily. They have found a small apartment at 18 East Elm street. Mr. Blair, who is the son of Mrs. Blake Blair of the Pearson, has been in business in San Francisco for the last several years, but now the company with which he is associated is opening brach offices in Chicago and New York so there is a good chance of his coming east for good. The senior Mrs. Blair has just returned from a delightful motor trip to Asheville, N. C.

An engagement of interest being announced today is that of Miss Priscilla Carver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knowlton Carver of Highland Park, to Henry Edmondson Payne Jr., son of Mrs. Henry E. Payne of Charleston, W. Va.

Miss Carver, who is prominent in golfing circles, won the women's western junior championship in 1930. She is a graduate of Kemper Hall at Kenosha and attended Mount Holyoke college for two years. Mr. Payne attended the Woodberry Forest school and the University of Virginia. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. No date for the wedding has been set.

Open Series of Kinsolving Musicals.

Listening to music in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone and then lunching downstairs in the main dining room was the program of many socialites yesterday when the first Kinsolving musical morning of the season was given. As always, it was a charming musical, but there were many in the audience who wished that a bit of the outside cold air might have penetrated to the ballroom, for the air inside was stuffy and heavily laden with perfume. The ventilating system had been shut off, we were told by the hotel, and although that undoubtedly improved the acoustical property of the room it certainly did not improve the atmospheric condition.

Some of the many who listened to Mischa Levitski in two groups of piano numbers and to Mario Chamlee, tenor, in two groups of songs were Mrs. John C. Pitcher and her sister, Miss Louisa Burrows; Mrs. John G. Shedd and her daughter, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed; Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Robert Fauntleroy, Mrs. Gabriel F. Slaughter, Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Otho F. Ball, not long at home from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Gerald V. Wellesley, in London; Mrs. Darrow B. Fulton, Mrs. Jack Peabody, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham and her niece, Miss Edna Kellogg; Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, Mrs. George T. Leach, Mrs. J. Waller Marshall, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger and her daughter, Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith; Mrs. Thomas Fisher, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and her guest, Miss Sally Kirby of South Bend; Mrs. Orville Thompson, Mrs. H. Douglas Jr., Mrs. James B. Herrick, Mrs. John F. L. Curtis, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Carleton M. Vail, and Mrs. Henry H. Windsor Jr.

Settlement Group Will Plan for Ball.

Because more than 5,000 persons, representative of almost every nationality, cross the threshold of the Northwestern University settlement each week, the settlement board believes it appropriate to call the benefit party it is to have the evening of Dec. 2 in the gold room of the Congress hotel an international ball.

At a luncheon meeting this noon at Mandel's tearoom further details will be discussed. Attending this social and business meeting will be, among others, Donald Wells, treasurer for the ball; Mrs. Arthur M. Raymond, Harold Barnes, Mrs. Frank M. Gordon, Mrs. Ernst von Ammon, Mrs. Herman Friested, and D. R. Pierson.

It was in the Northwestern settlement that infant welfare work was started. Now it is interesting to know that the settlement is responsible for providing more than 20,000 sandwiches for needy school children each month.

There is to be a "full house" this evening in the little theater of the Chicago Woman's club when Anita Willetts Burnham, author of that fascinating travel tale, "Around the World on a Penny," takes her friends on a 'round the world tour, starting at 8:15 o'clock. The lecture is sponsored by the club's infant welfare committee for the support of its work. Mrs. Lyle Harper is in charge of the arrangements.

For the first time in this country Ian Hay's romantic comedy, "Mediterranean Madness," is being produced tonight at the Country Club of Evanston. William Ziegler Nourse is directing the performance.

The faculty at Ferry hall has invited parents of the students and other friends of the school to a musical and reception at 8:15 this evening at the school. The artists will be Frederika Ireland, Ruth Breytspraak, Pauline Manchester, and Hans Hess.

There is to be a junior party at the South Shore Country club tonight, a cabaret party, with the junior members furnishing the talent.

Tomorrow to Be Big Day in City's Toyland

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Chicago's Toyland, more thrilling than ever, will have its grand opening for the Christmas season tomorrow, a full two weeks early. The advancement of the opening date has been undertaken by the post-World's Fair activities committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce in an effort to stimulate early Christmas shopping.

Officially the latest fashions in Santa Claus' pack will be out on parade in business districts throughout the city tomorrow. A visit to the State street department stores yesterday disclosed great activity, colorful holiday decorations being nailed into place, and the toys unpacked by enthusiastic clerks. Toy manufacturers have made every effort to please the parents as well as the children by making a wide variety of toys of the educational type so much in vogue at present.

But it was a purely frivolous toy which rode into the stores on a popularity wave resulting from a motion picture hit that captured the hearts of the feminine clerks in two of the stores. The three little pigs have made their debut in toyland. There's the one who built his house of bricks, wearing a pair of red overalls, as well as the pigs who built theirs of straw and wood.

"We're going to have to page the big, bad wolf," one clerk remarked.

Prices appear to be reasonable. A motion picture machine, electrically lighted, which shows animated cartoons, may be bought for $2.98, with the films at 15 cents each. A lumber set with parts of trains cut ready to put together sells at 98 cents, while trains of light wood sell for 50 cents.

New improvements in mechanical toys have been added this year. Batteries have been installed in every kind of toy that can use an electric light.

Burnt wood etching, which was popular in the early 1900's, has come back. Now, however, electricity is used to heat the etching point.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A QUESTION OF FORGERY.

"Not so long ago I was called in on a case to a part of the country with which I was not familiar," said Prof. Fordney addressing a group of detectives. "It concerned the possible forgery of a document.

"I first questioned one William Hollock, living on a farm in an isolated district, who stated that while he had never gone to school he had learned just enough to write his name. Further interrogation brought the reply to my question that he thought there were twenty-four letters in the alphabet.

"As the validity of the document hung largely on the apparent insertion of a single mark in it, I then inquired his part in its execution and witnessing.

"'That there ampersand was in the paper all right when I signed it,' he replied.

"How was it that you were called to witness the paper? You rarely leave your farm, I understand, and have only been to Bellsville, on your own admission, twice in the last six years.

"'Well,' was the drawled reply, 'Harry Davis was a dern good friend of mine and when he sent me word he would kind a like to have me sign that there paper, I come into Bellsville.'

"On horseback?" I asked.

"'Yeah . . . how'd I git there if I hadn't?'

"This case, gentlemen," continued Fordney, "illustrates the fact that a successful detective need not be a great psychologist but that he must possess common knowledge, common sense, and the ability to recognize when a witness traps himself by his own admission."

HOW DID FORDNEY DISCOVER HOLLOCK'S TESTIMONY WAS UNRELIABLE—TO SAY THE LEAST?

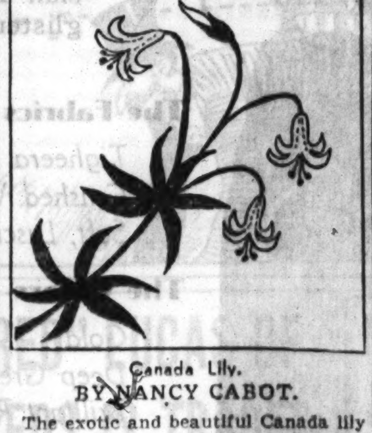
Exotic Canadian Lily Furnishes Coverlet Design



Canada Lily.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The exotic and beautiful Canada lily which blooms so profusely in all North America from early June until late August, inspired this design, which is as unusual as it is decorative. Soft yellows and deep rich orange are the most successful colors in which to make a quilt in this pattern.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

New Fashions in Bridal Hats Win Approval

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Trot around and see the newest bonnets, of net, tulle or chiffon for the mid-winter bride. . . they are worth the most careful inspection for they are fetching affairs that can be duplicated in colors for bridesmaids. Smart gals who like something different will be ordering them in black for decorative evening wear.

The bonnets are distinctive scraps . . . one made entirely of shirred net, another of fine misty tulle shaped into a band of tiny seed pearls, another fitted to the head and banded with soft chiffon velvet and still another tucked and tailored with a perky little net bow perched on the tip top.

There is a new halo veil, made with a braided coronet of either bridal satin or velvet. The flattering finger tip tulle veil is cut in a huge circle. And all these new caps are likewise fitted with gossamer veiling in any length you may desire. A snappy short creation is made with a fitted tulle head hat effect in the shape of the pill box hat, tiny pearls outline the stand-up brim, and a swirling circular veil that reaches the shoulders completes the devastating charm of this airy concoction.

If you are weary of white bridal veils you can find the most delectable pale pink affairs, a soft shell pink faded to almost white, but quite the most flattering color you can wear . . . and bridesmaids hats of the same general scheme can be furnished or ordered in every pastel color.

The old fashioned funny looking breakfast caps have vanished, thanks to some protesting genius who designed these charming new things. . . these 1933 versions are blocked and fitted and fashioned just like your best French street hat and they look it.

And knowing buyers urge you almost prayerfully to shop and buy heirloom bridal veils now. . . lovely, alluring real lace bridal veils with prices lower than they have been for years and years.

Cellist Plays Solo Number of Symphony

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Daniel Saidenberg laid off from being the principal cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra long enough to be its soloist last night. He played the Tschaikowsky work known as "Variations on a Rococo Theme," and Mr. Stock matched it by reviving Bruckner's Ninth symphony, the one left unfinished at the composer's death. Both are rather admirable specimens of the music of a former era.

Both interpretations were more than admirable. Mr. Saidenberg several times stood at the verge of accomplishing a practically impossible feat, that of making the grave voiced cello an instrument of brilliant, virtuoso display. His tone was a matter of greatly suave beauty, he performed deftly, rapidly, and accurately, and Tschaikowsky's pretty tunefulness responded to his ministrations as though in the presence of a master of interpretation, which Mr. Saidenberg is.

The Kinsolving Musical Mornings, a series of five concerts given annually about this time of year on Thursday mornings, got away to the best sort of a start yesterday with a joint recital by Mario Chamlee, tenor, and Mischa Levitzki, pianist, in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel.

Never has Mr. Chamlee sung so well in this city. To the fine voice and musicianly instinct that has always been his, he added a propulsive vigor and easy poise that put him in the first rank of interpretive singers. A group drawn from Schumann's "Dichterliebe" and another group of Spanish, French, and American songs were followed by encores almost numerous enough to put him in the class of a popular violinist.

Mr. Levitzki was quite as popular, and with good reason. He is a notable specialist in producing attractive tone from the piano, and his clean, warm, but detached and unsentimentalized manner applied itself with attractive results to a Chopin group, as well as to another by Ravel, Paganini-Liszt and himself. Incidentally his own Valse is worth hearing more than once. He, too, played many extra numbers.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt formally opened the social season in Washington tonight, with the dinner for the cabinet, followed by a musical.

Several hundred guests were asked for 10 o'clock to hear the program of music in the East room.

Cinema Colony Keeps in Trim Despite Curves

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—I'm not trying to run counter to the curve movement for which Mae West stands, and which bears the endorsement of our best medical authorities—But

I see little sign of coöperation in the cinema colony. Every studio outfit has its physical trainers and its gym where girls that you and I might think slim enough for any use, are put through exercises to plane them down still further to fit the screen pattern. It's pretty authoritatively stated that to step in front of the camera ten per cent underweight is necessary, what with the camera's well known effect of making an ounce look like a pound.

Jim Davies, Paramount's ace silhouette remodeler, gives these figures as the Perfect Screen Girl measurements:

Height	*5 feet 2¼ inches
Bust	34 inches
Waist	24 inches
Hips	34-35 inches
Thigh	19 inches
Ankle	7½ inches
Weight	116 pounds

*In stocking feet.

The perfect male figure, in case you girls are interested, is around 6 or 6 feet 1; 44 chest; 32 wait; 36 hips, and weight, 186-190.

A thirty-eight hip measurement is considered big and due for a comedown on women's figures. Davies has put hundreds through reducing programs, including Mae West, who had to lose off waist, hips, and back. For three months Mae exercised every day, getting her weight down to 118. A star pupil, Davies appoints Mae, not hard to reduce because she neither drinks or smokes. Smokers, he warns, are not exercise enthusiasts because of the breath shortness that characterizes them. Because of this breath trouble, Davies says, they tire easily on the mat.

Light exercise is recommended for women by Mr. Davies. Men and women, he claims, should not be put on a similar exercise program because of the muscle development women must avoid, especially women in pictures. Tomorrow I shall give you Davie's favorite exercises for women.

THIRD PERIOD.

Scoring—None.

Penalties—Conacher, Thompson, Howe.

Goalkeepers' stops—Gardiner, 24; Beveridge, 20.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks defeated the Ottawa Senators here tonight in a hard fought National Hockey league game, 2-1.

Dark haired Paul Thompson put the Hawks ahead less than a minute after Referee Mike Rodden dropped the puck between the opposing centers' sticks to start proceedings. Before the period was over Jerry Shannon, former Niagara Falls amateur, tied it up with another solo goal. Art Coulter flashed the red light for the odd goal early in the second period after a scramble behind the Senator nets.

On territorial play, the Senators had a wide advantage during the evening, but Tommy Gorman presented an air tight defense and rarely were Ottawa wingmen in position for a solid drive at Chuck Gardiner.

Big Lionel Conacher was the key man on the Hawk defense.

The game was the first defeat for the Senators this season but left them tied for first place in the Canadian section of the league. The speeding Hawks have been close to the top of the American section since the race opened.

Hawks Score Early.

It took Paul Thompson only 46 seconds to put Chicago ahead. The left wingman went down center but his shot hit Albert Leduc on the leg. Recovering the puck, Thompson let one fly from close in and Beveridge never saw it.

It was Jerry Shannon's first goal in pro company that tied it up seven minutes later. The former Niagara Falls amateur broke up a Chicago attack in mid-ice, stepped through the Hawk first rank and then around Conacher to score with a flip shot over Gardiner's shoulder.

The Hawks turned on the speed and Billie Beveridge was called to make four or five grandstand stops to keep them off the scoring list. Conacher engineered several plays that failed at producing goals only because the pudgy goalie was on his game.

Abel Sent Off.

Taffy Abel went to the cooler for holding Syd Howe. The Roche brothers and Howe rained shots at Gardiner. There was no scoring while the big defense man was off but there were plenty of close-calls.

Abel was no more than on the ice until Mush March went off for tripping Bill Touhey when the Senator wingman had only Gardiner to beat. But Cooney Weiland joined him seconds later for tripping Lolo Couture and the advantage was short-lived. With both teams a man short, the boys took few chances, shooting from the blue line and ragging the puck until the period ended.

Hawks Forge Ahead.

Weiland and March had only seconds to serve in the second period and neither goal was in danger until they returned. Art Coulter put the Hawks ahead at the 1:35 mark. There was a scramble behind the Senator goal and Coulter emerged with the puck. He side-stepped Bowman and beat Beveridge with a low shot to the cage.

The Hawks started playing a safer game with the goal advantage and the Senators went to work. George Boucher's dynamite line of the Roche brothers and Syd Howe buzzed about Gardiner's nets like bees but could not flash the red light.

The Senator line of Cook, Saunders and Shannon went to work and had Gardiner jumping all over the place to shut them out. Paul Thompson went to the cooler for tripping Shannon and the Hawks kept lifting the puck down the ice in desperation. Cooney Weiland over shot the nets on a rush. Finnigan missed an easy one just as Thompson returned.

Gottselig Misses a Chance.

Both teams stepped out to start the final period, Johnny Gottselig having a grand chance when he shot wide inside the Ottawa defense. Art Coulter had to retire after being bounced around by Weiland's high stick.

Lionel Conacher drew a penalty for high sticking Syd Howe and the Senators went to work. Finnegan missed a great chance from close in and the Hawks shot the puck down the ice to save.

ROSS RISKS CHAMPIONSHIP AGAINST FULLER TONIGHT

JUNIOR WELTER RULER BATTLES HARD PUNCHER

$20,000 Gate Likely at Stadium.

Tonight's Card

Barney Ross vs. Sammy Fuller [10].
Sammy [Kid] Slaughter vs. Kid Leonard [8].
Davey Day vs. Paul Dazzo [6].
Joe [Young] Walker vs. Johnny Phagan [6].
Leo Rodak vs. Frankie Minera [6].
Frankie Segilio vs. Danny Neenan [6].

BY FRENCH LANE.

After tonight the world will have one less problem to worry about. It can cross off its list the question as to whether Barney Ross of our Ghetto is a genuine junior welterweight champion and whether he can whip his challenger, Sammy Fuller of Boston.

The outcome may not have much to do with straightening out the affairs of the dollar except for the fact that some 20,000 of those fast shrinking pieces will be dropped into the counting room at the Chicago Stadium by about 12,000 persons who regard this scrap as one of the big issues of the day.

The best criterion of the evenness of the issue comes in the way people are willing to speculate on how it will end.

Ross Choice at 1 to 3.

Last night Ross was the odds-on favorite at 1 to 3. So if this exchange of cracks on the nose and chin were a football game one could expect to see a score of about 21 to 0.

If it were a baseball game the count should be about 9 to 3, and if it were a horse race—well, the odds-on favorite probably would be left at the post.

Fuller, a rugged, hard punching Italian kid from Boston, will have a weight advantage of about 2 pounds. He will scale about 138 at 2 o'clock this afternoon and Ross 2 pounds less. The stipulated weight is 140 pounds. So there can be no argument as to weights.

The only argument in store must be settled in the ring, and that is perhaps the reason so many people want to see the struggle. Then again it is the first major boxing show of the winter in Chicago, which will serve as sort of a homecoming for the popular Ross. He will be making his first start before the home folks since he convinced everybody in New York last September that he is master of all the fighters in the world who do not weigh more than 140 pounds.

Fuller a Body Puncher.

The only thing that seems to be in Fuller's favor is that he is an able body puncher. Ross, while fighting his way to the top, whipped another fierce body puncher in Tony Canzoneri. He not only shellacked Tony once, but did it on two occasions.

Fuller's punches also carry some power. He has 18 knockouts to his credit, while Ross has put only 13 of his foes away for the full count.

But to knock out a fellow a punch must be landed, and the Ross followers did not consider it very likely that Fuller might maul their idol into the rosin dust. Anybody who thought Fuller might win by a knockout could get 10 and 15 to 1 for his money. Such upsets do happen, but not very often.

The Ross backers were banking on Barney to knock out Fuller. They were willing to bet even money that such a thing happens. That's also a pretty liberal offer for even a free spender to make on a battle that goes only 10 rounds.

Challenger Works Harder.

Ross could lose this scrap and not be disgraced nor even robbed of his money making power. His biggest asset is the world's lightweight title, which will not be at stake tonight because both battlers will crawl through the ropes weighing more than the lightweight limit of 135 pounds.

As they tapered off in their training yesterday both boys looked to be as sharp as a razor's edge. Fuller put in about three times as many training licks as the champion, which caused some of the Ross backers to wonder if he was taking this mêlée with Fuller seriously enough. But they were not worked into a frenzy that would cause them to toss around in bed and lose any sleep.

Yes, There'll Be Other Bouts.

Ross' enormous popularity has completely smothered out the advance talk on most of the other bouts. The managers of the boys who battle in the preliminaries and the semi-windup have been shouting to the housetops trying to command a willing ear.

Just about the time they started to extol the virtues of such mighty men as Sammy Slaughter, Kid Leonard, Davey Day, Paul Dazzo, and the others the listening ear would turn to the starboard side and a voice would pipe out, "What do you want to bet that Ross doesn't win?"

5,000 Watch First Amateur Hockey Game

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

If personal fervor and continuous expenditure of energy mean anything, the budding young Chicago Amateur Hockey association, which made its debut before a gathering of 5,000 at the Coliseum last night, should enjoy considerable success ere its first season ends in April.

Two groups of earnest young men called the Baby Ruths and the Blue Ribbons gave rise to this suspicion by playing 60 minutes of spirited hockey before the Baby Ruths finally put themselves in first place among the association's Big Four by winning, 6 to 2. At times the young men became so eager in their endeavors that the contest resembled an old fashioned game of shinny, but on several occasions both teams proved themselves very adept.

The C. A. H. A. opening marked the return to Chicago of amateur hockey, none of this type having been seen hereabouts to any extent in seven years.

The 5,000 fans who came out for the opener apparently craved action, and were satisfied. Seventeen penalties were called, nine of them in the first period. Furthermore, both of the gate tenders got a thorough night's workout, Goalie Poulin of the victors being forced to make 24 stops in the final session. Buzz Harris, the Blue Ribbon guardian, reduced the Baby Ruths' total with some incredible stops.

LIFTING CENTER TO BLOCK KICK IS RULED O. K.

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Oregon State can go right ahead, as far as the rules are concerned, and heave its 6 foot 6 inch center, Clyde Devine, right up into the air to block any field goal or point after touchdown tries Fordham may make in their intersectional game at the Polo grounds Saturday.

Bill Langford, secretary of the national rules committee, settled that today as the experts about town scratched their heads and examined pictures of the play made in the Oregon game, only contest the Beavers have lost.

According to Coach Lon Stiner two big tackles each take a leg on Devine just as the opposition starts a place kick play and hoist him into the air. He has blocked one kick in three tries, one got by him, and an end blocked the other while he was up there waiting.

Billy Arnold, Race Driver, Is Injured While Motoring

Taft, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Billy Arnold of Los Angeles, winner of the Indianapolis automobile race in 1930, suffered a slight concussion of the brain and several fractured ribs last night when his motor car turned over on a highway near here as he headed for a ditch to avoid a collision. His condition was not considered serious.

Bucky Jones Wins Decision Over Joe Firpo in 8 Rounds

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Bucky Jones, 146½, Philadelphia, won an eight round decision over Young Joe Firpo, 144, Pennsgrove, N. J., in the windup bout of a boxing show tonight. The victory was Jones' 51st consecutive triumph.

Maroons Tie Americans in 2 to 2 Battle

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The New York Americans fought to a 2 to 2 draw with the Montreal Maroons in a National Hockey league game tonight.

The Americans came from behind late in the third period to tie, Patterson's equalizer coming 17 minutes and 40 seconds after the period opened. Jackson scored the first American goal in the second period. Hooley Smith and Baldy Northcott counted for the Maroons.

The result left the Maroons with a victory, a defeat and a tie for their first three games and the Americans with two ties and a defeat in the same number of starts. Lineup:

RANGERS' FIRST VICTORY

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)The New York Rangers, champions of the Hockey world, won their first game of the National Hockey league season tonight by defeating the Detroit Red Wings, 2 to 1.

Encouraged, perhaps, by the official presentation of the Stanley cup, the Rangers scored twice in the first period, aided to a considerable extent by Detroit penalties, and held the margin through two more strenuous sessions. The Cook brothers, Bill, Bun, accounted for the Ranger tallies, while Larry Aurie scored for Detroit in the third period. Each team had one goal disallowed.

The Stanley cup, emblem of the world's championship which the Rangers won last spring, was officially presented to the club by Frank Calder, league president, between the first and second periods.

"RED" LUCAS OF REDS IS TRADED TO PITTSBURGH

Four Players Shift Teams in Big Ball Deal.

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 17 [Friday].—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds early today announced the trade of "Red" Lucas, veteran pitcher, and Walter Roettger, outfielder, to Pittsburgh for Tony Piet, second baseman, and Adam Comorosky, veteran outfielder.

Larry MacPhail, who is soon expected to be named president of the Cincinnati club, declined to say whether any money was involved.

Piet batted .324 last year. He is 25 years old. In 1932 he was second in stolen bases with 19.

Comorosky played regularly in 1931, when he batted .313, but has not been a regular since. He is 28 years old.

Lucas, who won 13 games last season, is 33 years old. Roettger, a heavy hitter, is expected to be used as a pinch hitter by the Pirates.

Spencer for Grantham.

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The New York Giants announced today that Manager Bill Terry had traded Glenn Spencer, right handed pitcher, to Cincinnati for George Grantham, veteran infielder. No cash was involved.

Spencer came to the Giants from Pittsburgh last year in the deal that sent Fred Lindstrom to the Pirates. He was used mainly as a relief man. Grantham broke in with the Chicago Cubs in 1922, but played his best ball with the Pirates from 1925 to 1931. He was sold to the Reds in 1932. Last season he hit only .204.

TRADE GRUBE FOR SHEA

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Mervyn John Shea, a brilliant catcher with a cramped flair for hitting, and Outfielder Bernard Uhalt will be with the White Sox, come the 1934 season. The deed for Shea's services was obtained yesterday by Manager Lew Fonseca at Galveston in a trade with the St. Louis Browns for Frank Grube, first string Comiskey backstop for the last three years. Uhalt was obtained from Oakland of the Pacific Coast league for Pitcher Harold Haid.

Shea, who is 32 years old and a native of Fonseca's home town, San Francisco, has been with three American league teams since his big time debut with the Detroit Tigers in 1927. He was with the Tigers for three years, then spent the next three with Milwaukee and Louisville in the American association.

In Ferrell Trade.

At the beginning of the 1933 season he was with the Boston Red Sox, but went to the Browns in the deal involving Rick Ferrell. At St. Louis Merv succeeded Ferrell as first string catcher. He finished the season with a batting mark of .243, 12 points higher than that of Grube.

Fonseca, in diagnosing the weaknesses of his team after its fadeout last season, spoke as much of the catching department as he did of his pitching situation. His hope, he said repeatedly, was to obtain a catcher who could hit. Shea will be a great asset defensively, but his grand average as a major league hitter, .245, scarcely fills the Fonseca prescription.

Grube Will Hustle.

Grube, whose chief asset was his aggressiveness, had an unhappy season last year, a fact which was reflected in his indifference which twice caused him to overstay short leaves of absence, despite threats of suspension. In his natural mood Grube is the kind of player that Rogers Hornsby likes and the trade was looked upon as favorable to all concerned.

Uhalt, known as Frenchie, is 22 years old and went to Oakland direct from Bakersfield, Cal., High school. He played in 171 games last year, hitting .352, and stole 60 bases. Haid came to the Sox from the Coast league late last season. He had been in the American league before.

The Cubs also busted into the flesh marts with the purchase of Roy Joiner, a lefty pitcher who won 20 games

FANS! LET'S READ BIERMAN'S MAIL ABOUT MICHIGAN

Minnesota Coach Gets Dope on Saturday Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.

Coach Bernie Bierman,
University of Minnesota,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Dear Coach—You may not remember me, but you were very kind to give me a pass to watch your Minnesota football players practice before their game last month with Purdue and I told you then if ever I could do you a favor to count on me. At that time passes to secret practice at some of the Big Ten universities were canceled and I certainly appreciated your confidence.

You know, of course, that Michigan is expecting your team over here Saturday. I read in the paper where your airplane was forced down last week and you didn't get to see Michigan defeat Iowa. Well, Coach, if you haven't seen Michigan since the Wolverines whipped your boys 3 to 0 last year at Minneapolis you may want some help. I saw Michigan defeat Chicago and Illinois and today I asked Harry Kipke, the Michigan coach, about his team and what he planned to do Saturday, so all in all I gathered a lot of information for you.

Yost Busy Talking of 1925 Game.

I didn't ask Fielding Yost, Kipke's boss, any questions today, for he was busy with some of the reporters telling them how Wallie Weber, now Michigan's back field coach, stopped Herb Joesting back in 1925 and Michigan won, 35 to 0. You probably don't care about that 1925 game, for it ended like most all of the Michigan-Minnesota games with Michigan on top. Michigan has whipped Minnesota 18 times to Minnesota's 4.

About the only way Minnesota has been able to get that little brown jug was to swipe it, as some low life did back in 1903 when Minnesota kept it six years on the basis that a tie game really was a victory. Yes, I remember that Arnie Oss helped Minnesota win, 34 to 7, in 1919, but after that Michigan won so often they got careless with the brown jug and some outsider stole it from the trophy case at headquarters here and Michigan didn't even miss it for several years. They've got a new jug now, although some say its the same one that always was used.

You Can Ask Oen About Stadium.

If you haven't been in Ann Arbor recently you may not know how to get out to the stadium. You can drive right by the stadium and never know it's there, for it is sunk in the ground so that everybody comes in at the top and walks down to their seats. I suppose Capt. Roy Oen, who was over here in 1931 when Bill Hewitt ran for the touchdown which licked Fritz Crisler's team, 6 to 0, can show the boys how to get out to the stadium, so the map of Ann Arbor, which I am enclosing, really isn't necessary.

You'd better plan on getting out to the field about 12:30 Saturday, for they told me at the athletic offices today that 60,000 tickets have been sold. If it gets warmer they may use the temporary bleachers which were put up for the Ohio State game. I know you're not interested in the size of the crowd, but you might tell Frank McCormick, your athletic director, about it. A swell crowd like 60,000, even if the tickets are only $2.75 apiece, helps out when the bills come in for shoes and football pants.

Could Mr. Kipke Be Holding Out?

I told Kipke today you had all your players reading his stories on how Michigan plays football by punting, passing and praying, and he just laughed as though maybe he hadn't told everything in those stories and Michigan was holding back something just for you.

Regeczi will be in the back field Saturday doing the kicking. Pug Lund will have his troubles kicking as well, but if I were you I'd tell my ends to watch Stan Fay, Michigan's captain, and Bill Renner, and keep them from

ALL WILDCATS WANT IS JUST ONE TOUCHDOWN

Expect Line to Stop Fast Notre Dame Backs.

The shouting and tumult that usually attends a Northwestern-Notre Dame football game is not present in all its traditional fervor this year, but the fact remains that the 40,000 customers at Dyche stadium tomorrow probably will witness a contest that for thrills and drama will take rank with other notable encounters in this popular series.

A national or midwest championship is not at stake, but victory in this annual game is always highly cherished, and is all the more so this year since the respective records of the teams leaves little to cheer about. Consequently there is every assurance that a lot of fancy football will be on display.

N. U. Banks on Line.

Prospects are for an evenly fought contest. Notre Dame's back field has flashed more offensive punch than the Wildcats', although neither has contributed many points. The Purple line, however, will be counted on to hold the Irish ball carriers in check in much the same fashion that it turned back Stanford, Minnesota, and Indiana. Northwestern has only been scored against once from scrimmage.

If the Wildcats can get over their fumbling habit they might score a few of those touchdowns which have been so imminent all season but have never materialized. Like Notre Dame, they have charged up and down the field for tremendous yardage all year, but usually fumbles or poor judgment in selection of plays has nipped a scoring opportunity.

N. U. Need Triple Threat.

Give this Northwestern team one hard running back who can provide a passing or kicking threat and the team would probably be boasting a much different scoring record. The Wildcats have a number of fast shifty backs, but lack a chap like Rentner to worry the defense.

Coach Dick Hanley plans to experiment with his backfield again tomorrow. Freddy Lind, a second year player who has performed at quarter back most of the time, will start at left half and play safety on defense. He is a little fellow, weighing but 155 pounds, but has shown ability to handle kicks, an important function missing all season.

Alumni Meet Today.

The remainder of the backfield will be the same that started against Illinois. It includes Ollie Olson at quarter back, Wally Cruice at right half and Chuck Duvall at full back.

A joint luncheon of the Notre Dame and Northwestern alumni clubs of Chicago will be held at the Chicago Bar association club rooms at noon today. Austin McNichols and Tom Hayward, respective presidents of the two clubs, will preside. Other guests of honor will be Coach Dick Hanley and Tug Wilson of Northwestern, and Jack Elder and Dr. John Mohardt, former Notre Dame football stars.

IRISH GET BREAK.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Today's break in the weather allowed Coach Hunk Anderson to take his squad outdoors for the first scrimmage in two weeks. He also took advantage of the opportunity to send them through a long tackling and blocking workout.

Irish plays were aimed chiefly at the 5-4-2 defense Northwestern employed last year to stop Notre Dame passes. Anderson stressed running plays today, with Nick Lukats, Johnny Young, Andy Pilney, Steve Banas, Ray Brancheau, and Don Elser carrying the ball.

Against another defense the Wildcats may use Anderson ordered passes. He believes the running attack is not strong enough to warrant depending upon it alone and his chief hope for breaking into the scoring column is passes.

Notre Dame will leave here Saturday morning at 7:50 o'clock, arriving in Chicago at 9:45. The team will eat at the Congres hotel and will leave in busses at 11:20 o'clock for Evanston.

LISTON TO FIGHT O'BRIEN TONIGHT IN RAINBO SHOW

Scotty Sylvano to Meet Young Scotty.

Johnny Liston, south side middleweight, who held Laddie Tonelli to a draw recently, will attempt to renew his winning streak of 17 straight in a five round bout against Jack O'Brien tonight at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Scotty Sylvano trys to avenge a recent defeat by Young Scotty, East Moline, Ill., welterweight, in a four round supporting match. Other matches:

Al Schiarato and Art Mitchell [5]; Tom Habel and Ken Murray [4]; Pete Verri and Art Donovan [4]; Frank Walsh and Hassen Ahmed [wrestling].

Puggy Weinert, Brighton Park welterweight, yesterday signed to head the program Monday at White City. His opponent is to be selected today. Gene Higgins is paired with Scotty Sylvano for five rounds. George Haberski, junior lightweight, has signed to appear against a suitable foe.

Pee Wee Jarrell, Fort Wayne, Ind., 147 pound boxer, yesterday was substituted for Eddie Stiegal against Henry Rothier at the Coliseum annex Monday. Larry Johnson sparred three rounds yesterday for his 10 round windup with George Nichols. He will box six rounds this afternoon.

Einar Hedquist and Chuck Reed meet in a four rounder on the Jackie Sharkey-Harry Booker bill Monday at Marigold Garden . . . Bud Taylor, promoter, announced here yesterday that Fraknie Jarr will face Henry Moreno at Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 27 . . . Johnny Pena clashes with Little Dempsey at San Francisco, and Art Laskey battles Tom Patrick at Hollywood tonight.

Tony Cancela has started training for a 15 round contest with Buck Everett at Arcadia Garden next Tuesday. He will box this afternoon. Gene Higgins collides with Frank Keevil in a preliminary match.

Frank Minerva is matched with John Mirabal at Green Bay, Wis., Monday. Another bout will bring together Frank Mirabal and Speedy Quick. Adolph Wiater and Merril Tonn meet in the feature contest.

The boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. will meet today to determine the status of 16 boxers who competed in an unsanctioned show here Tuesday.

Ten delegates from this district will leave tomorrow for Pittsburgh, Pa., to attend the annual convention of the National A. A. U. there Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. After the convention adjourns Tuesday the representatives go to Washington, D. C., where the American Olympic committee will meet Wednesday, at which time Avery Brundage will be a candidate for reëlection as president.

SARPOLIS DRAWS MARVIN AS FOE ON STADIUM MAT

Dr. Karl Sarpolis, former University of Chicago athlete, will make his second Chicago appearance of the wrestling season at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night on the Jim Londos-Jim McMillen card.

Tommy Marvin, Oklahoma Indian, will be Sarpolis' opponent in a one fall match with a half hour time limit.

McMillen has opened his loop training quarters at Trafton's gymnasium.

Londos has been delayed in the east and will not be here until Sunday. He has promised to appear in a bout at Washington, D. C., which is the reason for late arrival.

STUHLEY PUTS AWAY O'CONNELL IN 7TH ROUND

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, knocked out Bill O'Connell, Streator, in the seventh round of the scheduled eight round windup bout of the opening professional boxing show at the Lake Shore Athletic club last night.

In the semi-windup Puggy Weinert stopped Kelly Kulak in the fourth round. Young Geno beat Johnny Fitzpatrick and Eddie Ward beat Jacquotti Elverillo in six round preliminary bouts.

BEARS PLAY COMETS.

The Austin Bears, with seven straight victories to their credit, will meet the Austin Comets at Rainbo field, Harlem and North avenues, Sunday.

Barbara Defeats Sparrow in West Side C. Y. O. Bout

John Barbara, St. Margaret parish lightweight, scored an upset last night in one of 36 bouts in the second round of the west side trials of the Catholic Youth organization's amateur boxing tournament at Community Recreation center.

Edward Sparrow, who reached the semi-finals in the featherweight class of the Golden Gloves tournament two years ago and who was eliminated in the 1932 C. Y. O. tournament by Leo Rodak, just wasn't good enough to cope with Barbara's rapid fire punching and apparently superior ability. Barbara received the decision after three rounds. It is his first tournament.

Ryan Beats Beran.

Another lightweight match that created considerable interest was that between Barney Ryan of St. Mary of Celle and Frank Beran, St. Ludmilla. Ryan was awarded a three round decision which was booed by the crowd.

Ryan also is a newcomer in this kind of competition and although his victory was not as decisive over the veteran Beran as that of Barbara, he is generally conceded a good chance of qualifying for the quarter-finals at C. Y. O. center next week.

Last Preliminaries Tonight.

There will be approximately 29 bouts tonight at Community Recreation, 10 in class B and 19 in class A. This will finish the four sectional preliminary bouts. The 32 boys who qualify tonight will be eligible to compete in the quarter-finals with the 96 already selected from the north, south and Joliet districts. Results:

Frank Brunell, Racing Paper's Founder, Dies

Frank H. Brunell, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1893 and until he founded the turf publication, Daily Racing Form, on Nov. 17, 1894, died yesterday morning from a stroke of apoplexy at his winter home at Magnolia Springs, Ala. He was 81 years old. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank Nellis, and two granddaughters, who formerly resided in Evanston.

Mr. Brunell was born in London, England. The site of his birthplace afterward housed a printing establishment, as he delighted to tell in later years after his idea of a daily racing publication had become a great money maker. He came to the United States early in life and accepted a position on the staff of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, later transferring to Chicago.

Prominent in Baseball War.

Interested in all sports, he was secretary of the American Brotherhood, sometimes known as the Players' league, formed to wage a baseball war against the dominant National league. It was Brunell who was credited with inducing the late Charles A. Comiskey to desert organized baseball and become owner of the Chicago White Stockings at the old south side park. The Players' movement collapsed just at a time when it seemed it had the war won. The old league was ready to make overtures, but the Players' leaders did not know it.

After the baseball war Brunell again engaged in newspaper work on the old Inter Ocean and then as sports editor of THE TRIBUNE. Associated with him on THE TRIBUNE as turf writer was Joseph A. Murphy, presiding steward and general manager at Hawthorne and other racing plants. At this time Martin Nathanson, also a prominent racing official, was sports editor of the old Herald.

Race Paper Succeeds.

Brunell took with him to the Daily Racing Form the characteristics which emphasized his sports régime on THE TRIBUNE, mastery of detail and meticulous accuracy. His known honesty and the reliability of his racing publication caused it over a term of years to become a profitable property. It was priced at 5 cents per copy until advanced production costs caused a raise to 10 cents at the time of the world war.

Perhaps his advertising policy was the best index of his rugged character. No one could advertise in this turf publication unless known to the publisher. While a limited number of advertisements of "turf advisers" were accepted, no such advertisers could advertise they had given their clients certain winners the day previous unless the turf paper had been submitted a list of these selections prior to the running of the races and the claims in subsequent advertising were thus substantiated.

Sold Out in 1922.

Mr. Brunell sold his business to the present management in 1922. No official figure was made public, but the price was said to have been $500,000, considered a bargain. The owner, who had been assisted by Mrs. Brunell in the business management, wished leisure and rest to enjoy a fortune supposed to be around one million dollars before millionaires became so common in the post-war period. Mrs. Brunell passed away several years ago.

One of the famous racing mares of the early '90s was named Maid Marion in honor of the small daughter, Marion Brunell, now Mrs. Nellis. The Brunells also had a summer home at Manhattan Beach, Long Island. There and at Magnolia Springs Mr. Brunell spent his later years. No details of funeral arrangements were available last night.

Baer Arranges Meeting with Estranged Wife

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Saying there was no reconciliation in prospect so far as she knew, Dorothy Dunbar, former wife of Max Baer, heavyweight boxer, left by airplane tonight for San Francisco, for a visit with the fighter-screen actor. Miss Dunbar said Baer sent for her.

GRAIN FIELDS EVER A LURE TO CANADA GEESE

Becker Finds Miller City Grounds Excellent.

BY BOB BECKER.

The desire of wild Canada geese to visit wheat fields to feed upon the tender green shoots which are only a few inches in length, and the general habits of these big birds which call for their spending a lot of time on dry land, are two important factors in the success of geese shooters near Miller City, Ill.

After looking over that hunting territory down there [some 14 miles out of Cairo, Ill., in the extreme southern part of the state] there isn't any doubt but what the big honkers like water and sand bars, but they also can't resist a corn field or a wheat field. Around Miller City you find the birds coming out of Horse Shoe lake and then swinging into the fields where sportsmen are hidden in their blinds. You can see the honkers clear the tree line around the lake, even though you are quite a distance from the boundary line.

Headin' for the River.

As soon as a flock is sighted you can tell pretty much what they are going to do. If they rise high and get into a pretty orderly flight formation, you can be pretty sure that the leader of the flock is taking a gang to the Mississippi river for an hour or two on a sand bar. On the other hand, if a small flock keeps low and heads direct for a wheat field or combiantion wheat and cornfield, it's a safe bet that some hunter hidden in a blind in that field is going to have visitors. But you cant' tell.

When we were near Miller City a few days ago we had a single come straight for our field as if he had been sent for. This noisy old honker talked a blue streak to the decoys. He looked so good to us that we were ready to count him in the bag. But that bird flew all around us, sailed on outspread wings as if he were coming down, circled and circled and then finally was back to Horseshoe lake without even giving us a shot. And that is what may happen in wild geese shooting, just one of the many possible incidents which make it such a gamble.

Miller City Good Spot.

Some of the field around Miller City have furnished excellent goose hunting in recent years. Practically all of them are close to Horseshoe lake. One group of fields planted with wheat and equipped to take care of day shooters recorded a kill of 703 Canada geese during the 1932 hunting season. That is a lot of geese for one shooting place, but in spite of that total many hunters didn't get a lot of birds down there for the reason that some days wild geese will fly and "work" the fields and on other days they will do neither of these two things so essential to geese hunting. When such is the case the hunter may not fire a shot during the entire day.

Chicago District Golf Association Meets Dec. 8

The annual dinner and meeting of the Chicago District Golf associatio will be held Dec. 8 at the Chicago Athletic association.

GRAHAM, GUARD WITH CARDINALS, QUITS FOOTBALL

Tipton Takes Place for Brooklyn Game.

Alfred [Pup] Graham, guard on the Cardinal football team, has been forced to withdraw from football, probably for the rest of his life, Coach Paul Schissler announced yesterday.

Graham has been suffering from an intestinal ailment for some time.

Graham, a veteran of the National league, attended Ohio State. He joined the Dayton eleven for one season and played the next year with the Providence Steamrollers before coming to the Cards two years ago. He is 27 years old and weighs 218 pounds.

Squad of 19 Faces Dodgers.

His departure shrinks the Cardinal squad to 19 men, which is three below the league limit.

With every man needed for the game with Brooklyn Sunday afternoon at Wrigley field the loss of Graham should have been cause for gloom in the Card camp, but the opposite spirit existed yesterday.

Coach Schissler placed Howard Tipton, a half back, in Graham's spot and he clicked from the start. Schissler remarked that the drill was one of the most satisfactory of the season.

He Likes the Job.

Tipton, after the workout, said that he liked to play the position. He weighs 185 pounds. Schissler believes that his fight will offset any handicap of poundage.

Kieckhefer Wins 2 More Blocks of Thurnblad Match

Augie Kieckhefer defeated Arthur Thurnblad in the seventh and eighth blocks of their 500 point three cushion billiard match at Kieckhefer's Recreation yesterday. Kieckhefer won the afternoon block, 50 to 49, in 48 innings and took the evening match, 50 to 28, in 36 innings. Kieckhefer now is leading, 400 to 351.

MAROONS DECIDE ILLINI GAME IS ONE THEY NEED

They're Ready to Give All They Have Tomorrow.

The Maroons have looked more like a football team every day since they began to scrimmage. They are in prime physical condition and they want badly to win tomorrow's encounter with Illinois at Champaign, their final chance for a Big Ten victory this season.

These three factors, say the side lines critics at the Midway, comprise their chief hope of beating the Illini Yesterday the squad ran through its final heavy workout, scrimmaging on both offense and defense. The rehearsal was confined to the fieldhouse, which is suitable for heavy work, but today's final practice will be out in the cold, where there is plenty of room for punting and passing. So far this week the team has been distinctly a hothouse product.

They Fear Beynon's Passes.

Coach Shaugnessy has devoted a surprising amount of time to offense this week. Part of yesterday's session, however, was the mapping of a defense against Beynon's passing which is more feared than the Illini running attack. Rainwater Wells and John Womer were given another chance at ends but Baker and Langley are likely to start. Marynowski and Walter were used for a time at tackles and Bart Smith. Tommy Flinn and Keith Hatter were inserted in the backfield at intervals.

The Chicago squad making the trip will be named this morning. The team will leave Chicago at 9:45 a. m. tomorrow and go directly to the Illini stadium. The Maroon band and about 500 rooters will accompany the team.

ILLINI EXPECT TROUBLE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Obviously spurred by reports from the midway which indicate that Illinois must meet an inspired Maroon eleven Saturday, the Illini performed spiritedly in their last long drill today.

Belief that Chicago presents a real threat and will be keyed for its greatest effort of the season has succeeded the confidence which was general on the campus earlier in the week.

The Illini have been scrimmaged twice this week and today Zuppke contented himself with dummy scrimmages on offense and defense. Since the players came through the scrimmages without accident, Illinois is in prime physical condition.

The first eleven today comprised the players who started the Michigan and Northwestern games including Frink and Schustek, ends; Antilla and Galbreath, tackles; Bennis and Graboski, guards; Bloom, center; Beynon, quarterback; Froschauer and Lindberg, half backs and Cook, full back.

COLUMBIA CLUB MEMBERS TO HEAR A NOTED SAILOR

The story of the famous grain race, sailed each year from Australia to Europe, will be told tonight by A. J. Villiers at the Columbia Yacht club. In his five voyages with grain cargoes Villiers has taken moving pictures of deep water sailing.

From his home in Sidney, Australia, he sailed on his first voyage on the famous vessel Grace Harwar, from which he obtained pictures of the return passage around Cape Horn in which his companion was killed aloft. His subsequent passages were made aboard the four masted bark Parma, of which he is now the owner.

Mr. Villers will again present his moving pictures and talk at the Columbia Yacht club tomorrow evening.

Van Klaveren Wins Bout Over Loayza in 10 Rounds

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Bep Van Klaveren, Dutch welterweight, won a judge's decision from Stanislaus Loayza, veteran Chilean, in a hard-fought ten round bout at the Broadway arena tonight. Van Klaveren weighed 145¾ pounds, Loayza, 143¾. Although shaken in several of the rounds, Loayza put up a surprisingly good battle all the way. Van Klaveren floored the Chilean for a count of nine in the second round and for no count in the eighth but could not keep him down.

Callahan Gets Chance at Dundee's Crown Dec. 8

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Vince Dundee of Baltimore will defend his world middleweight boxing title against Andy Callahan of Lawrence at the Boston Garden on Dec. 8, Garden officials announced today. They will box fifteen rounds at 160 pounds. Dundee won the title from Lou Brouillard here a month ago.

Texas A. and M. Signs New Coach for 1934

College Station, Tex., Nov. 16.—(AP)—E. J. Kyle, chairman of the Texas A. & M. athletic committee, announced today that Homer H. Norton, football coach at Centenary college, had been signed as head of the department of physical education and head football coach to relieve Coach Madison [Matty] Bell next fall.

Purdue Works on Attack for Iowa Battle

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Polishing the attack for what is expected to be a great offensive battle with Iowa here Saturday occupied the main attention of the Purdue football team today. In the brisk workout, Coach Kizer retained the same eleven that started and played the bulk of the Notre Dame game last Saturday.

Judging from past performances of the Boilermakers and Hawkeyes so far this season, there should be plenty of scoring. Ossie Solem's eleven will bring an attack that has scored one or more touchdowns in every game this season, while the Boilermakers can look back on a record of 46 consecutive games in which they have scored one or more touchdowns.

IOWA TEAM RESTS.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Consistent with his policy of "making the work lighter as the schedule gets tougher," Coach Ossie Solem excused the University of Iowa football players from practice today before they departed for Purdue.

The Hawkeyes have had only one outdoor practice since the Michigan game, a brief scrimmage against a freshman team Wednesday night.

As the result of the layoff, however, all of the injured players will be ready for action against the Boilermakers. The varsity squad, which entrained Thursday night, included thirty-one players. They will hold a final workout on Stagg field, Chicago, Friday morning. The only drill in Ross-Ade stadium at Lafayette will be just before game time. Following is the squad list:

Ends—Jim Dee, John Lindenmeyer, Bernie Page, Ray Fisher, Harold Swaney.

Tackles—Jerry Foster, Fred Radloff, Eugene Liggett, Marvin McAllister, Lloyd Hoffman.

Guards—Jick Gallagher, Francis Schammel, Wilmon Hass, William Hawkins, Lumir Kouba, Bill Seel.

Centers—Capt. Tom Moore, Harold Weber.

Quarterbacks—Joe Laws, George Teyro Wilbur Wallace.

Halfbacks—Russ Fisher, Dwight Hoover, Phil Thurtle, Joe Richards, Bob Rook, Herman Schneidman, Richard Yordy, Marvin Kuhn.

Fullbacks—Dick Crayne, Bill Ash.

AWARD BUFFALO NATIONAL P. G. A. MEET FOR 1934

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Award of the National Professional Golfers association 1934 tournament to Buffalo was announced here today by the junior chamber of commerce.

Henry J. Comstock, president of the junior chamber, said the tournament will be held at the Park club in Williamsville sometime in July. A qualifying round of 36 holes will be played on Tuesday with the tournament finishing on a Sunday rather than the customary Saturday windup. The definite starting date will be announced by George R. Jacobus, P. G. A. president.

TABLE TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO OPEN TONIGHT

The American zone tryouts for the world's table tennis tournament will get under way tonight with men's singles and women's singles in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel. The winner of the men's singles will be sent to the world's tournament at Paris, France, where on Dec. 2 he will encounter the representative of nineteen other nations.

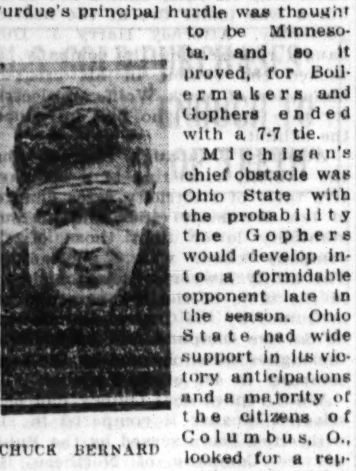
Church Division of State Tourney Meets Tonight

The church team division of the Illinois state basketball tournament will meet this evening at the headquarters of the Illinois State Basketball association, 155 North Clark street.

In the Wake of the News

MICHIGAN AND MINNESOTA.

BEFORE the gridiron season opened, Michigan and Purdue were picked as the two elevens most likely to go through the season with unblemished escutcheons. Purdue's principal hurdle was thought to be Minnesota, and so it proved, for Boilermakers and Gophers ended with a 7-7 tie.



CHUCK BERNARD

Michigan's chief obstacle was Ohio State with the probability the Gophers would develop into a formidable opponent late in the season. Ohio State had wide support in its victory anticipations and a majority of the citizens of Columbus, O., looked for a repetition of 1931, Michigan's last defeat. The Wolverines, however, left no doubt of their superiority.

Then Iowa and Illinois began to get "tough" before their Michigan games. Illinois, according to most critics, was at least equal to Michigan in everything except in generalship and point after touchdown. Iowa played a close game but threw only a mild scare in the second period.

So tomorrow comes Michigan's battle against Minnesota at Ann Arbor, certainly possessing all the importance it promised early. It is expected to decide the championship, although Michigan cannot underrate the erratic Northwestern Wildcats in its final game, nor can Minnesota overlook Wisconsin which turned an upset last year. Purdue seems to have little to fear from Indiana in its final, but may meet stern opposition from the Hawkeyes tomorrow. The Boilermakers no doubt will try to exceed Michigan's total against Iowa for argumentative purposes, if nothing else.

Michigan and Minnesota look nearly equal in man power. We'd prefer the Michigan ends but there'd be an argument on that up at Minneapolis. We'd prefer Bernard at center, too, but Gopher fans call Oen, their lightweight center, key man of their defense. In the back field we'd prefer the Gophers as potential scoring possibilities, but Coach Kipke, with Michigan's system of safety defense, probably would prefer his own quartet.

Michigan and Minnesota have met only one mutual opponent, Iowa. Minnesota had the wider margin of victory. Of four conference opponents, Michigan has been scored against only by Illinois and Iowa. Minnesota has been scored against by Indiana, Purdue, and Iowa. Northwestern mistakes prevented the Wildcats from counting, and likewise the same statement in reverse.

So, theoretically, these two elevens are very closely matched. On the season's record, if we were making book on the game, we'd install the Wolverines favorites at 10 to 9 and cut the odds to 5 to 4 if much Michigan money appeared. On results of former years and Minnesota's traditional jinx against Michigan, we'd lay 3 to 2 against the Gophers.

* *

Northwestern and Notre Dame.

Out at Dyche field tomorrow anything may happen when Northwestern and Notre Dame meet. In its possibilities, if not in its importance, the contest promises a great battle. Rival partisans, considering the long rivalry, will not admit it lacks importance so ticket sales are surprisingly heavy.

Both Notre Dame and Northwestern during the season have gained nearly twice as much ground as their opponents. Yet each eleven has scored and won from only one rival, in each instance Indiana. Northwestern's count was 25 to 0, and Notre Dame's 12 to 2. The Wildcats met Hoosiers on a rainy day. Strangely enough that was the only game in the last four in which they did not fumble badly.

Looking at the records' lack of scoring punch, a forecaster should call the result 0 to 0. That's probably just what we'll do tomorrow morning. Yet each eleven, on ground gaining except when yardage is most needed, should count one or more touchdowns.

Sox Park Suggestion.

Harvey: Why all this discussion over changes at White Sox park? Even Al Simmons doesn't seem to know what he wants. In the contemplated alterations it will be necessary to remake the infield. May I suggest the present infield be left as it is and an entirely new one laid out. See the point? Have two diamonds. Let the visiting teams use the old one and let the White Sox use the new one. We must have a winning team on the south side! William A. Ruschke.

Now if Badger Frosh Could Face Ohio—

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Badgers today held their last scrimmage in preparation for the game with Ohio State here Saturday.

Using Ohio formations on defense as well as offense, the Wisconsin freshmen have whipped the varsity regularly this week, and observers frequently have expressed the wish that the yearlings were scheduled to meet Ohio.

This being impossible, the Badgers will concentrate upon holding down the Ohio score, Coach Clarence Spears said today

OHIO OFF FOR MADISON.

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A signal practice for the varsity eleven on a windswept field outside the stadium was the only activity ordered for the Ohio State football team tonight before it entrained for Madison and the game with Wisconsin Saturday.

The starting lineup for Ohio probably will be the same as was used against Michigan, with Carl Cramer at quarter back, Jack Smith and Richard Heekin at half back, and John Kabealo at full back.

Gillman and Rees will be at ends, Rosequist and Conrad at tackles, Monahan and Gailus at guards and Vuchinich at center.

The Buckeye special will stop in Chicago tomorrow morning and continue to Madison about noon.

VILLA, FORMER MICHIGAN GRID STAR, IS BURIED

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Frank Villa, 62, former Italian consular agent at Seattle, Wash., and star football player at the University of Michigan in 1894 and 1895, was buried at Watertown, Wis., yesterday. A native of Portland, Ore., he spent several years early in the century in Alaska, where he held a judgeship.

Villa, known as "the count" while a student at Michigan, died at the Federal Soldiers' Home hospital here Sunday of heart disease. He had been ill about two years.

Open Letter to Football Coach at Minnesota running that ball back after Lund kicks. That's how Iowa was in trouble in the first quarter.

Penner will be in the game, maybe at the start, and when I tell you that you know right away Michigan's going to pass. They haven't passed very much this year, but I think they're waiting for your team. Of course, Herman Everhardus is a swell runner, but Michigan will depend more on Renner's passes and Regeczi's plunges. You see, Roy Oen only weighs 170 pounds and Michigan's center, Bernard, weighs 216, and if you expect to stop Regeczi with a six man line you've been using, Kipke may send Regeczi through the middle on those spinner plays.

This Willis Ward at right end has got to be watched, too. You know he can high jump 6 feet 6 inches and run 100 yards in 9.6 seconds. If that doesn't make him dangerous at receiving Renner's passes, you tell me what does. Ward and Fred Petoskey are great on defense, which means that you won't be able to send Lund and Alfonse around them like they went around Iowa's ends.

In fact, I don't know what you can do to score on Michigan unless you pass. And Kipke has figured that out already. He spent all afternoon today drilling his team on a pass defense, so you can't surprise him on that.

About the best thing you can do Saturday is copy Michigan's attack and punt, pass, and pray, which ought to leave the result up to the team which prays the most.

Michigan will have a couple of subs in the line. Big Francis Wistert (he's No. 11) got hurt tackling Dick Crayne last week. Wistert jammed the muscles in his neck, but they carried Crayne off the field, so I figure you got a break there if they can't use a fellow who can tackle like that. Tage Jacobson will be at tackle in place of Wistert, for Willard Hildebrand, the first substitute tackle, already has been moved to guard in place of Carl Savage, who was hurt in the Illinois game. Savage was out this afternoon, but he runs as if he had a flat wheel.

Might Be Good Idea to Call It Off.

Everybody, except the alumni from Detroit and Willie Heston Sr., who, next to Yost himself, is the most rabid Michigan fan in the country, seems to want Minnesota to win Saturday. Purdue hopes you win or tie so the Boilermakers will get the championship, but wishes don't seem to have much chance against Michigan prayers. I've figured and figured, after watching Michigan practice, and I don't see yet how Minnesota can win.

If you haven't made arrangements for your trip here Saturday, why not call it off? Minnesota still is undefeated and you should lick Wisconsin next week, for everybody else in the conference has whipped the Badgers. So call this game off, coach, and wait for next year when most of Michigan's team will have graduated. Then your sophomores ought to whale the daylights out of the Wolverines.

WILFRID SMITH.

Shires' Appeal Is Upheld; to Get Back $200 Fine

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Appeals of Art Shires and three of his Columbus mates, who were fined $200 each last year for alleged violation of salary contract rules, were approved today by the executive committee of the National Assocation of Professional Baseball leagues.

The fines assessed against Shires Jim Lindsey, Gordon Slade, and Charles Wilson were ordered remitted

"It is the opinion of the committee that there was no wrongful intent on the part of these players to violate the rules of the National association," the ruling said.

Thomas Hickey, American Association president, banished the four from the league after he said contract irregularities were disclosed.

The executive meeting today acted only on the American Association case. Other appeal cases will be decided tomorrow.

Mount Carmel Hopes Hang on Pair of Games

Whether Mount Carmel, defending champion of the Chicago Catholic High School Football league, will slip out of the title picture this season hinges on the result of its game with De La Salle Sunday afternoon at Soldiers' field and the outcome of Loyola academy's engagement with De Paul at De Paul field.

Mount Carmel was charged with its first defeat in two seasons when it forfeited a victory over St. Rita several weeks ago because of the use of an ineligible player. This gave Loyola the lead in the eastern division of the league and dropped Mount Carmel into second place.

Loyola is undefeated, but was tied by Mount Carmel and Leo. If Loyola is defeated by De Paul, as predicted, by many league observers, while Mount Carmel wins over De La Salle, the 1932 champions will capture the east division title and qualify for the finals.

More than 20,000 are expected to watch the two Chicago Public High School league semi-final games tomorrow afternoon. Harrison Tech faces Schurz at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, and Morgan Park opposes Lindblom at White City stadium, 63d street, and South parkway.

The ten new high schools will compete in the present four sections of the Chicago Public High School league during the basketball season, it was decided at a meeting of the board control yesterday. Several schools were shifted to different sections. The new lineup of the sections follows:

NORTH SECTION—Senn, Lake View, Lane Tech, Waller, Roosevelt, Sullivan, Von Steuben, Amundsen.

SOUTH SECTION—Morgan Park, Fenger, Bowen, Calumet, Parker, Hirsch, Harper, Hyde Park.

WEST SECTION—Marshall, Crane Tech, McKinley, Austin, Tuley, Foreman, Kelvyn Park, Schurz.

CENTRAL SECTION—Englewood, Tilden, Philips, Lindblom, Farragut, Manley, Kelly, Harrison.

Release Herrmann, Campbell.

William Walker, acting president of the Cubs, last night in a telephone bulletin from Galveston, Tex., stated that the Chicago Nationals definitely had launched its reorganization plan "to give the fans a lot of new faces at Wrigley field next season."

Mr. Walker gave the details of the deal for Second Baseman Augie Galan of the San Francisco Seals whose acquisition had been definitely announced 24 hours earlier. The transaction involves the most extensive switching of playing talent undertaken by the Cubs since Rogers Hornsby was obtained from Boston five years ago.

That Galan may come to the Cubs the Chicago team will send Pitcher Le Roy Herrmann to the Seals, while the Cub controlled Los Angeles club will transfer Pitcher Ballou and Catcher McMullin to the San Francisco club. The Cubs, as a further direct part in the transaction, will send Catcher Gil Campbell to the Angels

Mr. Walker, interrupted in his praises of Galan with a question regarding the future of Second Baseman Bill Herman, was noncommittal. He then proceeded to read Galan's record in 188 games last year, in which the youngster made 264 hits for 379 bases, including 49 doubles, 21 triples and eight homers, for a batting mark of .355.

Former Chicago players figured in other deals closed at Galveston. Ike Boone, an outfielder with the White Sox in 1927, was appointed manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, succeeding Dan Howley. Art Shires was traded by Rochester to Toledo for another first baseman, Bill Sweeney. Pete Daglia, a right handed pitcher, who marched in the White Sox's 1932 parade of minor league pitchers, was traded by Indianapolis to the San Francisco Missions for Second Baseman Vincent Sherlock.

Walter Mails, eccentric major league pitcher of more than a decade ago, who succeeded in a comeback effort to the extent of remaining all last season with Kansas City, was sold to San Francisco by the Blues.

RE-ELECT BRAMHAM

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Minor league owners today reelected officers of their association, adopted a resolution designed to curb shoestring operators and then set about strengthening their teams for 1934.

W. G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., for two years president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, was chosen again to head the organization. His salary was raised from $6,000 to $8,500 and his term was extended from one to five years.

RELIEF CHEATER GETS MONTH IN JAIL FOR FRAUD

Another Put on Probation by Judge.

One relief cheater was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell yesterday for concealing the income of his daughter, who was working, and a second was convicted of fraud, but was put on probation because he is the sole support of seven children. A third defendant was convicted of fraud, but sentence was postponed until today. All of the cases were tried before Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson.

Harry A. Wagner, 48 years old, 431 Sullivan street, was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell when it was shown that his daughter, Evelyn, 19 years old, was employed by the Chicago Mail Order company at a salary of $12 a week, and that a son, Clarence, was also working. Wagner was charged with defrauding the relief agencies of $82.03 from June to August of this year.

Cheater Put on Probation.

Joseph Bolinski, 41 years old, 2735 Potomac avenue, was convicted of defrauding the relief agencies of $144.24 from April to September of this year. He has been employed as a valet at the Stevens hotel since 1930. He was placed on probation for a year when Mrs. Bertha Delin, special prosecutor for the relief commission, urged leniency on the ground that he is the sole support of seven children, the eldest of whom is 16 years old.

Bolinski defrauded the United Charities for several years before getting on the public relief rolls, Mrs. Delin showed. He received aid from that agency from November, 1929, to April 15 of this year, when his case was transferred to the Cook county bureau of public welfare. His salary at the hotel was $120 a month. Judge Erickson ordered Bolinski to repay the $144.24 he obtained by fraud.

"It seems to me that there has been considerable laxity on the part of the commission's case workers in handing out funds," Judge Erickson said in placing Bolinski on probation. "I do not understand how a thorough examination by case workers could fail to unearth the important and obvious fact that Bolinski was drawing a regular salary for several years while he was obtaining relief."

Sentence Is Deferred.

Gus Meister, 38 years old, 611 Blackhawk street, was convicted of defrauding the relief agencies of $214.71 while working at the Stevens hotel as a baker at a salary of $100 a month. He received the aid from February, 1932, until last July. On March 26, 1932, he collected a settlement of $1,250 from the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for the death of his father by gas poisoning. Sentence in Meister's case was deferred until today.

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who will return from Washington today after conferences on civil works administration, is expected to take up the problem of continuing the prosecution of relief frauds, which he began a month ago. The drive against relief cheaters has resulted in 24 convictions.

A committee of the advisory board of the Cook county bureau of public welfare plans to call upon Mr. Dunham to urge that no more frauds be prosecuted without the board's consent. The board has protested that its recommendations for leniency, based on extenuating circumstances and social problems of the family, has been ignored.

The advisory board is headed by Joel D. Hunter, director of United Charities, and is composed of members of the county board and representatives of many private charitable organizations. It was formed to serve the county bureau of public welfare in an advisory capacity only.

GEORGE W. BEST, VALVE COMPANY OFFICIAL, DIES

George Wilmot Best, vice president of the Sloan Valve company, died of pneumonia in the Woodlawn hospital yesterday. He was 79 years old. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William S. LEVI T. REGAN DIES; SCHOOL PRINCIPAL IN CHICAGO 36 YEARS

Levi T. Regan, a civil war veteran and a retired educator, died yesterday in his home at 519 West 66th street. Death was due to heart disease. He was 90 years old.

LEVI T. REGAN.

Mr. Regan was born at Lincoln, Ill. He was in service three years with the 106th Illinois Infantry volunteers and was with Grant at the siege of Vicksburg. He was a member of the George G. Meade post of the G. A. R.

Upon being mustered out of the army in 1865 Mr. Regan enrolled in Illinois State Normal college. He served as Logan county superintendent of schools and held similar posts at Amboy and Morris, Ill. He was principal of Sherman school, 51st and Morgan streets, for 36 years, retiring in 1926 at the age of 83.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Regan, two sons, Clement and Ralph Regan, and a daughter, Mrs. Chester Oury. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Covenant Baptist church, 60th place and Normal boulevard.

GIVEN LESSON IN COURTSHIP AND A FINE OF $200

Louis Lovrin, 46 years old, 6140 McVicker avenue, was given a few suggestions on the etiquette of courtship yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman in the Stockyards court. Lovrin was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct growing out of a proposal that he made Wednesday to Mrs. Julia Gregat, 5842 Mulligan avenue.

"Firstly," admonished the judge, "you should never go courting with a shotgun over your shoulder and a revolver in your pocket. Secondly, it is not considered sporting to propose to a married woman in the presence of her husband. Thirdly, it is not considered nice to propose to another woman when you have a wife."

"And besides," Mrs. Gregat added, "the shotgun might be discharged."

"And to make this lesson stick," the judge told Lovrin, "I'm going to fine you $200."

"And I," announced Lovrin, "shall never take another drink."

CHAS. N. WEINAND DIES; VETERAN OF BOARD OF TRADE

Funeral services for Charles N. Weinand, for 25 years a member of the Board of Trade, who was found dead in the basement of his home at 5141 Oakton street, Niles Center, early yesterday, will be held Monday morning at Our Lady of Lourdes church, Leland and Ashland avenues. Burial will be in St. Boniface cemetery.

A coroner's jury attribuated the death to heart disease.

Mr. Weinand, who was 48 years old, is survived by his window, Mrs. Barbara Weinand, and two children, Harold, 20 years old, and Bernadine, 8 years old.

Rabbi Israel Arkin Dies; Funeral to Be Held Today

COMMUNITY FUND CHARITIES ASSIST 600,000 IN YEAR

Ask $4,000,000 for 1934 Work.

The Chicago Council of Social Agencies reported yesterday that 1,750,000 individual cases, involving 600,000 persons, were handled last year by the agencies joining in the Emergency Welfare fund. The same work is being financed this year by the Community fund for Allied Chicago Charities.

Relief and service agencies in 1932 cared for 64,185 families or about 269,000 individuals. The service included food, fuel, shelter and clothing. These families had other difficulties than unemployment, such as desertion, nonsupport, bad housing, illness and juvenile delinquency.

Care for 5,923 Children.

Child caring agencies gave food, shelter, clothing and medical care to 5,923 children and cared for 4,000 cases in faster homes and 1,914 in institutions. About 232,000 persons were helped by settlements supported in whole or in part by the fund. Protective groups served 98,000 individuals in problems of delinquency, naturalization and unemployment.

Health agencies served the largest number. Clinics supported largely by the fund had 907,412 patients, 633,682 of whom were treated free. Free service was given in 5,000 cases of births in homes. Hospitals gave 250,000 day's care to persons who made no payments. The Chicago Dental society cared for 18,463 patients. The Infant Welfare society made 120,000 home visits.

Budgets Carefully Examined.

"We are now engaged under a new name in a campaign for $4,000,000 which is to support these private agencies during another year," R. Douglas Stuart, president, said in presenting the report. "The amount is somewhat less than last year. The budgets of the agencies have been examined with great care, the work has been consolidated in some respects, and some activities maintained by private funds last year have been turned over to the public fund."

The total pledged in 1932 was $4,740,531.70, of which $4,606,203.24 has been actually collected. The public drive for the current fund opened last Monday.

TWO AMERICANS HELD BY MEXICO AS 'SMUGGLERS'

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Herbert L. Kindred, airplane pilot of Brownsville, Texas, and J. P. Puteg-nat, also of Brownsville, have been held here nearly two weeks for investigation on suspicion of smuggling arms and ammunition into Mexico by airplane. With them were held the customs inspector of Matamoros, Mexico, and two other Matamoros officials.

The inquiry today was nearly complete and the men were expected to be released within a day or two, apparently having satisfied the government of their innocence.

The group left Brownsville a week ago Sunday in a plane piloted by Kindred. Owing to darkness they made a landing a short distance north of Pachuca, 50 miles from here. They continued here by automobile. Last week they were arrested at their hotel and held incommunicado.

UTILITY COMPANY LAWYER ASSAILS EXHIBIT ON RATES

An exhibit presented in support of the Illinois commerce commission's citation of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois to show cause why its rates should not be reduced was under fire at the hearing yesterday. Attorney Harry J. Dunbaugh, representing the company, attacked the exhibit in his cross-examination of Mark Wolff, an electricity rate analyst who had introduced the exhibit.

Attorney Dunbaugh charged that the exhibit, consisting of a comparative table of electricity rates charged in ten downstate cities and all substantially lower than those of the company cited, was "misleading." The utility lawyer criticized inclusion in the table of the low rate charged in Quincy by the Central Illinois Public Service company and exclusion of the higher rates charged by the same company in 465 other towns.

Wolff replied that Quincy had been selected because it compared in size with cities being served by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The population density of consumers, he pointed out, was an important factor.

The hearing yesterday was conducted by Commissioner Charles E. Byrne. It will be resumed this morning.

INJUNCTION PLEA OF SCHOOL BOARD TENANTS DENIED

Judge Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court yesterday denied the petition for an injunction brought on behalf of four tenants of loop properties owned by the school board. The tenants sought to restrain the board from evicting them for failure to pay rent. Judge Sullivan held that the complainants must pay rent on the basis of the 1915 valuations of the property.

The tenants owe $94,410 in rent. In presenting the petition for an injunction Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson said that the state Supreme court, in voiding the 1925 appraisals of the properties, on which the rents would have been increased, had not specifically stated that the tenants must pay rent on the 1915 valuations. This Supreme court opinion was given two years ago. The attorney indicated after Judge Sullivan's ruling that the back rent would be paid. The question of determining fair rentals for the tenants was referred to Master in Chancery Sidney S. Pollack.

The properties involved are in the block bounded by State, Dearborn, Madison, and Monroe streets and are held by the tenants on 99 year leases. The school board was represented by Attorneys Edward R. Johnston and Frank S. Righeimer.

PAROLED CONVICT GETS 1-20 YEARS FOR AUTO FRAUD

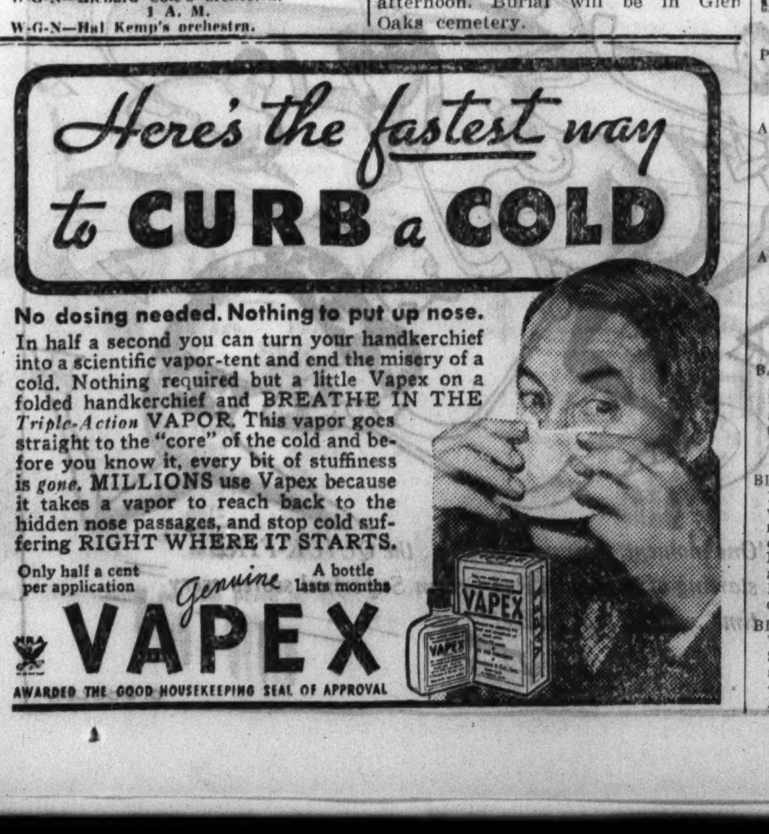
Fred Fosnacht, a paroled convict, who used TRIBUNE want ads in an attempt to sell a stolen automobile, was sentenced to one to 20 years yesterday by Judge Harry B. Miller on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Evidence showed that Fosnacht, who was paroled in 1930 after serving two years on a similar charge, advertised an automobile for sale at 933 Sheridan road. John Waligure, 3431 West Madison street, answered the advertisement and after looking at the car gave Fosnacht a $5 deposit to close the deal.

Then Waligure asked police to check the numbers of the car and motor before he closed the deal. Police discovered the numbers to be false and arrested Fosnacht.

Widow of C. W. Murphy, Once Cubs Owner, Is Dead

Mrs. Marie Louise Murphy, widow of Charles Webb Murphy, former owner of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, died yesterday in her home at 6157 Sheridan road. She was 61 years old. She is survived by three brothers, Fred, George and Henry Krumdick, and two sisters, Mrs. Milly Fry and Mrs. A. L. Zeller. Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Glen Oaks cemetery.



Here's the fastest way to CURB a COLD

No dosing needed. Nothing to put up nose.

In half a second you can turn your handkerchief into a scientific vapor-tent and the misery of a cold. Nothing required but a little Vapex on a folded handkerchief and BREATHE IN THE Triple-Action VAPOR. This vapor goes straight to the "core" of the cold and behind it, every bit of stuffiness is gone. MILLIONS use Vapex because it gets right to the hidden nose passages, and stop cold suffering RIGHT WHERE IT STARTS.

Only half a cent per application. A bottle lasts months.

MEAT INDUSTRY IS EXPERIENCING BASIC CHANGE

Hog Fight Points to Decentralization.

BY PAUL POTTER.

No signs of weakening in the position of either buyers or sellers of pork on the hoof were to be seen yesterday as the eighth day of deadlocked marketing closed last night at the nation's leading live stock center at the Chicago stock yards.

But the economic forces alligned in the yards themselves and through the arteries of commerce extending from three million farm feed lots to the tables of many more millions of consumers have been brought forcibly to public attention.

An accounting of these forces was attempted yesterday in interviews with leaders in the farflung meat industry as well as those industries affected by new and intricate changes the stalemate position in Chicago has drawn to a focal point.

U. S. Aid Welcomed by Brokers.

It is a three sided affair, with the government having assumed active support on the side of the sellers against the buyers. Commission men at the yards, acting as brokers for the farmers, have welcomed Uncle Sam as an ally against the often maligned packers.

The commission men maintain that advancing retail prices of meats do not justify a reduced price paid for hogs. They also maintain that packers by going into the country and buying hogs direct from farmers are weakening the terminal market structure upon which the live stock industry bases its price schedules.

Farmers themselves are divided in their attitude. Many maintain that transportation, brokerage and handling charges of hogs in terminal markets are excessive with low hog prices. They prefer to sell their hogs to any one of the hundreds of small packers who send trucks through the country, buying up the type of hogs they most need at a premium, and permitting the others to come to terminal markets. Others feel they can send their entire shipment to a terminal packing plant and save fees.

Others Favor Commission Men.

On the other hand, many farmers believe that this practice detracts from the total price paid from day to day, and that a broker can command the premium to earn his brokerage by shopping among the buyers and by sorting hogs into desirable weight classes at the yards.

A rough average of monthly figures the government releases on hogs sent to market shows that somewhat more than half [58 per cent] of all hogs are sent to public stock yards for competitive selling, and that about 42 per cent are sold direct from farmer to packer. The ratio varies, but direct shipments have gained steadily.

The effect of this trend has been to decentralize the packing industry. Chicago is still the capital of the world packing industry, but many forces, including the recent attitude of the federal government, are threatening this supremacy, packers declare.

Other Threats Noted.

Wage scales and taxes in Chicago, plus the recent increased costs of the NRA codes and the processing tax were declared by two well informed packers to threaten a further decentralization of the industry, especially when transportation costs are fixed and it is cheaper to have plants near the source of raw products.

Of the 1,277 packing plants listed by the bureau of the census, the stock yards administration regulates 868, of which 626 are slaughtering companies and 242 nonslaughterers who purchase animals but have them dressed by packers at custom rates.

The packers turn out nearly three times as much meat products from Illinois plants as is sold from either Kansas, New York, Iowa, or Minnesota. There are more packing plants in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, and California than in any other dozen states in the nation. In operations the industry is quite decentralized, although the headquarters of the major share of the business is here.

Shift Is Expected.

While new plants are erected constantly in eastern and far western states, the capacity for handling hogs in Chicago is not being increased. Chicago packers are steadily increasing facilities here, however, for handling butter, poultry, eggs, cheese, and other by-products, and one informant predicts that in time the meat packing industry will center in a western point.

"If, as Secretary Wallace predicted here," said one packing official, "Chicago is to become an ash heap, we wonder if he cannot be referring to its stock yards and packing district. I have heard more serious discussion of what the new deal can do to the industry down here, through the operations of the AAA, than of any economic condition that threatened the packing industry's welfare in my lifetime."

The purchase of hogs by the Federal Surplus Relief corporation in Chicago, it was learned yesterday, has deprived farmers who sold the hogs of a processing tax of 50 cent a hundredweight they would have received if sold to packers. There is no processing tax on pork bought for public relief agencies. The widest spread between buyer and seller during the stalemate has been 20 cents per hundredweight.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Buys Rails; No RFC Loan

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—(AP)—M. H. Cahill, president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines said today that his railroad was placing a $350,000 order for new steel, but would not avail itself of an opportunity to finance the purchase through the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Jobs Increase 2,800,000 in Last 7 Months

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANCES PERKINS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Since workers have returned to employment in a large group of manufacturing industries and sixteen non-manufacturing industries, according to Secretary of Labor Perkins. This represents more than three billion dollars put into pay rolls in the seven month period.

For October, said Secretary Perkins, 85,000 additional workers found employment in the factories and industries surveyed and industries surveyed by the bureau of labor statistics. This increase in employment was accompanied by an estimated gain of nearly $6,000,000 in weekly wages in October over the total weekly wages disbursed in September.

The weekly pay rolls in October, the secretary of labor explained, showed a weekly increase of nearly $70,000,000 over the estimated weekly disbursements in March.

Figures by States.

State employment figures for five midwestern states giving the number of establishments reporting, number on pay roll in October, percentage of change in employment for the month, and the percentage of change in pay rolls follow:

—State—	Number Concerns Reporting.	Number on Pay Roll.	Per Ct. Change in Mo.	Per Ct. Change in Pay Roll.
Illinois	1,774	350,000	−.31	+1.9
Indiana	1,275	143,977	+2.5	+7.0
Iowa	1,201	48,544	−1.0	+3.3
Michigan	1,613	290,927	−9.2	−9.6
Wisconsin	1,525	114,290	+1.3	+3.6

The secretary declared that the increase in the purchase of agricultural implements showed that the purchasing power of the farmer had been augmented in recent months. It was apparent to her that the farmers and poorer people generally have been benefitting because mail order houses and chain store sales have gone up in excess of department store sales.

Nonfactory Jobs Up Little.

"Employment in manufacturing industries showed little change between September and October, the increase being one-tenth of one per cent over the month interval," the report stated.

"In the sixteen nonmanufacturing industries surveyed, the gains in employment in eleven of the industries more than offset the declines in the remaining five industries. Reports from retail trade establishments indicate a gain of approximately 117,000 workers in that industry between September and October.

"The wholesale trade industry showed an increase of approximately 13,000 workers, and the manufacturing and crude petroleum industries indicated an expansion of approximately 7,000 workers each. Employment gains in the power and light group were estimated at 6,000.

Survey Not Complete.

"The estimated number returned to jobs in the telephone and telegraph, electric, railroad, anthracite mining, metalliferous mining, quarrying, nonmetallic mining, and building construction industries was smaller.

"These totals do not represent the entire change in employment in the country. The industries surveyed by the bureau of labor statistics normally employ 20,000,000 of the 49,000,000 of gainful workers of the country."

SILVER FUTURES RISE; COLORADO MINES MAY OPEN

Silver futures continued on the upgrade yesterday, the strength in sterling being the dominating influence. As a result of the rapid advance which has taken place of late a number of low cost silver mines in Colorado are reported as preparing to reopen, and a 50 cent price level is expected to be followed by further mining activity in that state.

The close was .38 to .60 cents higher, with sales of 13,175,000 ounces. December finished at 45.25 cents; January, 45.35 cents; February, 45.65 cents; March, 45.95 cents; April, 46.20 cents; May, 46.40@46.45 cents; July, 46.90 cents and September, 47.40 cents.

Bar silver was ¼ cent higher at 45 cents, equaling the best figure in three years.

U. S. GOLD PURCHASES EASE; BUY ENOUGH TO "FILL SET OF TEETH"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—There was every indication of a temporary moderation in the administration's gold purchase activities today when the price at which the RFC will accept newly mined domestic gold was again fixed at $33.56, the same figure quoted yesterday and Tuesday.

Intimations were given in at least one official quarter that purchases abroad in the last 24 hours, if any, had been of little consequence.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, said this evening that he did not know whether any gold had been purchased abroad during the day, but the clear intimation was that no purchases which might in themselves radically affect the dollar's position had been executed.

One official, when asked how much gold had been purchased abroad, parried that a sufficient quantity had been accumulated to fill a set of teeth. It soon became obvious that none of the officials was prepared to break the secrecy which has guarded what actually has occurred.

No newly mined gold actually has been purchased by the RFC during the last week, it was stated, but this was due to the fact that none had been offered which had gone through the formalities necessary before it is taken over.

LEAVELL, BABB AGAIN RESERVE BANK DIRECTORS

Reëlection of James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and Max W. Babb, Milwaukee, Wis., as directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, was announced yesterday.

Mr. Leavell is a class A director and Mr. Babb, whose term runs for 3 years, beginning Jan. 1, 1934, is a class B director.

Reappointment of Eugene M. Stevens by the federal reserve board as class C director of the bank and chairman of the board was also announced. James Simpson has been renamed deputy chairman for the coming year.

NEW YORK ASKS BIDS ON ISSUE OF $70,000,000 BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—The controller of New York City announces he will receive bids Nov. 20 for an issue of $70,000,000 ¼ per cent bonds, due 1934 to 1943. This is part of the financial program agreed upon by the city and bankers several weeks ago.

Under the arrangement the banks will take the $70,000,000 bonds, and will immediately turn $35,000,000 of them over to the savings banks and insurance companies in this city. The balance will be sold to the city sinking funds and the bankers will then receive an equivalent par value of short term securities.

DAKOTA WHEAT BAN SEEMS TO BE BOOMERANG

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Modification of North Dakota's wheat embargo to permit shipment of durum wheat out of the state is expected to be proclaimed tomorrow by Gov. William Langer. Present plans call for continuing indefinitely the embargo on hard spring wheat.

It was said by officials familiar with the embargo plans that durum prices had risen to a level that made it possible for Canadian shippers to afford the forty-two cents tariff, and to compete with durum wheat of North Dakota farmers.

Germany Bars Private Debt Payment in Gold

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—"For reasons of principle," the minister of economics today prohibited the firm of Robert Bosch at Stuttgart from repaying its obligations in the United States in gold, and ordered the concern to pay in dollars.

First National of Gary to Pay Off Another 9%

A third payment of 9 per cent to depositors of the First National Bank of Gary, Ind., will be made today, David H. Jennings, receiver, announced yesterday. The distribution will bring payments so far to 41½ per cent. The bank closed in January, 1932.

Stocks Climb in Brisk Rally; Trade Grows

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—Inflation favorites led the stock market in a broad and vigorous rally in the late dealings today. Gains ranging as high as 6 and 7 points were scored by a long list of representative issues and most of the industrial group was carried to new high ground for the current movement.

Principal interest centered in the metal, repeal and oil stocks. An assortment of specialities supposed to enjoy pool sponsorship were prominent on the move.

Among the more notable price markups were those of Allied Chemical and Dye, which rose 6 points; Du Pont, which advanced 5; Hazel Atlas Glass, 7; International Business Machine, 6; Union Pacific and Owens Glass, 5; Eastman Kodak, Ingersoll Rand, Columbia Carbon and Union Bag and Paper, 4 each; Vulcan Detinning, 4⅝; National Lead, 4¼ points.

Trade Heaviest in Weeks.

Trading was the heaviest in nearly a week, with turnover mounting to around 2,580,000 shares.

While the rally was generally credited to one of the many revivals of inflationary enthusiasm that have swept over the speculative community since the dollar began to do things on the foreign exchange marts, the movement did not gain its full impetus, strangely enough, until that monetary unit had rebounded from its early low and showed signs of bigger and better things to come. The anomally gave rise to the usual speculation among the rank and file as to the possibility of some development which those in "in the know" had not yet chosen to make public property. It's the usual Wall street guess nowadays when the market goes off on a tangent without any apparent cause.

Short Side Overextended.

Technical conditions, however, undoubtedly played an important part in the turnabout, the short side having become overextended during the last few days.

Virtually every department shared strongly in the upturn, the only worthwhile exception being the utilities group. American Telephone rose about 3 points, but such issues as Public Service, Standard Gas, American Water Works and the like had to content themselves with small fractional advances. Detroit Edison went the other way for a loss of more than a point.

In the so-called repeal division, trading in some of the shares of some of the bottle making companies was particularly brisk at times.

Even the lowly motors came in for some profitable attention with Auburn, Mack Truck, Chrysler, and General Motors all improving their standings substantially.

The oils were in high favor, with Socony-Vacuum a feature. This issue rose to a new high on the movement. Talk of higher gasoline prices was a factor in enthusiasm here.

NEW BANKRUPTCY ACT IS CALLED A RELIEF MEASURE

The new section of the federal bankruptcy laws passed by congress is strictly a relief measure and actually provides for a moratorium in the payment of debts, Prof. Charles H. Kinnane of Loyola University Law school stated yesterday in a talk before the Chicago Bar association at a luncheon. Instead of providing a means of liquidating the individual holdings of debtors the new law makes it possible to withhold forced liquidation.

The law, said Prof. Kinnane, allows the debtor to avoid the stigma of bankruptcy, and if his affairs are not hopelessly involved, enables the courts to protect both him and the creditor in working them out on a basis similar to receivership.

TWO EXTRA DIVIDENDS, ONE LARGER PAYMENT ARE DECLARED IN DAY

Two extra dividends and one increased payment were included in the list of dividend actions by various organizations yesterday.

The Chesebrough Manufacturing company declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to a regular quarterly dividend of $1, both payable Dec. 30 to stock of record Dec. 8. A similar extra was paid a year ago and in each of the three preceding quarters of this year an extra payment of 50 cents was paid.

Lake Shore Mines company, Canadian gold producer, declared an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents, both payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Dec. 1. Similar extras were paid six months ago and a year ago.

Texas Gulf Sulphur company declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Dec. 1, against 25 cents in each of the three preceding quarters. The dividend is payable Dec. 14 to stock of record Dec. 1.

MANDEL TRUSTS LOSE IN RULE ON TAX DEFICIENCY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Ten stipulation judgments setting 1927 income tax deficiencies ranging from $1,152 to $65,707 against Chicago trust estates or personal incomes growing out of the sale that year of Mandel Brothers stock were returned today by the board of tax appeals.

Three judgments set deficiencies of $21,902 each against the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank of Chicago as trustee of the Fred L. Mandel trusts No. 798, No. 799, and No. 800. Original deficiencies, including 25 per cent penalties, totaling $37,966 had been assessed against each.

The highest judgment was against Robert I. Mandel trust No. 880, of which the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank of Chicago was trustee, of $65,707. The original deficiency which the trustee had appealed was $123,898.

Other deficiencies as stipulated by the board were: Estate of Simon Mandel, $9,872; Frank S. Mandel, $1,519; Belle M. Altheimer, $1,467; Leonard J. Mandel, $1,443; Mrs. Emanuel Mandel, as trustee for Frank E. and Richard H. Mandel, $1,152, and Aaron W Mandel, $2,120.

JUDGES REFUSE TO STAY HIGHER SWITCHING RATE

Federal Judges John P. Barnes and James H. Wilkerson yesterday denied a petition to suspend an order of the interstate commerce commission raising switching rates in the Chicago district so as to make them uniform with other railroad centers in the country. The rates will be increased about 15 per cent unless the United States Supreme court sets aside the order.

The petition was brought by the Illinois commerce commission and the public service commission of Indiana, the Chicago Board of Trade and the Acme Steel company, shortly after the interstate commission issued its order on July 3.

While denying the petition, Judges Barnes and Wilkerson directed the railroads involved in the case to keep an account of their increased switchshippers in the event the Supreme ing revenues for possible refund to court overruled the District judges.

Baldwin Reports October Business Ahead of 1932

New York, Nov. 16.—October bookings by Baldwin Locomotive works and subsidiaries totaled $988,000, compared with $572,000 a year ago. Bookings for the first ten months of this year aggregated $8,501,000, compared with $5,864,000 in the like 1932 period. Shipments last month amounted to $894,000, compared with $757,000 a year ago.

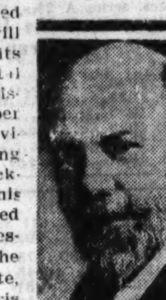
HARRIS TRUST STOCKHOLDERS GET 10% CASH

Bank Adds Capital Without RFC.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Albert W. Harris, chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, yesterday announced that the bank will add $900,000 to its present capital structure and distribute a 10 per cent cash dividend, aggregating $600,000, to stockholders. This will be effected tion of the present capital of the bank's affiliate, the N. W. Harris company, by $1,500,000 and the transfer of that amount to the bank's surplus and its stockholders.



A. W. HARRIS.
[Waters Photo.]

Under the program the bank will comply with the recommendations of the national administration for strengthening the capital structure of banks without, however, offering additional stock either to the Reconstruction Finance corporation or its present shareholders.

Favors Stockholders.

On the contrary, the stockholders will be twice blessed in that they will receive a substantial dividend instead of putting up more capital or surrendering their senior position through the sale of preferred stock to outside interests.

The distribution of $10 a share to stockholders will be made about Jan. 2. Mr. Harris said that the plan will not be declared operative unless approved by 90 per cent of the stock. Such approval is regarded as assured.

Under the terms of the new federal banking act the Harris Trust must divest itself of its interest in the N. W. Harris company whose business has been the distribution of bonds. The bank has until next July to wind up the affairs of the company which will have remaining capital of $1,500,000 when the present plan goes into effect.

Indorses Roosevelt Plan.

Mr. Harris indorsed recommendations of President Roosevelt for strengthening the capital of the banking structure.

"We believe this program should be supported for the reason that federal legislation requires the banks which are members of the federal deposit insurance fund to guarantee the deposits of other member banks, and this new liability should not be assumed unless the member banks, as a group, have large capital resources in proportion to their deposits," Mr. Harris declared.

"Under these circumstances and particularly in view of the President's request that all banks participate in the increase, we believe we should add to our present adequate capital resources.

Obligations Not Increased.

"I am particularly pleased to say that this can be done without issuing obligations which would have preference over the present stock as to earnings and dividends. As you know, the stock of the N. W. Harris company is trusteed for the benefit of our stockholders pro rata. The principal business of the company has been the distribution of bonds, but on account of recent federal legislation, it now has more capital than it needs for any business of that nature which we expect to be able to do.

"This plan seems to the officers and directors more desirable than the issuance of 'captial notes,' or the increase of our capital stock, as it does not entail any additional interest or dividend requirements at this time."

Dividend Requirements Same.

Because the $900,00 will be transferred to surplus the change will not increase the present dividend requirements on the bank's $600,000 capital stock which is now receiving 12 per cent yearly.

The addition to surplus will bring gross capital structure of the bank to $14,917,127, consisting of capital of $6,000,000 and the balance in surplus and undivided profits. The bank reported total deposits of $120,531,000 on Sept. 29, indicating a "deposit-capital ratio" of approximately 8 to 1 under the new setup. In the boom era the proper ratio was placed around 10 to 1, while recently the RFC officials have been urging 6 or 7 to 1.

Affiliate's Resources.

The Oct. 31 balance sheet of the N. W. Harris company was made public by Mr. Harris. Total resources were $3,151,882, of which $1,065,698 is in cash and due from banks; $716,180 in United States government obligations; $1,285,968 in other bonds and securities, and $84,035 in notes.

Actual market values on Oct. 31 were in excess of the book values. The only liabilities, in addition to capital and undivided profits, were $39,751 in reserves for taxes, interest and other minor liabilities. The net worth was $3,112,130. After giving effect to the capital reduction the indicated net worth will be $1,612,130. This may be later transferred to the bank's surplus or paid out to stockholders as another liquidating dividend.

Little Hope Seen to Reopen Bowmanville Bank Soon

There is little immediate prospect of reopening the Bowmanville National bank, Western and Lawrence avenues, John P. O'Shaughnessy, an attorney who has been working with a reorganization committee, stated yesterday. "Conditions are too uncertain, particularly in Washington," Mr. O'Shaughnessy said. The Bowmanville National bank closed in June, 1932. It had deposits of $1,700,000. The receiver recently paid a 10 per cent dividend to depositors, the only one since the bank closed.

Reserve Banks Halt Buying of Federal Bonds

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Following several days of declining quotations in the market for United States government bonds, the federal reserve board disclosed last night that the twelve federal reserve banks during the week ended Wednesday drastically curtailed their purchases of such bonds.

The week's purchases of "governments" by these twelve central institutions amounted to only 1½ million dollars.

Since Oct. 11 the reserve banks have been gradually scaling down their acquisitions of government bonds. Prior to that time they had been buying them at the rate of $35,000,000 a week. In the week ended Oct. 18 they scaled their purchasing down to $31,000,000. A week later they bought only $25,000,000; in the week ended Nov. 1, $20,000,000; in the week ended Nov. 8, $10,000,000.

Reserve's Rôle Discussed.

During the last week there had been many surmises as to the part the reserve banks had been playing in the government bond market as prices for such bonds steadily weakened. Some observers thought they detected strength in certain issues and figured that the reserve banks were buying more bonds. Others guessed that the declining quotations were due in part to lack of the usual buying by the reserve bank.

This turned out to be the case. The $1,500,000 of bond purchases is insignificant compared to the $35,000,000 that the central banks were buying each week for many weeks prior to Oct. 11.

The financial community was unable to account for this rather sudden withdrawal of support from the government bond market by the twelve reserve banks. Some experts interpreted it as meaning that the directors of the various reserve banks were bucking against treasury domination on the ground that additional purchases of "governments" while the administration is following a program of cheapening the dollar would be bad business for the reserve banks. At any rate, the much publicized "reflation" program has apparently dwindled down to almost nothing.

Purpose of "Reflation."

The attempt to "reflate" credit and bolster the market for government bonds was first undertaken early in the spring of 1932 under the Hoover administration. The purpose was twofold.

In the first place, the market prices for government bonds had fallen and it was believed necessary to boost the quotations by having the reserve banks step into the market and buy large quantities of "governments."

Second, the treasury authorities believed that if the twelve reserve banks would buy government bonds the member banks—commercial and savings institutions—could sell them more readily and thus realize cash which was then needed to meet depositors' demands.

The directors of the reserve banks fell in line with the treasury's wishes and bought generously for several weeks as much as one hundred million dollars a week.

Government Credit Expands.

This was publicized as a program of "reflation," or "credit expansion." The expansion, however, was all in the direction of government credit, for the reserve banks curtailed their discounts of commercial paper as they bought additional government bonds. The total amount of government bonds held by the reserve banks gradually increased more than a billion dollars to a point where now these twelve reserve banks hold more than one-tenth of the total national debt.

There was a lull for several months. Then the new Democratic administration fostered a return to the "reflation" program last summer. The reserve banks again bought large quantities of government bonds.

Recently it developed that the directors of some of the reserve banks were bucking against the treasury's plan to load them up with more and more government bonds. After the administration embarked on its scheme to cheapen the dollar by raising the price of gold some of the reserve people took the stand that further adherence to the "reflation" idea was unnecessary.

Other Changes Not Noteworthy.

Last night's reserve reports showed no other noteworthy changes in the nation's bank credit picture. Circulation of federal reserve notes declined $10,000,000 for the week and circulation of "asset" money increased only $1,000,000. Total gold reserves were off $1,000,000.

Holdings of U. S. government bonds by member banks in New York were unchanged for the week. Chicago member banks sold about $12,000,000 of "governments."

There was an indicated increase of about $6,000,000 in the gross deposits of New York member banks and no change in the deposits of Chicago member banks. Commercial loans dropped $2,000,000 in New York and increased $2,000,000 in Chicago.

Brokers' loans decreased $32,000,000 to $707,000,000.

DOLLAR RALLIES AS U. S. CURB ON FLIGHT LOOMS

Rebounds 3 Cents from New Low.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—After plunging to new depths of devaluation today, the dollar rallied more wildly than it had previously fallen, on rumors that effective measures to halt the flight of capital were about to be taken.

In terms of the franc, the dollar fell to 58.34 cents early in the day, then rallied more than 3 cents to 61.50 cents, and closed at 61.21 cents, up 1.58 cents on the day. The gyrations of the dollar were reflected in a rise of the pound sterling to $5.52, 12 cents above its previous close, followed by a fall to $5.25 and a closing quotation of $5.26, down 14 cents on the day.

The movement of the French franc was equally wild. Rising to a new high of 6.72 cents, the franc later plunged to 6.37 cents and closed at 6.40, which was .14 of a cent under the previous close. Other gold currencies followed the same path.

Canadian Dollar Rises.

The Canadian dollar, however, was an exception, being the only important currency to close higher. At its final level of 102½ cents it was up almost a cent from yesterday, but it had reacted sharply from the day's top of $1.05.

As the treasury kept the price of gold at $33.56, the dollar's comparative price in gold held at 61.59 cents. The result was a narrowing in the spread between the price in gold and price in francs from 1.04 cents to .28 of a cent.

The foreign exchange market was again disposed to ignore the action of the RFC in not changing the gold buying rate of $33.56 for the third consecutive day. Although this rate was far below the London price of gold bullion, the dollar appeared to derive no support from it. The frantic demand for sterling and other foreign exchanges which has characterized the market all week continued.

Report Curb on Dollar Flight.

Early in the afternoon, however, word began to circulate through the financial district that the exchange control of the Federal Reserve bank, under the direction of Fred I. Kent, had "clamped down" on the purchase of foreign securities by American investment trusts, banks, insurance companies, and other institutions.

Under the executive order of the President dated March 10 dealings in foreign exchange have been restricted, but a fairly wide latitude was allowed for transactions "for legitimate and normal business requirements." Organizations having funds to invest have been allowed to purchase foreign securities on the ground that "diversification" of their assets to include foreign holdings was a normal requirement of their businesses. This was particularly true of investment trusts, many of which have been heavy purchasers of foreign investments.

According to the reports prevalent today in foreign exchange circles and among bankers and investment trust officers, such purchases will no longer be allowed or will, at best, be severely restricted so as to prevent an undue proportion of assets being placed abroad.

Expect Ruling Soon.

In official quarters no direct confirmation of the ruling could be secured. It was indicated that the foreign exchange control might, in the routine process of scrutinizing exchange transactions, have refused some requests for permission to buy foreign exchange to use in acquiring foreign investments on the score that the purchase contemplated had as its real purpose a flight of capital. Nevertheless there was a strong belief in banking quarters that a definite ruling on the subject would be forthcoming shortly, probably tomorrow.

Carrying the rumors a step further, a number of bankers suggested that the move was merely a preliminary to a general ban upon all transactions making possible a flight of capital and perhaps an executive order requiring the recall of capital previously shipped abroad.

With the initial impetus for the recovery of the dollar given by this reported action of the exchange control to check the flight of capital, technical factors built up in the long previous decline accounted for the explosive character of the rally. The movement was among the wildest on record.

Foreign exchange speculators were said to have been badly "burned" by the sudden reversal in the trend of United States currency.

CONFLICT ARISES OVER TWO PEORIA LIFE RECEIVERS

Jurisdictions of Palmer and Judge Clash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 16.—A conflict over who is to be receiver for the Peoria Life Insurance company, $187,000,000 concern, arose today between Ernest Palmer, director of the state insurance department, and Circuit Judge John Niehaus, in whose court the receivership action was begun.

Meanwhile the company has two receivers, one selected by Palmer and the other designated as co-receiver along with the Palmer appointee by Judge Niehaus.

The Palmer appointee is Charles V. O'Hern, Democratic attorney, who was named by the director yesterday following a secret hearing in Judge Niehaus' chambers.

O'Hern Named First.

The receivership action was brought by Palmer and the petition was granted by Judge Niehaus, but no receiver was named immediately. Later Palmer announced that he had named O'Hern. When Judge Niehaus was notified of Palmer's action he immediately named George Shurtleff as co-receiver with O'Hern. Shurtleff is the law partner of Judge Niehaus' son.

When the two appointees appeared today to have their bonds approved, Judge Niehaus started to sign one order approving bonds for both men. Attorney O'Hern objected and asked that separate orders be entered, which the court did. The bonds were set at $100,000 each.

O'Hern's action was interpreted as indicating that Palmer will try to oust the second receiver and was keeping the record clear.

Palmer Silent on Appointment.

Palmer returned to Springfield tonight. He declined to comment on Judge Niehaus' appointment, but said he would issue a statement in Springfield tomorrow.

O'Hern is a law partner of Frank J. Quinn, Democratic boss of Peoria.

The first indication of a conflict came yesterday when the petition filed by Palmer charged gross mismanagement and irregularities in the affairs of the company. The report also charged that the laws governing life insurance companies had been violated by the investment practices of the company.

Palmer claims the authority to name his own receivers under the broad dictatorial powers over insurance matters which were voted to him by the last legislature.

RAILS' DOOR DELIVERY SERVICE HAS PROMISE; WHY TRY TO INJURE IT?

BY H. A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

After exhaustive investigation of its possibilities, the management of the Pennsylvania railroad came to the conclusion that if it could offer shippers along its lines pickup and store-door delivery of less than carload freight, a substantial tonnage now moving in trucks could be recovered by the railway. With the announcement of the plan, an invitation was extended to other railroads to establish similar service on through traffic.

In the east, the Boston and Maine and the Maine Central railroads fell in line, and in the west first the Grand Trunk Railway System and then the Erie announced this facility. The Wheeling and Lake Erie was another road to adopt this aggressive policy. The Grand Trunk acted first, on Oct. 28, when it published its tariff effective Dec. 1.

Other railroads, not in accord with the plan, are apparently preparing petitions to the interstate commerce commission to suspend the plan of the Grand Trunk, Pennsylvania and others. It will be recalled that a similar situation developed when the New York Central and other lines announced special rates for traffic in container cars. After a series of hearings this facility emerged from the altercation with so many conditions attached to its operation as to seriously impair its usefulness. It is to be hoped that the present forward step will not suffer a similar fate.

It is somewhat difficult to understand in such instances why legal machinery should be available that enables one group of railroads to enforce its ideas upon another.

GRAIN EXCHANGES ASK 'HOME RULE' UNDER NEW CODE

Revised Plan Gives U. S. Supervision, However.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Seeking to avoid severe federal regulation, the nation's grain exchanges today proposed a revised code of fair competition submitting them to rigid governmental supervision, but retaining broad administrative authority to themselves.

Redrafted three times after Farm Administrator George N. Peek refused to accept previous versions, the code, as submitted today, appeared at least partly satisfactory to officials of the AAA. Secretary Wallace assigned Nov. 27 for a public hearing on its provisions, in accordance with the national recovery act.

Provisions of Code.

The new version of the code provides for the retention of minimum margin requirements with certain exceptions, on all exchanges; calls for the continuation, at least for the present, of daily price fluctuation limits now in force for individual grains and grants the exchanges the authority to limit open contracts at any time.

The code retains to the exchanges, however, authority to revise or abolish fluctuation limits at any time, subject to approval of the secretary of agriculture, and grants them virtually unlimited power to regulate the limitation of open contracts and raising of margin requirements above the minimums fixed in the code.

Margin Schedules.

These minimum margin requirements, as stipulated in the pact, are as follows:

"Minimum margins for all open future contracts [excepting those mentioned in subparagraphs [A], [B], and [C]] for aggregate purchases or aggregate sales of any one grain for any one customer shall be 10 per cent of the market price on open contracts for 250,000 bushels or less; on open contracts for over 250,000 bushels, but less than 2,000,000 bushels, 10 per cent of the market price of the first 250,000 bushels and 15 per cent of the market price of the remainder; on open contracts for over 2,000,000 bushels, 10 per cent of the market price of the first 250,000 bushels, 15 per cent of the market price of the next 1,750,000 bushels and 20 per cent of the market price of the remainder."

Exceptions Are Made.

The exceptions to these requirements are hedging trades, spreading trades and "trades in grain futures on any exchange not exceeding 2,000,000 bushels to the extent that such trades are offset by future trades in another grain or in provisions on the same or another exchange."

The code calls for the submission of books and records of all financial transactions to the secretary of agriculture at any time he requests them for purposes of ascertaining the extent to which the code is being observed.

The grain committee on national affairs is designated to appoint a committee of seven members to be known as "the code supervisory committee," to administer the code, subject to "review, disapproval, and regulation" by the secretary of agriculture.

The code fixes a maximum work week of 40 hours for exchange employés receiving less than $35 a week. Minimum wages range from $16 a week in cities of 2,000,000 population to $12 in towns of less than 2,500.

WHEAT PRICE RISES 2 CENTS; TRADE ERRATIC

Corn, Oats and Rye Share General Gains.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders placed a bullish construction on yesterday's monetary developments, but there was comparatively little buying attributed to the flight from the dollar. It is felt that capital is seeking safety in sterling and francs rather than in domestic commodities.

Grain price changes were extremely erratic yesterday. Wheat advanced around 1 cent in the early trading, only to break 2 cents from the top. It rallied rapidly in the later trading and closed at the top, with net gains of 1⅞ to 2 cents. December was 91 to 91⅛ cents and May, 94⅝ to 94¾ cents at the last.

Strength in Stocks Helps.

Late strength in stocks had considerable influence on all grains. Corn was up 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents for the day, with May closing at 55⅜ to 55½ cents. Oats gained ⅝ to 1⅛ cents, May being 38⅞ to 39 cents. Rye closed 1⅛ to 1¾ cents higher at 68½ cents for May. Barley was ⅛ to ¼ cent lower, the May future being 52½ cents.

Fairly liberal buying credited to a large eastern operator helped along the late upturn in wheat, and there was also some buying which pit brokers regarded as for local account.

The sharp changes in foreign exchange rates result in rapid fluctuations in both the Canadian and European grain markets. A good part of the upturn of 2¼ to 3 cents per bushel in Liverpool wheat for the day was due to the fact conversion from English to American funds was made on the basis of $5.48 for sterling, compared with $5.35 when the former closed on Wednesday. Winnipeg was up 1 to 1⅛ cents in Canadian and around 1⅝ cents in American funds.

Canada Sells Wheat Abroad.

Both the United Kingdom and the continent bought Canadian cash wheat yesterday, with sales abroad estimated at 1,250,000 bushels. Harvesting was reported as making rapid progress in Argentina and the exportable surplus is now estimated at the same to slightly under the 164,000,000 bushels available last year.

A sale of 21,000 bushels white corn was reported by a Chicago interest yesterday, making the second lot of this variety which has been sold abroad in the last week or so.

A cargo of 239,000 bushels of Hungarian rye arrived at Chicago yesterday and is being unloaded. Further receipts are anticipated shortly. A cargo of 221,000 bushels rye cleared from Danubian ports for the United States during the last week, making the total for the season around 850,000 bushels.

WHEAT ACREAGE CUT BASED ON 3 YEAR AVERAGE

The 15 per cent wheat acreage cut sought by the government is not a 15 per cent reduction from the 1933 crop acreage as many persons seem to suppose but a 15 per cent reduction from the average yearly acreage planted during the base period. The base period is the acreage planted for the crops of 1930, 1931 and 1932, which is nearly 5 per cent higher than the acreage planted for the 1933 crop. The foregoing explanation was made yesterday by N. C. Murray, of Clement, Curtis & Co.

The average planted acreage in the base period was about 64,100,000 acres, of which 42,500,000 was fall sown, and 21,600,000 spring sown. The government's estimate of acreage sown last fall for the 1933 crop was 39,902,000 acres, or about 6 per cent less than in the base period.

The acreage planted to spring wheat this year has not been published by the government, but its estimate of spring wheat acreage standing on July 1 was 18,077,000, or 16 per cent less than the base acreage.

BUYERS, SELLERS REFUSE TO BUDGE IN HOG DISPUTE

Prices of All Live Stock Continue to Ease.

There was practically no change yesterday in the difficult situation in the hog market which has been created by a deadlock over prices between buyers and sellers. Trading remained at a standstill again, except in the packing sows and underweights, which were bought at 10 to 15 cents decline. Both sellers and buyers stuck to their guns.

Commission men asked $4.60 for the bulk of the supply, while packing houses cite the recent sharp losses in the wholesale market for fresh pork in demanding that prices for the live hogs be cut. They continued to bid mostly around $4.25 and occasionally up to $4.35. One of the small city butchers bought one lot at $4.55.

Sellers Maintain Stand.

Despite the fact that sellers were carrying about 35,000 good to choice grades of hogs, after directs to packers had been deducted and the sows and underweights had been sold out of the receipts, they showed no signs that they intended to change the stand they took a week ago. It was hoped that the relief corporation would come to their rescue as the surplus continued to pile up, but at a late hour the government buyers said they had no hint from Washington that the government would continue in the market.

Should the government buy the holdover of hogs this week, as it did last, it will have purchased about 80,000 hogs, most of which will have been slaughtered.

It is on the contention that such orders would arrive that sellers are basing their demands, since packers have repeatedly declared that the condition of the pork trade does not warrant heavy buying of hogs even at the prices they are offering for the crop. They call attention to the government report of yesterday quoting the top grades of pork loins at 11 cents per pound, of 2½ cents since Monday of this week and 5 cents lower than late last month.

Cuts Into Pork Demand.

The glutted condition of the beef trade is cutting into the demand for pork which has been suffering from the competition of beef for some time.

Labor unrest in the packing industry at some outside points is being watched closely as a possible new problem for the selling side, it was learned yesterday. Packing plants at Pittsburgh are tied up by strikers. A strike of 1,700 Armour & Co. employés at St. Paul was called yesterday after the packing plant officials refused demands for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour.

A heavier increase in the receipts of hogs was reported at all leading markets. The combined total at 11 points for the first four days of this week at 418,000 compare with 296,000 a week ago and with 356,000 a year ago.

Cattle Continue Decline.

Cattle met another demoralized market yesterday. Heavy beeves were particularly draggy. They are $1.00 lower than a week ago and at the lowest point for this time of year since 1903. Yesterday's sales of beef steers indicated reductions of $1.50 to $2.50 and top grades as much as $2.75 decline compared with a year ago.

Steers averaging 1,690 pounds sold down to $3.25. Numerous sales of $3.00 cattle are found, while some light steers of beef merit are going as low as $2.75, and thin, off color stock down to $2.00. The bulk of sales of beef steers ranged from $3.50 to $5.00. A year ago only off color, low grade cattle were selling under $4.00. A shipment of fancy 931 pound mixed steers and heifers at $6.10 established the extreme top. Calves are down to the lowest price level for this century.

Competition of poultry has been a depressing factor in the wholesale market for both lamb and veal lately. Receipts of lambs were light yesterday and packers advanced their bids mostly 25 cents, in face of the sluggish condition of the markets for other live stock. The scant supply cleared quickly at the advance.

Partial Strike at St. Paul.

South St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Approximately 13,000 unsold hogs were at the local market tonight with two large agencies refusing to dispose of them at prevailing prices. During the day 8,000 hogs were sold by others at a top price of $3.90.

N. K. Carnes, general manager of one of the striking agencies, said he had communicated with Washington and urged federal purchasing to help the market. He asserted he thus far had received little encouragement that this would be done. Carnes asserted packers bid only $3.90 for top hogs, "but we feel we are entitled to $4.15 in view of the $4.60 quotation on the Chicago market."

LARD TRADERS GO SLOW; PRICES STEADY OR LOWER

Lard traders were influenced by the unsettled condition in sterling and the fluctuations in the American dollar, combined with the deadlock in the hog market. Trading was fair, but the tendency was to go slow.

Lard prices moved within a narrow range and the close on old style contracts was unchanged to 2½ cents lower, weakness being in the near deliveries. New style contracts were generally 2½ cents lower, except January which was unchanged. Cash lard was unchanged for regular at 6.15 cents, with loose lard steady at 5.87½ cents, and leaf 25 cents lower at 5.87½ cents.

Trade in belly futures was narrow, with prices unchanged except for a loss of 2½ cents on new style December. Cash bellies were unchanged at 6 cents.

U. S. NOW BUYING IN CORN MARKET FOR RELIEF USE

Purchase of 200,000 Bu. Reported So Far.

Government buying of cash corn for distribution through the federal relief organization has started and purchases of about 200,000 bushels are reported so far. The grain was bought at Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota and a few other points for shipment to drought stricken farmers in the northwest, west and southwest.

The purchase of corn marks the entrance of the relief agency into another commodity and the purchases, it is said, may continue all winter.

Wheat Purchase Large.

Recent official reports indicated between 11,000,000 and 12,000,000 bushels of wheat had been bought. This total is equal to more than 2,500,000 barrels of flour.

The large amount of various agricultural products bought or yet to be purchased for distribution under the government's relief program is expected to become a big factor in the markets. In addition to the purchases of wheat and corn, large quantities of butter and pork have been bought in the leading markets, and it was recently announced another 300,000,000 pounds of pork products would be taken.

Feed Shortage in West.

Official reports from North Dakota have indicated a decided shortage of hay and feed for live stock in that state, with farmers unable to buy feedstuffs.

Thirty-two carloads of wheat out of the 5,500,000 bushels alloted by the emergency relief administration have been shipped to 17 counties in drought stricken counties in Kansas to be used for live stock feed. It is said shipments will also be made into Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, the Dakotas, and Wisconsin.

COTTON TRADE NERVOUS; PRICES AVERAGE HIGHER

Buying of December cotton by spot houses was an important feature in creating nervousness. Operations were said to be for foreign account, large users of cotton in England and other countries taking advantage of the cheapness of the American dollar compared with their own money to secure liberal quantities.

At the close futures in Chicago were 13 to 19 points net higher and other markets up 12 to 17 points, New York leading in strength. Spot markets were up 15 points, New York at 10.40 cents; New Orleans, 10.10 cents; Houston and Galveston, 10.05 cents. Liverpool was higher.

FARM PROGRAM SEEN AS RAISING FAMINE THREAT

Snow Tells Possibility of Crop Shortage.

The program of farm relief now in process of consummation by the federal government, to reduce crop acreage, may be "flirting with famine," according to B. W. Snow, noted grain analyst and crop reporter of Chicago, in an article appearing in the December issue of the Farm Journal.

Snow's conviction is based upon the fact that acreage is only one element in production and is a minor element in comparison with the effects of weather, sunshine and rainfall.

Cites Kansas Crop As Example.

The wheat crop in Kansas is cited as an example. In 1931 there was seeded in Kansas 12,800,000 acres to wheat and the crop totalled 239 million bushels. In 1932 with nearly 12 million acres sown the crop was only 106 million bushels. This year, Snow points out, with a seeded acreage of 11,400,000 acres, the crop is only 57 million bushels in Kansas.

"Between 1931 and 1933 there was an acreage decrease of 1,400,000 acres, or 11 per cent," states Snow, "but there was a crop decrease of 182 million bushels or 76 per cent. Acreage reduction would account for 21 million bushels, while weather was responsible for 161 million more."

Again, in South Dakota, this year the seeded acreage was 13 per cent less, while the shrinkage . . crop production was 45 million bushels, or 91 per cent.

How Shortage Occurs.

"Food shortage is never anticipated a year ahead," Snow declares. "It develops out of a combination of circumstances which cannot be foretold, but which occur in any year. It occurred last year, and no one can guarantee it will not recur in the next.

"Indeed, there are already clear indications that a repetition is in the making. Records for the last forty years show that the vast crop area immediately west of the 100th Meridian, representing a third of our wheat acreage, is largely dependent for its wheat crop upon the rainfall of July, August and September before seeding. Records this year shoy a deficiency of rainfall in this critical period and already a large percentage of the area seeded has either failed to sprout or has sproutd and died for lack of soil moisture."

Snow says that these and other factors lead him to "emphasize that we are headed toward importation of bread next year."

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES UP AFTER EARLY REACTION

Slight gains were recorded by butter and egg futures on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday, improved buying at the close carrying the markets up from early reactions.

Eggs were steady at the opening but dropped back later. The daily four market report showed only 1,900 cases more out of storage than last year, which proved disappointing. It is held a much heavier movement is needed due to the larger supplies on hand. Receipts of fresh eggs continue light.

Butter was again quiet with light trading. Buyers have had no encouragement lately and sellers are watching government buying of fresh butter. Production was reported 9.5 per cent greater than last year and storage withdrawals were 400,000 pounds less than last year.

Sales: butter, 76 cars; eggs, 82 cars. Deliveries: butter, 2 cars; eggs, 11 cars. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was steady today, closing 3 points net higher on covering and local buying of May, promoted by the sharp rally in stocks, firmer crude oil, and firmness of grain. Sales were thirty-one contracts, including fourteen switches. Bleachable spot, nominal; December closed, 4.82c; January, 4.96c; March, 5.14c; May, 5.32c.

EASTERN ROADS CUT RATES 25 PCT. ON RELIEF GOODS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—A reduction of $20,000,000 in railway charges for the movement of relief supplies was ratified at a meeting of the eastern presidents' conference today. It was understood that like action was taken in the southeast and west.

At the request of Harry L. Hopkins, head of the federal emergency relief administration, a committee appointed by the Association of Railway Executives agreed at a meeting in Washington this week to a reduction of 25 per cent in rates charged for relief shipments, which will consist chiefly of flour and other foodstuffs. At regular rates, it is estimated the transportation charges of these shipments would be $80,000,000.

The New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, and Lehigh Valley were represented at the meeting. Roads not represented will be asked to vote formally on the rate reduction.

Waco Aircraft Has Profit in 9 Months; Loss Year Ago

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Waco Aircraft company of Troy, O., reports net profit of $113,307 for the nine months ended Sept. 30. This is equal to 78 cents a share on the capital stock, and contrasts with net loss of $35,906 for the corresponding period of 1932.

SOLUTION TO A QUESTION OF FORGERY

Hollock said that he had learned just enough to write his name; that he thought there are twenty-four letters in the alphabet, and while his language was that of an uneducated man he used the word "ampersand."

Relatively few educated people know its meaning which is the character or mark for "and."

&: This is an ampersand.

Fordney knew, therefore, that Hollock was acting.
